TRAPPED YANKS OPEN NEW DRIVE

Wage-Price Curbs Termed Inevitable

ESA Asks GM, Ford To Defer Price Boosts

Drastic Steps Loom, Truman Aides Say

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Influential White House officials said tonight that eventual price and wage controls are inevitable.

The date of their imposition, they said, depends primarily on the time required to set up the necessary administrative machinery.

These men, who are in daily contact with President Truman but who cannot be named, said there is no question that drastic steps will have to be taken to meet the new crisis arising out of the Chinese Communist invasion of Korea and its threat of a possible third world war.

A reporter questioned key presidential aides after Stephen T. Early, acting White House press secretary, said at a news conference there has been "broad general discussion" of an emergency proclamation, but that no decision has been made.

Speedy Action Not Expected

Early, pinch hitting as secretary because of the sudden death of Presidential Secretary Charles Ross, emphasized his belief that no decision is imminent.

Later, other White House officials said they did not expect action quickly because of the immensity of the problem of enforcement.

"It will take a small army of men to enforce price controls," one of them said. "It is a step that no one likes to take."

Meantime, the government took two moves today to hold down prices:

1. The Economic Stabilization Administration asked General Motors and Ford to suspend auto price increases announced this week, and requested other motor car makers to withhold and contemplated price boosts.

2. The Senate and House passed bills to prolong rent controls. The Senate bill would extend them for 60 days beyond Dec. 31, the House bill for 90 days. Differences will be ironed out in conference.

In Detroit, General Motors and Ford said the government's hold-the-line requests had not yet been received. Both declined comment.

Balance Needed, McGrath Says

There are differences of opinion within the administration over the advisability of "across the board" price controls as against selective controls, growing primarily out of the cost and personnel required for administration.

Whatever wage controls may ultimately be agreed upon will be in the nature of wage "stabilization," informants said. They did not define the term.

Virtually all White House officials, questioned as to the prospects of an emergency proclamation, agreed that the administration already has ample authority to act in both the price and wage stabilization fields under legislation passed this year.

Attorney General McGrath said tonight the government must strike a fine balance between too many and too few economic controls in the current period of military preparedness.

At the same time he recommended that the production of materials for both military and civilian needs be spread out to include both large and small business.

AWAITS SENTENCE — Harry Gold (above), 39, Swiss-born Philadelphia chemist who has admitted delivering atomic secrets to Russian agents, will be sentenced tomorrow. Yesterday, the government demanded that Gold be sentenced to 25 years in prison. (AP Wirephoto)

Move To Censure Acheson Planned By GOP Senators

Ives' Resolution Asks Replacement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders talked tonight of offering a resolution of censure against Secretary of State Acheson. Earlier in the day they had referred to the GOP rank and file a proposed party call for his replacement.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen he will report to the conference of all 43 GOP senators next week on his study of the possibility of asking the Senate to (1) censure Acheson, (2) withdraw its Jan. 18, 1949 approval of his nomination or (3) to go on record for impeachment of the secretary. The House must take the initiative in impeachment cases.

Obviously taking the view that the latter two courses were impractical, Bridges said there is a possibility that a censure resolution might be offered.

That would give the whole Senate a chance to make its views known on Acheson, whereas a resolution drafted by Sen. Ives (R-NY), asking for Acheson's resignation or replacement, would be voted upon only by the Republican caucus.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee, headed by Sen. Taft of Ohio, decided at a morning meeting to check the Ives resolution up to the conference.

Bridges predicted that something in the nature of the Ives proposal would be approved by "all but two or three" Republican senators. Acheson has been the target of Republican attacks on charges that he "bungled" in handling Far Eastern affairs and thus paved the way for the Korean war.

Woman, 75, Posts Bond For Browder

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Earl Browder, former No. 1 American Communist, got out of jail today when a slight, 75-year-old woman stepped forward and posted $1,500 bond for him.

The woman identified herself to reporters as Miss Margaret Shipman. She said she is a retired school teacher who formerly lived in Lee, Mass.

Browder had been in jail since last Friday because he did not produce bail on a contempt of Congress charge. He said before going to jail that he had no resources, and would not ask anyone to put up bond for him. But, he added, he would accept bond if any one volunteered.

'Ike' Puts Young Men On Notice

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said here today that the U. S. may find it necessary to put "all of our young men back in uniform" because rulers of aggressor nations have decided that all free people of the world are their enemies.

Eisenhower spoke before more than 20,000 troops of the 43rd Infantry Division and other units in training here.

Already, Eisenhower said, the nation has found it necessary "to put some" young men in uniform. All, he added, may be called.

"Your newspapers look discouraging and there is black news," Eisenhower said on a Pearl Harbor day visit here with Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army field forces.

"We cry for peace and there is no peace. But remember this: You are members of a free country. A United States united in spirit, aware of its task and determined to do it, is the strongest force on earth."

Austin Says U. N. Will Not Bow To Force

Crisis In Korea Is Voted Priority

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 7 (AP)—Warren R. Austin today warned Communist China and its backer, the Soviet Union, that the United Nations will not bow to mighty force in Korea. The chief U. S. delegate called on the U. N. to demand the withdrawal of Communist aggressors from Korea and to pass a moral judgment against aggression anywhere in the world.

"If those who are challenging the United Nations believe that we will give up our principles because they threaten us with mighty force, let them know that they are tragically mistaken," Austin told the grave-faced members of the U. N. Assembly's Political Committee.

Crisis Voted Priority

He spoke after the committee voted down strong objections from Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky and put the Korean crisis ahead of all business. The vote was 42 to 5 (Soviet bloc).

"The United Nations will not swerve from its principles," Austin continued. "We will not give up our settled purpose to make Korea free and independent. We will not yield in our considered decision to make aggression impossible through this United Nations organization."

Austin's speech to the committee opened the tensely expected committee debate on the undeclared war in Korea and topped a fast moving day in the U. N.

No Answer To Peace Plea

The 13 Asian and Middle East sponsors of a peace appeal disclosed they have had no word from Peiping and they do not know when or if they will get an answer to their plea for the Red Chinese to stop at the 38th parallel. They held a brief huddle here and decided to meet from time to time to continue their efforts for peace. Two other countries, Turkey and Thailand, sat in this morning. It was said they did not join in the first appeal because of their forces fighting in Korea.

Vishinsky and delegates of White Russia, Soviet Ukraine, Poland and Czechoslovakia fought hard to put the Korean issue at the bottom of the committee work sheet. When they failed, Red China's envoy, Wu-Hsiu-Chuan, walked out of the committee room.

Gold To Learn Fate Tomorrow

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (AP)—The government demanded today that Harry Gold be sentenced to 25 years in prison for espionage. U. S. District Judge James P. McGranery delayed sentence until Saturday.

Gold, 39-year-old research chemist who has admitted delivering atomic secrets to Russian agents, sat quietly in his seat as U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleeson recommended the prison term. Gold pleaded guilty to espionage charges and faces a maximum sentence of death.

A crowd which filled the small courtroom to capacity listened with avid interest to the arguments presented by Gleeson and Gold's court-appointed attorney, John D. M. Hamilton, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Haggard and obviously depressed, the meek little Gold for the most part listened impassively to the lawyers. Twice, when Hamilton was recounting his early life, tears filled his eyes. He bit his lips to keep from crying. After the hearing he was led quietly back to his prison cell.

Shopgirl Is Found Dead In Danish Official's Suite

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—A strawberry blonde sales clerk was found dead early today in the Gold Coast apartment of a Danish vice consul where she apparently gambled with death to test his love.

She was Mrs. Marion Herben, attractive 27-year-old cosmetics clerk in a department store. She was estranged from her husband.

Police Lt. John Leabeater said he believes she swallowed sleeping tablets and curled up on a couch to be saved or left to die after Jorn Ahlers, 32, Danish vice consul in Chicago went out with another woman.

Ahlers said he called a doctor and police when he returned home about 1:30 a. m. (CST), but Mrs. Herben never regained consciousness.

Leabeater said Ahlers made a statement that he had known Mrs. Herben for about a year and that she sometimes remained overnight in his apartment.

The officer said he believes Mrs. Herben had found another woman visiting Ahlers in his apartment, wrote a long note and then swallowed the sleeping pills and lay down fully dressed after Ahlers departed.

The note reproached Ahlers for his attentions to another woman and expressed fears he might have eloped with her "or decided in some way to declare your love."

Naval Blockade Of China Coast Is Considered

Crisis Conference May Wind Up Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee met for a fifth time today, and were reported to be near an agreement on a broad program to deal with Communist aggression anywhere in the world.

The White House said the crisis conference probably would end tomorrow after a morning session.

The President and the British leader talked over "broad aspects of the present world situation" at a session which lasted one hour and 20 minutes today, the White House said.

While no details were made public, informed officials reported the President and Mr. Attlee already had decided on five steps their governments should take to curb Communist threats. A sixth, which involves a possible naval blockade of the Communist Chinese coast, was reported still under discussion.

Will Issue Communique

The United States was reported pressing for such a move. But Attlee and his advisors were reported somewhat reluctant to adopt such measures for fear of touching off a global war in the Orient. Attlee was reported willing, however, to consider the suggestion in an effort to work out a joint British-American move.

The White House said a joint British-American communique is to be made public when the final meeting ends some time tomorrow.

The five main points on which the President and Attlee are firmly agreed during their crisis talks thus far are:

1. The United States and Britain are ready to negotiate a settlement to end the Korean fighting but not at the cost of "appeasement" of the Communists.

2. Western Europe's defenses must be rebuilt at a far quicker pace and a supreme commander—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower—named within a week or 10 days.

Tighten Export Controls

3. Britain and the United States will tighten drastically their export controls to choke off any shipments of strategic materials to Russia and her European satellites.

4. United Nations land, sea and air forces will continue to fight on against Chinese Communist forces in Korea unless forced to evacuate. There will be no voluntary withdrawal as a means of saving manpower for use in other theaters.

5. Both countries will try to work out some international arrangement which will assure western countries a steady flow of raw materials needed for military and civilian output.

Temporary Extension Of Rent Controls Voted By Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — Congress voted today for a temporary extension of federal rent controls. The Senate favored 60 days, the House 90. The difference will have to be adjusted in conference before the legislation is signed by President Truman.

The Senate passed its bill first, by a vote of 55 to 28. House passage came on a 221 to 152 roll call an hour later.

Under the present rent law, the controls are due to go off at the end of this month except in communities which specifically vote to keep them until next June 30.

Republicans Protest

President Truman asked for a 90-day extension of the automatic decontrol feature, to give the new Congress which meets in January time to look over the rent situation in the light of changed conditions caused by the Korean war and the big rearmament drive. The Senate bill would keep the controls on through February, the House bill through March.

Republicans in both houses protested ineffectively that continuation of the controls is unjustified.

Sen. Taft of Ohio attacked it in the Senate, and managed to muster 25 fellow Republicans and two Democrats — Byrd of Virginia and Connally of Texas — on his side. But 43 Democrats and 12 Republicans teamed up to put the legislation across.

On the House showdown 190 Democrats, 30 Republicans and one American-Laborite lined up for the bill. Opposed were 33 Democrats and 119 Republicans.

Conferees To Meet

Opponents of the legislation in both chambers argued that it is unfair to impose ceilings on the prices landlords charge as long as prices and wages in general go unregulated.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) told the House that government statistics show that rents have risen less than almost any other important cost of living item.

"There is no economic justification for this bill," he said. "It is sponsored by those who want to keep controls for controls' sake."

Senate and House conferees will meet tomorrow in an effort to reconcile the Senate and House versions of the legislation.

Appeals Court Upholds Alger Hiss Conviction

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — The perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, former high State Department official, was upheld unanimously today by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The 46-year-old Hiss, who served as an adviser to President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference, commented:

"I reaffirm my innocence and have instructed by counsel to take all further steps necessary to establish it."

This indicated the case would be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Hiss has been free in $10,000 bail since being sentenced last January to five years in prison for denying he gave government secrets to Whittaker Chambers, prewar Soviet spy ring courier.

Nationalist-U. N. Invasion Of China Favored By Chiang

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek said today he favors an invasion of the Chinese mainland by his own Nationalist forces from Formosa, "with coordinated action from the United Nations naval and air forces."

Chiang was replying to a series of questions asked him by Radio Commentator Robert Montgomery. He said an invasion by his troops would meet a "concerted response" from 1,500,000 guerrillas in China and also would rally "many troops now under Communist control."

Montgomery announced Chiang's answers on his Pearl Harbor Day program over the American Broadcasting Co.'s network.

D.C. Bank Robbed Of Over $35,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — Three men wearing colored silk handkerchiefs for masks today held up a new bank in an exclusive residential section of Washington and got away with $35,000 to $40,000.

No shots were fired; nobody was hurt. It was the Spring Valley branch of the National Metropolitan Bank — victim of the second big bank robbery in Washington this year.

The trio, with soft gray hats pulled low over their eyes, struck at mid-day when the bank was empty of customers. They walked in, pulled out pistols and barked: "This is a stickup."

Manager Francis P. Hildebrand, who gave the estimate of the loss, was forced to open the vault. A robber scooped bundles of currency into a shopping bag. Four other employes, and a customer who entered while the holdup was in progress, were forced to lie on the floor.

The men ran out. Nobody saw them leave the bank, opened last August in Northwest Washington near the Maryland state line.

The robbery bore similarities to the holdup of the Shepherd Park branch of the Hamilton National Bank here last February when three men escaped with $28,000.

Plunges To Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — An unidentified man plunged to his death late today from the 70th floor observation roof of the RCA building in Rockefeller Center.

His body landed in 50th Street between Rockefeller Plaza and the Avenue of the Americas, eight feet from the curb.

Destructive Gales Sweep Eastern U. S.

[By The Associated Press]

December loosed another flurry of climatic blows Thursday that caused destructive gales in the East, a freeze in the South and cold and deep snow in the Midwest.

Terrific winds swept through Erie, Pa., smashing department store windows and ripping down signs. The blow reached 50 miles an hour in the business district. Gusts of 91 miles an hour were recorded at the airport. All scheduled air flights were cancelled.

Blimp Torn From Moorings

A commercial blimp was torn from its moorings at the East Pittsburgh airport. Damage was estimated at $70,000. The wind reached a rate of 60 miles an hour. Rain accompanied the big blow.

High winds accompanied by rain and snow downed power lines and toppled trees in West Virginia. Temperatures plunged toward a forecasted 20 degrees after afternoon readings in the 50's. Several mines in the Welch, W. Va., area were disabled because of power failure, and at Morgantown, winds caused $5,000 damages to a concrete block plant.

In Maryland, rain, sleet and winds up to 60 miles an hour were recorded. Chesapeake Bay shipping was hampered by the storms and at Frederick, the gale unroofed homes and knocked out power lines.

Cold Wave In South

The gale was the third in the East in two weeks. The Washington Weather Bureau said winds of 40 to 55 miles an hour would flay Pennsylvania, Western New York, Delaware, Maryland, East and Central Virginia and Eastern New York and New Jersey.

A cold wave rolled across the South. Freezing weather extended to the Gulf of Mexico. Water froze in Mobile, Ala., on the Gulf while a thaw caused some melting snow in Duluth, Minn., nearly 1,500 miles to the north.

Truman At Ross Rites

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Truman today attended the funeral of his late press secretary and boyhood friend, Charles G. Ross.

The President, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, drove to the Ross home in Kenwood, Md., for the private services.

Mrs. Rosenberg Will Confront Witnesses

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) today ordered a face-to-face meeting between Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg and three witnesses in the investigation of pro-Communist charges against her.

Mrs. Rosenberg was recently named by President Truman to a $15,000-a-year post as assistant secretary of defense in charge of manpower.

Russell said the three witnesses, whose names were not disclosed, will be asked to confront Mrs. Rosenberg tomorrow at a closed-door session of the Senate Armed Service Committee.

Liz Taylor Returns Home To Mother Following Spat

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7 (AP) — The short, stormy marriage of luscious Liz Taylor and Nick Hilton took its worst turn today as she went home to mother.

No one could tell whether this meant an end to the legendary match.

The brunette beauty said only this:

"It is true that we have parted temporarily. We hope to work things out."

Her mother and father disappeared. Hilton vanished on a "ten-day business trip" for his father, Hotel Magnate Conrad Hilton.

Nick Hilton played golf today at the El Paso, Tex., Country Club, where he told reporters:

"What they say out on the coast is true, I guess, but I don't want to make any comment. I came to El Paso for some hunting and golfing."

A spokesman for her studio said the couple had engaged in "a spat" and she moved in with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor. The spokesman called it "just one of those things" and predicted a reconciliation.

But Hollywood wondered how much more strain the union could take. Trouble began shortly after the glamor-filled wedding in Beverly Hills last May 6.

10,000 Leave Koto In Push For Hungnam

Denied Air Cover Due To Snowstorm

TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 8 (AP) — Trapped U. S. Marines and infantrymen today opened a new escape drive in Northeast Korea against Chinese Reds blocking a mountain-walled road to the coast.

The estimated 10,000 Americans pushed out of Koto toward the port of Hungham, 45 road miles away, in a snowstorm which denied them vital air cover.

At 1:55 p.m. (11:55 p.m. Thursday EST), Gen. MacArthur's public information officer said the tank-led convoy had covered five of the long miles and reached the edge of the reservoir plateau.

They had battled the eight miles into Koto from the Changjin reservoir yesterday—a bloody, 25-hour action, covered by planes despite a blizzard.

Today, while U. S. First Division Marines and U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen drove south out of Koto, a task force of the U. S. Third Division pushed north in an effort to link up and clear the way.

The Chinese were known to be concentrating troops on ridges below Koto, prepared to make the Americans fight for every mile. Falling snow screened the enemy's reinforcement efforts.

Jets Engage In Dogfights

Overcast prevented fighters and bombers from taking off on the northeast side to cover today's breakout attempt. Yesterday carrier-based planes of the U. S. Navy alone killed more than 1,300 Reds in support of the push down to Koto.

Russian-built MIG-15 jets appeared over the reservoir area today for the first time. They were engaged in dogfights by American jets which flew in from bases in Western Korea where the weather was better.

In Northwest Korea, the U. S Eighth Army manned a new 70-mile defense wall—positions in depth keyed to ridge positions—between Pyongyang and the 38th parallel. Patrols today reported no contact with the Reds along the Taedong River just south of Pyongyang.

Advance elements of the U. S. 25th Division held positions within five miles of Red-occupied Pyongyang.

The Reds appeared to be regrouping and massing their front echelons of a 1,000,000-man Army.

The U. S. Eighth Army's new front in the west runs from Koksan in Central Korea to the Yellow Sea port of Chinnampo.

The east-west line passes about 25 miles south of Pyongyang, North Korean Communist capital abandoned by the Allies in their fallback from positions once only 40 to 50 miles short of the Manchurian border.

Precedent Is Broken

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur announced the new Allied line Thursday. It was an unprecedented advance identification of Allied positions.

Positions usually are not disclosed until the enemy attacks. The Reds have not yet struck at the new U. S. Eighth Army defense line.

The 70-mile arching front, the spokesman said, is not a solid line but a defense-in-depth-strong positions on commanding heights.

An estimated 100,000 Chinese Reds are facing the new U. N. front. Some 80,000 reserves are right behind the Communist attack echelon and hundreds of thousands more are grouping farther north in Korea and Manchuria.

To meet this overwhelming force, the Allies have something less than the 110,000 men they had when they began to withdraw before a crushing Communist counteroffensive late in November.

UMT Advocated By Educators

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 7 (AP) — Universal military training and service for teen-aged youths was advocated today by the Association of American Universities.

The educators, warning of "high-level tension for the next decade," said the "military strength of the United States may be a vital factor in the prevention of global war."

The request was contained in a 1,200-word resolution adopted by 23 of the 37 members of the association Monday in New York City. It was released here by Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the University of Missouri and the AAU.

Under the proposal, males would start service upon reaching the age of 18 or completion of high school, whichever is later. They must start service not later than the age of 19.

Singer Slashed; Actress Is Held

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7 (AP)—Billy Daniels, high-priced negro night club singer, was gashed with a butcher knife today in a wild fight in a Hollywood actress' apartment.

The latter, Ronny Quillan, 29 and white, with flame-red hair three feet long, was booked on suspicion of assault.

Doctors said a slash from Daniels' temple to beneath his chin required 35 stitches to close, but that he will recover.

Behind the cutting, said Det.-Sgt. C. C. Forbes, was the actress' demand for $5,000 for medical treatment. Forbes said her lawyer had written Daniels threatening legal action over "the December second incident."

Daniels, now at the Mocambo on the Sunset Strip, makes about $5,000 a week. Last January the singer, 34, and Martha Braun, 21, white actress and model and daughter of the wealthy Carl Brauns of Lowell, Mass., were married in Weehhawken, N. J. Daniels was quoted: "I'm going to dedicate my life to making her happy." Mrs. Daniels, visiting her family, said: "My husband is positively innocent and I think it's blackmail."

Forbes said Mrs. Quillan early today called police to her apartment where they found Daniels bleeding, the side of his face laid open. He was rushed to a hospital and she was taken to headquarters, screaming protests.

Lane Names Byrnes To Baltimore Bench

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 7 (AP) — Joseph R. Byrnes, president of the State Senate for the last four years, was named to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City today by Gov. Lane.

He fills a vacancy created by the retirement two months ago of Judge J. Abner Saylor.

Fellow Mechanic Saves Sergeant Sucked Into Scoop Of Jet Plane

DETROIT, Dec. 7 (AP)—Sucked off the ground into the nose of a Thunderjet fighter plane, a bruised Staff Sgt. Robert A. Lewis was alive today to tell about it.

His life was saved yesterday by a fellow mechanic in the Michigan Air National Guard at Wayne County airport.

Tech. Sgt. Joe Cusenza explained today "I noticed something sticking out of the air scoop. When I saw it was a foot I jumped off the wing and grabbed it."

Cusenza clung desperately to Lewis, bracing his legs against the mouth of the scoop to keep his buddy from being pulled completely in.

Master Sgt. Bill Vedrody, Belleville, Mich., who was in the cockpit giving the engine a trial ground run-up, cut the switch when he felt the engine running "rough." Lewis and Cusenza plopped to the ground.

Capt. John E. Wood, adjutant of the 127th Fighter Wing at Wayne airport, said Lewis was lucky his eyes weren't pulled from their sockets.

Contents of Lewis' pockets were sucked into the engine, the zippers torn from his jacket, his gloves turned wrong-side-out and pulled off. But he lived through it without serious injury.

Heads Of Vet Groups Appeal To President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The heads of four big veterans organizations urged today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be authorized to use every available means to save his troops in Korea, including aerial strikes at military targets in Manchuria.

They addressed their appeal to President Truman, and cabled a copy of it to MacArthur with the comment that they would be "delighted" if he would relay their message to the hard pressed troops.

The joint plea was signed by Erle Cocke, Jr., national commander of the American Legion; Charles C. Ralls of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Boniface R. Maile of the Disabled American Veterans, and Harold Russell of the Amvets.

New York Prepares

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—City officials said today every vessel, from tiny pleasure launches to the Queen Mary, is being earmarked for service if an atom bomb hits Manhattan island.

They would be used to evacuate the 150,000 persons the officials estimated would be bomb casualties.

Miner Kills Three Of Family And Self

HARLAN, Ky., Dec. 7 (AP)—The bodies of a Harlan County coal miner and three members of his family, each the victim of a shotgun blast, were found today in a house at the nearby mining community of Pansy.

State police said Filmore Johnson, about 40, killed his wife, his mother-in-law, his sister-in-law and then committed suicide. The officers blamed the tragedy on a "family fus."

Besides Johnson the victims were Mrs. Carrie Johnson, 29, the wife; Mrs. Lillie Jane Rose, 58, the mother-in-law; and Miss Katherine Rose, 22, the sister-in-law.

U. S. Casualties Reach 32,442; 5,616 Killed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—An increase of 1,414 casualties in a single week has brought the total announced American toll in the Korean war to 32,442. This includes 5,616 known to be dead.

The cumulative report by the Defense Department today represents casualties where the next of kin had been notified through Dec. 1. Because of delays in notification, it does not include all losses to that date.

The official list showed 5,038 killed in action, but the total of known dead was swollen to 5,616 by the addition of 573 men who died of wounds, and five listed as missing now confirmed as dead.

Those wounded, non-fatally as well as fatally, totaled 22,337.

Fear of the number 13 has been traced as far back as the early Norsemen.

Pact Deputies Agree To Give Germans Guns

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP) — The 12 Atlantic pact deputies agreed today on a plan to give Germans guns again to help defend the West.

The object of the plan is to put about 150,000 West German troops into a defense line extending from the Aegean to the Arctic in three years.

These German troops would make up about one-fifth of the West's armed defense against attack from the East.

The agreement is a major step in the policy of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to enlist the aid of German manpower and industrial might. Details of the plan were not made public.

Nationalists Ready

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the U. S., said tonight the Chinese Nationalists have 2,000,000 troops ready to fight Communism in Asia.

Leaflets Hit Pearl Harbor On Anniversary Of Attack

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Dec. 7 (AP)—Nine years to the minute after Japanese planes bombed Pearl Harbor and plunged the United States into World War III, a Civil Air Patrol plane today mock-bombed the federal building with leaflets.

It was Hawaii's way of calling attention to its fight for statehood.

The leaflets urged Hawaii residents to protest to Congress that "taxation without representation is as unfair now as it was in 1776.

They were dropped at 7:55 a. m. —exact hour of the Japanese air attack on sitting-duck American warships.

American warships no longer line battleship row as they did when the Japanese surprise attack crippled the U. S. Pacific Fleet and brought sudden death to 3,293 and war to a shocked America.

Pearl Harbor is on guard, but the feeling at American military and naval headquarters is that an enemy with a sneak attack in mind wouldn't try it here. There are more strategic and more profitable targets on the west coast of the United States.

Two memorial plaques honoring victims of the Japanese Pearl Harbor attack were unveiled in the harbor this morning.

One plaque was on the above-water structure of the U.S.S. Utah. The other was at the base of a flagpole on a platform built recently over the spot where the U.S.S. Arizona went down with 1,174 men whose bodies still are entombed in her hull.

Valley Forge Sails

Power Failure Causes Blasts In Frederick

FREDERICK, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—A general power failure caused three oil burners to explode and did other damage in the Frederick area this afternoon.

Service was interrupted for nearly an hour. R. L. Smith, local manager of the Potomac Edison Power Co., said the power failure was the result of a burned out generating unit in Williamsport.

All three of the oil burner explosions were in Frederick, at Hendrickson's department store, the Evangelical Reformed Church and the home of Raymond Lenhart. The blast tore two doors off their frames in the fire room of the church. Radio station WFMD was off the air temporarily.

No A-Bomb, No Draft

HELENA, Mont., Dec. 7 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bonner said today Gen. Lewis Hershey has suspended two county draft board members who don't want to draft any more men until the atom bomb is used in Korea.

Our Chinese Friends

There are obvious possibilities of a full-fledged war with China. It is now just half a century since American troops last fought the Chinese. China was then under the rule of the ignorant and reactionary Dowager Empress, Tzu Hsi. She detested all foreigners and modern ideas, sensing correctly that ultimately they meant the doom of absolute rule like hers. She therefore egged on a secret society, "The Society of Righteous and Harmonious Boxers," to massacre Chinese Christians, tear up railroad tracks, telephone wires and post offices, and finally to decree death to all foreigners.

The Empress then ordered the foreign legations in Peking to leave within 24 hours. On their refusal they were besieged for eight weeks, until an allied army rescued them. Considering how soon the European powers were to be at war with each other, with the United States taking part, it is interesting to note that Austria, England, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Russia and the United States all fought harmoniously side by side against the Chinese. The commander-in-chief was a German, Count Alfred von Waldersee.

To repay the destruction of their property and the lives of their subjects the allies demanded an indemnity of $325,000,000. In 1907 the United States voluntarily remitted part of our share, and in gratitude the Chinese government spent the sum on scholarships for Chinese to attend American universities.

Ever since then the Chinese have felt kindly to Americans as the one nationality which they could believe did not have designs on their country. Will the Communist government be able to destroy this friendly feeling and imbue its subjects with hatred for a nation that has always meant them well?

History In The Soil

In building a 450-mile pipeline through New Mexico and Arizona, the El Paso Natural Gas Company made an unusual addition to the labor force for the operation. A group of scientists was attached to the trenching crews, to watch for archaeological discoveries and to save them from casual destruction.

The job of these scientists has been to excavate ruins of ancient buildings and remove all significant artifacts from them, and dig up skeletons and other evidences of earlier habitation discovered along the route of the trench, before these could be ruined by the trenching machines. Also they have examined the pipeline trench after it was dug, for any other interesting discoveries which might be made. The state museums are the beneficiaries of the scientists' work.

It is a pity that this aspect of an excavating project is so rare. There is no telling how much invaluable knowledge of the past has been lost forever because digging machinery ripped through archaeological treasures which went unseen, or unappreciated, by the operators. Perhaps it is as well that we do not know how much has thus been lost; the knowledge might break a historian's heart.

German Women

The small number of German women who held political offices before the war were among the first of Hitler's victims. This fact has not been forgotten by those few who might follow their example today.

Mrs. Maurice T. Moore, an American delegate to a Bavarian conference on women's affairs, says that the resulting latent fears acts as a deterrent to an already sluggish group. Though far outnumbering the men, they still consider politics a man's business, and the ordinary man shifts the burden to the "official" class. This is the sort of thinking which put and kept Hitler in power.

Such agencies as the Young Women's Christian Association are working among the German women, tryingto break their age-old rigidity as to women's fields of work. Study and training groups are being formed to teach women their civic duties.

European and Oriental women have been slow to realize their latent power. Their generations of subjection have conditioned them to a life of submission to masculine authority, in which they have not necessarily been without influence, but usually without overt voice. More generations will doubtless be needed to change their attitude. Training girls now growing up to think and act for themselves may show favorable results in the future.

Need For Engineers

If you want to ensure yourself a job, become an engineer. This appears to be the conclusion reached by the manpower committee of the American Society for Engineering Education. It finds that our universities soon may be producing no more than 10,000 new engineers annually, whereas 30,000 are needed.

This as partly due to increased demands of industry and of the Army. The outlook is also attributable to a marked decline in the number of engineering students. In 1948, 226,000 were enrolled. The following year the number dropped to 181,000 and in 1950 it has taken an even more significant drop down to 130,000. The committee fears that at this rate our schools will have only 90,000 potential engineers enrolled a few years from now.

At that rate a qualified engineer would soon be a rare individual who could almost command his own salary. This might be fine for the individual, but it would leave the nation in a serious plight.

The report does not attempt to answer one interesting question. What field are the boys planning to make their own instead of engineering? Probably a part of the problem is the great increase in the variety of profitable occupations open to the young worker of today.

What's A Cage For?

Life magazine passes along the information that zoo animals born and reared in captivity think the bars on their cages are to keep wild people out. If the bars are removed (as when a moat is substituted, for instance) they are scared to death, almost.

Perhaps this should help Americans who are still "puzzled" to understand the Russians—not their government, but the people themselves. Red radio and press constantly bombard them with the assertion that the iron curtain is designed not to keep Russians in, but to shut American warmongers.

Oksana Kasenkina, who fled in 1948 from a Russian consulate in New York, became so uneasy at her first taste of freedom that she returned voluntarily. She might have stayed in her cage after that if the menace she felt in the attitude of her fellow inmates hadn't frightened her into jumping out a window.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Diphtheria Of Various Types

SOME of our contagious hospitals have so few patients that the wards virtually are empty. Large sections have been closed off and corridors are ghost-like in appearance. This is particularly true of the diphtheria wards and there is something inspiring about their emptiness because it represents a triumph of man over disease. In former days, diphtheria was going strong at this time of the year in most northern countries.

In the past it was a great killer, carrying off children from rich and poor homes with rapidity. Many of these youngsters were happy and healthy one day and gone the next. But the malady has not been eradicated and would return tomorrow except for immunization.

The disease may appear in various forms. In the nasal variety, the manifestations are similar to those of a simple head cold but the discharge is more annoying and may lead to redness and excoriations of the upper lip. If permitted to go untreated the secretion often persists for weeks or months before subsiding. In contrast, prompt cure follows the administration of diphtheria antitoxin.

Pharynx involvement is more serious. It may begin with sore throat, fever, increased pulse rate, headache, and fatigue. The throat at first is red but within a day or two becomes covered with a dirty grayish-white membrane. This is telltale evidence that diphtheria exists and is an indication for throat culture and the use of antitoxin to bring the condition under control.

The most severe type occurs when the voice box (larynx) is affected; skilful care is demanded. Swelling of the vocal cords may be so extensive as to produce mechanical obstruction to breathing. If the passageway closes completely the youngster will suffocate unless intubation is done. This is a surgical procedure in which the windpipe is cut and a tube inserted to permit air to reach the lungs. Minor degrees of obstruction are associated with difficulty in breathing and restlessness. The child is frightened and worried and has all the appearances of an acute illness. Antitoxin also will come to the rescue. In days gone by, most hospital victims suffered from this type of diphtheria.

While the causative organisms are growing, they produce a toxin, which is why the disease is so dangerous. Although the poisonous material is manufactured in the nose, throat, and larynx it is absorbed into the blood stream and travels to the more vital structures thruout the body. The toxin can be neutralized by antitoxin.

One attack of diphtheria confers everlasting immunity. In addition to protective "shots" we have another aid in our fight against the malady. This consists of the Schick test, which determines susceptibility to diphtheria. This is of great value whenever an individual has been exposed.

TATTOO REMOVAL

C. N. writes: Can tattoos be taken off?

REPLY

The procedure is not too satisfactory in that scar formation usually results from the mechanical or chemical destruction of the tattooed area. A new method of producing the scars has been described. The scratching of the skin is done thru a lake of 10 per cent tannic acid solution and the lines are retraced with a silver nitrate pencil.

HAIR ERADICATION

C. D. writes: I am in my middle teens and have a worry to overcome. When I go to parties I wear sleeveless dresses which reveal the hair under my arms. This is embarrassing. Can you tell me a cheap way to overcome this growth?

REPLY

Shaving is the most inexpensive and best way to eliminate your worry. If you borrow your dad's razor, the procedure will cost you even less.

●—●—●

NOT A FACTOR

R. H. T. writes: Is hardening of the arteries more prevalent among persons who are not active and live like a sluggish brook?

REPLY

I have no information along this line but believe that activity has little effect on the development of arteriosclerosis. Many active individuals live to a ripe old age even tho they have arteriosclerosis. The same applies to the inactive man or woman.

PRESSURE AND INFECTION

H. B. writes: Does the presence of infection in the body tend to raise the blood pressure of one who is inclined to have hypertension?

REPLY

This situation has been observed but the pressure rarely is raised as much as it is by excitement, apprehension, and anger.

British Receive Briefing On Situation In Korea; U. S.-British Discuss Maintaining Beachhead; French, British Pledge Cooperation To Eisenhower

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — British delegates who left the first Truman-Attlee White House conference described their impression as follows: "When General Bradley got through, one felt like he had been kicked in the stomach."

President Truman, as host, opened the conference by proposing to Prime Minister Attlee that Gen. Omar Bradley give all present an up-to-the-minute briefing on the military situation in Korea. This was agreeable.

Bradley then disclosed calmly and solemnly that the United Nations forces in Korea had suffered a complete collapse. He described this as the greatest military disaster in the history of the United States.

Bradley reported that the Chinese Communists had brilliantly and efficiently slashed through American lines in such fashion as to make the holding of anything but a small beachhead impossible. American casualties in the preceding four or five days, Bradley said, had exceeded anything that the allied forces had suffered in a comparable period of World War II or World War I. He reported that the Marines fighting in Northeast Korea were taking the worst beating. However, a complete blueprint has been completed for the evacuation of every savable man in Korea, and Gen. Joe Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, has been rushed to Korea with this plan.

Bradley reported to the Prime Minister and his advisers that it was the American view that a small, carefully selected beachhead might be maintained in South Korea, though even this was doubtful. Bradley said the United States favored keeping such a beachhead.

British Viewpoint

At this point Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the British General Staff, was asked by Prime Minister Clement Attlee to comment on the situation and give the British view.

Slim replied that British information on the military situation was much sketcher than that of the United States, but that, on the basis of the information already made available to the U. K. delegation, it appeared futile to attempt to maintain even a beachhead in Korea.

Slim argued for a total evacuation. The enormous effort that would be required to supply a beachhead continuously, he maintained, would sap allied powers at an alarming rate. He pointed out that supporting a beachhead would ultimately require a gigantic effort again to liberate Korea, and that, from the British viewpoint, it would be impossible to mount this effort in Korea while we were attempting to build necessary forces against Russia in Europe.

Slim said that any thought of again invading Korea after we had been thrown out should be discarded on the grounds that it would take a greater effort to reinvade Korea than it took to land the Allied Expeditionary Forces in Normandy in World War II.

No mention was made of the use of the atomic bomb. It had been agreed before Attlee arrived that there were no suitable targets for using the bomb in Korea. Nor did anyone express any criticism of General MacArthur at any time.

NOTE—General Bradley has had under consideration a plan to take every four-engine plane out of civilian air service in the United States to fly reinforcements to the Korean front. However, this plan was abandoned when it became clear that the reinforcements would not stand off the Chinese hordes. The planes may still be taken to be used as part of a Dunkerque operation.

Ike To Operate Immediately

Talk then turned to the question of what the allied powers could do about the situation in the Far East. Attlee gave the British view that some kind of arrangement had to be made with the Chinese in order to avoid even greater calamities out of which only Russia could be the victor. He emphasized — and the American group agreed—that the enemy was Russia, not China, and that our strength had to be built up in the European theatre.

The Prime Minister reported that in his conference with Premier Rene Pleven and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, the French had agreed to the immediate appointment of General Eisenhower as supreme commander of the allied forces in Europe with the idea that Eisenhower, upon arriving at the scene, would then work out final details of the integration of the German army with that of the French, British and other allies in the defense of Europe.

Attlee also made the point that it was imperative to have a decision reached on Eisenhower at once in order to demonstrate to Europe that the Western powers were not hopelessly destroyed throughout the world but were giving up in Korea to fight another day in Europe. The President agreed.

Attlee also relayed the French view that the situation in Korea made the situation in Indo-China virtually untenable. He said the French wanted continued American aid rushed to Indo-China, but no longer expected any American or British military forces to actively defend Indo-China.

Attlee reported that the French were ready to activate 20 divisions and that Britain, which already had two divisions on the European continent, would swiftly commit an additional three divisions as fast as arms were manufactured and delivered. He pledged full cooperation to a high command set up under General Eisenhower.

The American delegation agreed with all these points.

Combined Allied Supplies

Attlee then raised the question of the re-establishment of a combined materials resources board, such as operated in World War II. He pointed out that the allies were competing with each other for scarce raw materials in the Far East to a point where a fantastic inflation had taken place. He urged the immediate establishment of a joint Anglo-American-French board to do all strategic buying in the Far East to solve this problem. Secretary of State Acheson was directed by President Truman to go forward on this front.

Recognizing China

Sir Roger Makins, representing British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, then raised the question of establishing some kind of relationship with the Chinese Communist government to prevent, via diplomacy, further Chinese aggression in the Far East. Truman asked what was proposed.

Attlee replied that the great weakness of the allied position was failure to conduct effective diplomatic conversations with the Chinese to determine their views.

Attlee told a revealing story how failure to have adequate relationships with the Chinese might be costing allied lives. He said that Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British delegate to the United Nations, had been

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

In The Dark Shadow

WASHINGTON

THE appropriate commentary on the Truman-Attlee meeting is provided by a set of facts more significant than any decision taken by the President and Prime Minister.

At Nanning, in south China, a "liberation" army of about 200,000 seasoned Chinese troops, with a face-saving sprinkling of partisans of the Indo-Chinese leader, Ho Chi Minh, now stands poised to move. Thirty Indo - Chinese Communist battalions, trained in China and salted with Chinese artillerymen and technicians, have crossed the Indo-China border. And a Russian military mission headed by a Soviet major general has already arrived at Nanning to supervise this new enterprise of the Kremlin's.

Thus every element of the pattern of preparation for the Chinese onslaught against Korea is now visible again in this even more important region to the southward. Moreover, as one examines the facts, it becomes clear that the indicated onslaught against Indo-China may occur rather soon.

Indo-China and Korea were originally coupled as the first two targets of Communist expansion in Asia, at the celebrated Peking meeting last year. In April, Ho Chi Minh and Mao Tse-tung agreed upon the present preparations.

Little Hope For French

A few weeks ago, the Chinese government protested "violations" and "raids" on the Indo-Chinese border in language reminiscent of their Korean protests. And at the Security Council, Chinese Communist representative Wu Hsiu-chuan has actually stated in plain language that the Chinese would "liberate" Indo-China as Korea has been "liberated."

If these facts mean what they appear to mean, there is no real hope that the battered French colonial army of 150,000 men can withstand a Chinese "liberation" effort for very long. If Indo-China is thus swept into the Soviet empire, every informed observer agrees that Asia will go down, nation by nation, like a set of nine pins. And if Asia thus goes down, it is impossible to expect prolonged resistance by the weaker nations in Western Europe.

Such is the possible or even probable future, by which the talks of the President and the Prime Minister must unhappily be judged. Perhaps the most revealing fact about these discussions is that the American policy makers insisted the Chinese aggression in Korea could not be "passively accepted," yet had no positive course of action to propose when Attlee reached Washington.

Their difficulty was summed up in the case for and against bombing in China and Manchuria. This would appear the natural retaliation for the gross and flagrant aggression by the Chinese. But in fact our air forces in Japan, Korea and Okinawa are considerably outweighed by the Soviet air forces in eastern Siberia and Manchuria. The intelligence has uncovered undoubted evidence of a Sino-Soviet agreement that if we bomb Chinese and Manchurian targets, these local Soviet air forces will enter the fray.

May Be Too Late

Hence the questions arose: If we bomb now, what will be the fate of the convoys carrying our troops away from the beachheads? And if we bomb later, how shall we meet Soviet air attacks on Japan and Okinawa? In the same manner, fatal objections were found to almost every conceivably decisive step. There were no really great and fundamental differences between Amer-

Unity Among Allies Will Result From Attlee Visit

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—American public opinion has won out. There is to be no appeasement. There is to be no surrender of American prestige. The fighting will go on. Evacuation of UN troops from Korea will occur only in those places where the Chinese send in an overwhelming number of troops.

This means that for several days, at least, while peace proposals are being exchanged through intermediary nations, there will not be much change in the broad situation in respect to large-scale war.

Neither side is obligated at the moment to stop military operations at any particular point and unless there is a "cease fire" order, the war in Korea will proceed just as if there were no peace negotiations under way.

The one big handicap, however, which the UN forces do undergo relates to an official reluctance here to bomb Manchurian bases or offer retaliatory blows in China through air power.

This is tantamount to saying that the UN is fighting a war with its hands tied behind its back. It is not likely, on the other hand, that this situation will continue very long though it is deemed expedient to operate that way for several days anyway, on the theory that the most important job ahead is to stabilize the UN military defense line and at the same time to explore the possibilities of a peaceful settlement.

Some Advantages Possible

While the situation inside Korea goes on as before, there are certain advantages possible now which were not present a few weeks ago. For one thing, even if MacArthur had met no opposition as he sent his troops to the northern boundary of Korea, there would have been no assurance that the Chinese troops in Manchuria would not have descended upon the UN armies without warning at any time. A long period of nervous suspense has been averted.

What the developments of the last few days have brought about in reality is a showdown. It will be recalled that it was intimated recently from General MacArthur's headquarters that one of the reasons for the offensive was to test out Chinese intentions. Whatever the route by which it has been attained, a definition of Chinese purposes in North Korea has been compelled. This will be achieved now through the current peace negotiations. If the Chinese Communists make the mistake of maintaining an adamant attitude and insist that UN troops be evacuated from Korea before there is any discussion of peace, the whole world will recognize this as the action of an aggressor state, bent upon achieving a military advantage without regard to the consequences on the diplomatic side.

There are many here who think that there is still an opportunity to drive a wedge between the Russian and the Chinese Communists. It is being assumed that Mao will not wish to embroil his country in a war with the United States and risk counter-revolution, not merely from Chiang Kai-Shek, but from other malcontents who would be glad to have the opportunity to get material and moral support for a counter-revolutionary movement.

The United States, moreover, is not helpless with respect to a war inside of China and can keep up a strong naval blockade as well as air bombardment if the Chinese Reds should relentlessly plunge their own country into war by insisting upon impossible peace terms.

No Knowldge Of Intentions

There is absolutely no official knowledge here of what the Chinese Communists' intentions really are. Nor is it believed that any delegation at the UN has any basic information on the subject, but nevertheless many nations are striving desperately to persuade the Chinese Communists that they have gone pretty far already, and that their future opportunity to get into the UN and to establish themselves as a nation, independent of Russia, rests solely upon the policies to be pursued by Mao in the present crisis.

On pure logic there would be grounds for optimism because only a war lord, hopelessly bound to Moscow, would persist in a course that antagonizes the UN, including the United States. Such optimism as prevails is based upon the theory that the Chinese Communists will not go to extremes, but will listen to some compromise plan which will not involve appeasement on the part of the UN.

The pessimists, however, of whom there are many—both on Capitol Hill and elsewhere in Washington—insist that the die has been cast and that Chinese communism is directed by Moscow, and that World War III, in effect, has been begun, and that it will not end until there is a showdown with Russia, as well.

Meanwhile, mobilization plans are in the making and Prime Minister Attlee's visit here has cleared the air to a large extent, so that unity among the allies will prove to be the primary result of his visit.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Russia In East Asia

IN 1920, K. Fuse, correspondent of the "Osaka Mainichi" and the "Tokyo Nichi Nichi," was sent to Moscow, where he stayed for many years. I knew him as an excellent reporter.

He had had a conversation with Nicholai Lenin, the founder of Soviet Russia, in which that progenitor of the world revolution said:

"For the present, real communism can achieve success only in the Occident. The powers in the west enrich themselves by extorting weak countries in the Orient. At the same time, however, they arm their Oriental colonies and give the natives military training. The West is digging a grave in the East to bury itself in."

Lenin saw the picture with rare insight, for since 1920, the Far East has been a maelstrom of the wildest contending forces. World War II really started on September 18, 1931, when the Japanese seized Manchuria. There has been no peace in the world since.

The Baku Congress of Nations, meeting on September 1, 1920, was called to bring Oriental nations into the Communist system. Among the representatives were some from Russia, Turkey, China, India, Persia (Iran), Afghanistan, Japan and Korea.

One of the subjects discussed most excitedly at this Baku conference was the destruction of the British Empire. All these peoples in Asia hated the British Empire in 1920. Zinoviev put it in about these words:

"England enslaved Persia, converted Mesopotamia and Arabia into her colonies, and starved their peoples. Her despotism in Egypt is worse than in the days of Pharaoh. In China she is poisoning her people with opium. We shall first declare war against Britain, and not stop until we win the final victory, no matter how long the battle may last."

It was hatred for Great Britain which stimulated the creation of Communist parties in Asia. Marxism came later. During World War II, the full effects of this anti-British propaganda among Asiatic, and for that matter, African, peoples payed off plentifully. The war was hardly over when the peoples of those countries devoted themselves to revolutions to disassociate themselves from the British.

Even the Indonesian revolution, ostensibly against Holland, was in reality against the British, who controlled the economy of that country. India became free. Burma, Malaya are seething. British influence in Afghanistan and Iran has become nil.

The Russians reduced Great Britain more effectively than two wars against Germany did.

This has been the policy of the Third International throughout its career. It is based upon the theory that if the colonial countries can be separated from the "imperialists," the latter will be left without adequate manpower and resources and their poverty at home will increase. Also, the colonials would not be able to protect themselves. Precisely that has happened to Great Britain since the 1920's.

Lenin, Trotsky and the "old" Bolsheviks were too doctrinaire to accomplish this world revolution. Stalin brought to it his ruthless competence. He employed the methods of imperialism as a weapon of revolution.

Stalin, more than any other Russian leader, from the very start, was deeply involved in Asiatic problems. He is, of course, an Asiatic. His first important job was commissar of nationalities (minorities).

Fuse asked Stalin in 1925 what strange magnetism attracted the Asiatics to Soviet Russia. Stalin replied:

". . . Deep in the bottom of their hearts the longing for racial determination was burning. At such an occasion, we opened up a new life for them, holding that all men are alike, and they should be mutually respected irrespective of races. Under this new condition, they had to come to the conclusion that it was better for them to be together and work together."

There can be no question that at the start, when the Japanese journalist wrote his accounts, this was true, but since then, training, indoctrination, organization have been applied. While such countries as the United States played with Marshall plans and Points Four and all the paraphernalia of dollars and things, the Russins worked on men's minds, hopes and prejudices. They united on hates, always finding a satisfactory object of hate.

For years it was Great Britain that must be hated; then it was fascism, Germany and Spain and individuals in other countries. Now they are building hatred of the United States, which they call "Wall Street."

The object does not matter. The accomplishment is to unite Asiatics against the Western World.

AMA Campaigns To Help Schools Train Doctors

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The American Medical Association has launched a brand new multi-million dollar campaign, this time to help medical schools train future doctors.

If money isn't raised privately to aid hard-pressed schools, then federal government subsidies might be used, AMA officials said:

"And we don't want government stepping in and telling medical schools how they should be run," they added.

The AMA has raised millions to fight compulsory health insurance, which it terms "socialized medicine." It put $500,000 of it into the kitty to start the new fund.

The announcement hit at federal subsidies of various kinds, and broadened the AMA's drive against what its leaders call the threat of socialism."

"Maybe this will start a chain-reaction against federal subsidies in other fields of American life," declared Dr. Louis H. Bauer, Hempstead, N. Y., chairman of the board of trustees. The AMA represents organized medicine in the United States.

"There is growing public awareness that federal subsidy has come to be a burden, not a bounty, for it is bringing intolerable increases in taxation, and is dangerously increasing federal controls over our institutions and the lives of our people," he said.

In 1949, and again this year, the AMA raised $2,500,000 each year by special dues, to campaign against compulsory health insurance. One million was spent on an advertising campaign in October.

The trustees appropriated $500,000 from this fund to give financial aid to 79 approved medical schools throughout the nation. The House of Delegates unanimously endorsed the move at a special session.

The AMA will ask doctors themselves, businesses, unions, citizens, other professions, to contribute voluntarily to this fund. The goal is several million dollars, perhaps even a foundation granting money from its interest earnings, Dr. Btuer said.

Many medical schools, both state and privately supported now, are hard pressed for money for staffs and facilities to teach and train medic students, he said. Bequests and donations often are earmarked for special use, such as cancer research, and "rarely is money given to a school with no strings attached, to be used where is is most needed.

He said there would be no strings on how each medical school uses its part of the new fund. But the AMA hopes it will be spent "to expand or continue training." Details of how and when funds will be granted have not yet been worked out.

The allocation of $500,000—from the "national education campaign fund raised to defend medical freedom"—was taken as a sign the AMA feels its drive against national health insurance is going well.

"The support we have received so far indicates that we don't have to be as intensive in our campaign on that as in the last year," Dr. Bauer said.

Dr. Elmer Henderson, AMA president, predicted that because of the November elections, any compulsory health bill would be defeated by 2-to-1 vote in Congress. It was he who said the election also "provided a general repudiation of the overall trend toward state socialism."

Dr. Bauer called the new campaign "a small torpedo against federal subsidies. The only reason we have opposed bills for federal subsidies is that there never has yet been a bill guaranteeing the freedom of medical schools. We don't want the government stepping in and telling the schools how they should be run. Supreme Court decisions show that what the government subsidizes, it can also control."

"American medicine feels very strongly that it should not seek federal aid for medical schools, until all other means of financing have been exhausted."

Service Group Plans Work, Sends Gift

Members of the Community Service Group of the Woman's Civic Club discussed what they could do in the future to help the community when the group had its monthly luncheon meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Edgar Kendall, La Vale.

Mrs. Edgar Vandegrift presided at the session and the group decided to assist the Red Cross when it reactivates the civil defense groups, or any other group of a community nature, in any way needed.

Announcement was made of a group assisting the Associated Charities in the office work.

A report was given of the CARE package sent to the Dutch family the group adopted four years ago.

It was announced that sufficient funds for the group's nurses' scholarship were raised at the recent style show and card party.

Mrs. Kendall read a letter from the Junior Woman's Civic Club appealing for toys or food for Christmas distribution and for co-operation with the club's dance December 27.

Mrs. John R. Wilkinson, Mrs. William C. Walsh and Mrs. G. Morgan Smith were cohostesses with Mrs. Kendall.

St. Marks Installs Officers

Rev. Carl Clapp installed the new officers of the Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed Church at the meeting and Christmas party held Wednesday evening at the church. The Women's Guild Jewel are presented to Mrs. Edward Matthews, retiring president by Mrs. Hattie Roby, in behalf of the group; and Mrs. George Keady gave her a scrap book of activities during her two years term. It was in a blue folder, tied with gold ribbon and with the picture of the church in gold on the front.

Mrs. Laura Pyle was inducted as president; Mrs. Theodore Carlson, vice president; Mrs. Gussie Crabtree, secretary; Mrs. Charles Twigg, treasurer; Mrs. Johanna Weimer and Mrs. Carlton Shore, Circle leaders.

Departmental chairmen are Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Harold Everline, Mrs. Roby, Mrs. Alice Atkinson, Mrs. S. S. Dowlan, Mrs. Florence Stein, Miss Ruth Paupe and Mrs. Keady. They will assume their duties January 3.

A Thank Offering program was conducted by Mrs. Keady and Mrs. Matthews. It was entitled, "The Dust of the Road." Mrs. Charles Twigg read the Scripture and Mrs. Harriett Roby offered prayer and read a Christmas story. Mrs. Walter Schack played for the singing of carols.

Approximately 60 toys wrapped for Christmas were donated for St. Paul's orphanage at Greenville, Pa. A Christmas tree featured the decorations and miniature churches were at either end of the table centered with a red candle in a Christmas log. Fifty members attended.

Jr. Civic Club Completes Plans For Dance Dec. 27

4-H Retains Officers, Plans Party

The Junior Extension 4-H Club voted to continue the same officers for another year at the meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Edith Lewis, Winchester Road.

They are Frank Morgan, president; Mrs. Arthur Shipe, vice president; Miss Rachael Portmess, secretary; Mrs. Joseph Morgan, assistant and Miss Lewis, treasurer.

It was decided to nominate a few members for the state 4-H Club Council and Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan, James Greise and Mrs. Roy Schryock volunteered to attend the council to be held in Baltimore January 8.

The Party committee reported the Christmas celebration is to be held December 29 and all 4-H members will be invited to attend. The officers were named to the committee to outline the program for 1951. They will meet Tuesday at the home of Frank Morgan, Frostburg.

Jean Shearer reported on the Rural Youth USA Conference and Jane Iliff, on the Ohio-West Virginia Young Men Young Women Conference. Christmas carols were sung by the group and it was announced the next meeting will be January 3 at the home of Mickie Moore, Wills Creek Avenue.

Yule Projects Are Reported

The Junior Woman's Civic Club voted to limit club membership, named a Year Book editor and completed plans for its annual benefit holiday dance at the meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum II, The Dingle.

Miss Margaret Reid presided and an amendment to the constitution was passed limiting club membership to 65.

Miss Virginia Harmison was named editor for the Year Book and it was announced that work will begin at once.

Tickets were distributed for the dance the club is having December 27 for the benefit of the Associated Charities. It is being held at the Cumberland Country Club and will be semi-formal with music by Don Pitchards Orchestra. Tickets may be purchased at Lazarus store or from any member of the club.

Toys and two bushel baskets of food for the Salvation Army to distribute at Christmas were brought to the meeting by the club members. It was announced that a "doll house" will be at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets, December 16, where members will take turns from 10 a. m., until 6 p. m., to receive donations of dolls for the drive.

Mrs. Paul Gipe chairman of the recent bake sale reported $22 had been raised with the sale. Mrs. Perry Smith announced that the club had purchased materials for the General Clay fund which are being delivered to the German Youth Activities Centers in Germany in time for Christmas, through the courtesy of the Army Transport Service. The project is sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and General Federation Council of International Clubs.

Prof. Maurice Matteson, head of the Music department of Frostburg State Teachers College, presented a program on "Folk Music." He spoke of collecting, arranging and providing the piano accompaniment for folk songs and also gave the background of folk music in this country. Among selections he sang were "Black Jack Davy," a Western Maryland folk song, and "Barbara Allen."

Monroe Kaplon also spoke to the group on the formation of a cinema guild to bring six classics to Cumberland.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Rosenbaum were Miss Ann Griffith, Mrs. Galen Metzger, Mrs. Ralph Higgins, Mrs. Thomas Berry and Mrs. Gipe.

Flea Nest 13 PlansReunion

The third annual Flea Nest No. 13 reunion will be held December 29 at the Knights of Columbus home.

The reunion and dance is beginning at 9 o'clock and guests are to wear camp clothes.

Innovations this year will be the awarding of the "Scratchmanship Award to the member of outstanding activity and introduction of the "Man of the Hour."

Rebekahs To Honor State President

Deputy presidents of the Rebekah Lodges of Zone 1 will honor Mrs. Catherine Couter, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Maryland and her staff of officers at a banquet tomorrow evening. It will be held in the IOOF temple, South Mechanic Street.

The turkey banquet is to be served at 7 p. m., and dinner music will be played by Miss Connie Blubaugh on her merimba.

Pupils of the Mary Kathryn Steckman Dance Studio are to present a program during the evening.

Reservations are being taken by the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Catherine May, Flintstone. Other members are Mrs. Anna Diehl, Mrs. Martha Weller, Mrs. Jane Dorman, Mrs. Wynono Snyder, Mrs. Mabel LaRue and Mrs. Audrie Callis.

Club To Fill Basket

Members of the Valley Road Homemakers Club are to bring a donation for the annual Christmas basket to the meeting tomorrow at 1:15 at Central YMCA.

A Christmas play will be presented by Mrs. J. C. Twigg, Mrs. A. E. Keesecker, Mrs. Elizabeth Wone, Mrs. Burgin Clemmer, Mrs. H. L. Nesbit, Mrs. Ernest McCullough and Mrs. John S. Cook. The music is under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Moreland.

Cumberland Country Club Plans New Year's Eve Party

LaSalle Dance To Be Dec. 27

The LaSalle Alumni will hold its Christmas dance December 27. Plans were formulated at a meeting of the committee Wednesday evening in the Amvets home.

It is to be a semi-formal affair at the Knights of Columbus home. Dancing will be from 9 until 1 o'clock.

The committee consists of William Connelly, Robert Stakem, Arthur Beaulieu, John Daugherty, Frank Werner, James Boyle, James Collins and Philip Christ.

Tickets will be available Wednesday.

Another meeting will be held December 11 at 9:30 at the Amvets home.

Club Elects

The Cresap Homemakers Club elected Mrs. Andrew Burrell, vice president and Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis, secretary, at the Achievement meeting recently.

Plans were also formulated for a Christmas party December 28 at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Long, Potomac Park. Members are to bring a home made tree ornament and donation for the Tuberculosis Association.

Breakfast To Be During Intermission

The Cumberland Country Club's New Year's Eve dance, for its members and guests, will be held December 31.

Music for this occasion will be played by Brad Hunt's Orchestra from Pittsburgh. Dancing is from 11 p. m. until 1 a. m., and 2 a. m., until 4 a. m.

Breakfast will be served during intermission, starting promptly at 1 o'clock.

Reservations are to be made with Albert Carlson.

Reservations for dinner before the dance will be made by calling the club.

Class Elects

Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder was elected president of the Excelsior Class of Grace Methodist Church at the meeting Friday at the home of Miss Edith Screen, Schley Street. Mrs. Dorothy Stevenson was named vice president; Mrs. Annie Leith, secretary and Mrs. Ethelwyn Sidaway, treasurer. Mrs. Sue Johnson is Publicity chairman.

Plans were formulated for the Christmas party, December 21 at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Burke, 1 Longonda Street. Class sisters will be revealed and gifts exchanged. A report was given of the Thanksgiving baskets distributed and it was decided to give Christmas baskets.

Devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Annie Leith read the Christmas Story.

SELECTION OF PAJAMAS FOR MEN MORE DAZZLING THIS YEAR AS THEY ARE BROUGHT OUT OF THE BEDROOM

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

It is a well-known fact that most men, left to themselves, would never buy a pair of pajamas.

It also is common knowledge that this distressing situation is remedied competently each Christmas by the little woman, with replacements on such occasions as birthdays and anniversaries.

Pajamas run second only to neckties as the favorite Christmas gift for American males. And it has been noted that the man of the family is submitting more and more gracefully to the whimsies of his womenfolk in these categories—even strutting a little in his leopard silk pajamas or hand-painted ties.

This year the selection is more dazzling than ever, as manufacturers encourage the idea of bringing pajamas out of the bedroom and into the living room for such pursuits as television viewing, canasta playing and just plain lounging.

After all, if Mom can have her hostess gown, why can't Pop have his host pajamas? It seems only logical.

Television pajamas occupy a place all by themselves in display counters these days. They feature extra long, belted jackets with roomy pockets for cigarets, handkerchiefs and such, and come in handsome plain or printed fabrics, ranging from pure silk to cotton.

The Pajama Council (yes, there really is one) also endorses as high style a "sportswear" pajama with knitted jersey top and smooth broadcloth trousers, recommended for leisure wear around the house.

A number of startling prints are available for the man who goes in for dramatic effects. One such, called "Cavalcade of Sports," features a jacket printed with newspaper sports pages, with black trousers and trim. There are harlequin pajamas with bold black and white diamond design and leopard-skin prints, bold plaids and even metallic prints on satin-finished cotton.

Without losing one strand of dignity, snowy-haired, dewey-skinned Mrs. Raymond Clapper lays bare a few zizzling truths about "What It's Like To Be A Widow." In Washington in an article in Coronet magazine. . . And with malice toward none she describes how many influential people she thought were her friends did not help the widow of a man they used while they could. Oh, they professed great friendship. . . But they didn't bow so low, or come to the telephone, or give a job to his widow.

She learned the influential friends acted quite differently without her husband's powerful voice behind her.

In her article on being a widow, Olive Clapper—stately as a duchess, understanding as a Nanny, and good looking, too—admits she needs someone to live with . . . Yearns for the familiar toothbrush in the bathroom, the slippers under the bed, the strewn newspapers, and the welcome greetings at the end of the day.

She says there's plenty of "sex" available to the Washington Widow . . . But too many times the offers come from married men who think they're doing the widow a great favor!!! She discourages these would-be wolves . . . And only wishes that eligible bachlors of proper age did not prefer to marry divorcees or younger women . . . But she thinks they do . . . Self-pride and passion and a last clutch at youth blind him to the fact that a mature woman is often more considerate, of her man's health and well being, and more appreciative of his love.

Guilty or not? Do you damage your good looks by how you stand, hold your purse, or carry packages?

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

UNCONSCIOUS habits ruin many a woman's good looks. Ever notice when you are standing in line for a movie ticket how many girls throw their figures out of line by putting all their weight on one foot? It's just one of the habits that result in what is known to the Powers Girls as lopsided posture. Unbalanced posture of any kind will spoil the appearance of the best-dressed, best-looking girl anywhere.

To find out whether you've been guilty of any common habit that throws one of your hips out and one shoulder way up, make this test:

Are You In Balance?

Don a brief, snug-fitting garment, take off your shoes and stand in front of a long mirror. Bend over like a rag doll and then come up slowly until your back and head are completely erect.

Now, guilty or not? Is one shoulder lower than the other? Is one hip higher? If so, convict yourself and start mending your ways at once. Begin by relaxing the higher shoulder. Just let it drop. You may find that this relief in tension will be enough to even up your shoulders.

To get working on your protruding hip, balance your weight evenly on your feet. See the hip bulge go down? You'll have to concentrate on this balance for a while whenever you are standing. You've probably been favoring one leg for so long that you will have to teach it to do its share.

Although standing off-balance is the big fault of lop-sided posture, there are a number of other little habits that leave an accusing mark on your figure. Start correcting them now and they won't become permanent. Due for elimination are:

Common Faults

1. Clutching your handbag under your arm. Instead, carry it by the strap or frame. 2. Hunching your shoulder to secure your shoulder-strap bag firmly. Hold those shoulders in an even line and let the bag take care of itself. 3. Always making the same hand or arm carry packages. Switch sides frequently. 4. Hunching one shoulder when you write, sew or draw. Sit evenly balanced—no matter what you may be doing.

When it's beauty you are seeking, begin with balance, whether it be in a figure, a diet or a fashion!

Yule Theme Marks Table Settings

Christmas table settings featured the annual pre-holiday Open House sponsored by the Woman's Civic Club in cooperation with the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company closing today at the gas company home service room. Mrs. Albert Paye, Civic chairman, and Miss Rita McIntyre, C and A home economist, are in charge of the display being held from 9 until 5.

A formal dinner table setting, arranged by Mrs. Morton Peskin, features ruby Venetian glassware, tall red candles, dirgold boullion cups and service plates on a white cloth. A gold bird of paradise with yellow mums centers the table.

Mrs. Adolf Blunk used a red check tablecloth for her colonial breakfast table and combined ivory china and green glass. She also used a brass coffee pot and had ivy in a miniature wishing well for the centerpiece.

The cake and cookie table arranged by the company shows ways of packaging cookies and cakes. It also includes a Christmas tree cake, Mr. and Mrs. Puffed Rice in a red sleigh and Christmas card tree frosted in white.

A "Night Before Christmas" party table was set by Mrs. J. Gordon Mitchell. It has a green tablecloth, Santa Claus favors made of apples, dates and marshmallows and reindeer in red and white. There also is a candy house and green napkins with candy canes.

Mrs. William A. Douglas arranged a luncheon table with holly tablecloth and napkins and fringed foil outlining the mirror centerpiece and candles.

The high English tea table, arranged by Mrs. Albert W. Keight

Marriages

Chapman-Cade

The marriage of Miss Yolanda Jane Cade, 413 Prince George Street, daughter of Mrs. Emma Cade, Piedmont, to Sgt. James Robert Chapman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Chapman, Piedmont, was performed Sunday in Kingsley Methodist Church by Rev. M. A. Keesecker. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beard, Westernport, were the attendants.

The bride wore a brown suit with pink hat and her attendant, a blue with red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Piedmont High School and Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. She is employed in the obstetrical department of the hospital. Sgt. Chapman also graduated from Piedmont High School and Coyle Electrical School, Chicago. Entering the service in 1945, he is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga.

Grimes-Davis

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Bessie Irene Davis, 203 Fairfax Street, to Charles A. Grimes, 216 Fulton Street.

The ceremony was performed November 25 by Rev. Donald F. Brake in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran Church. Mr. and Mrs. James Day were the attendants.

The bride wore toast and brown with gardenias and her attendant, gray with pink roses.

Nurses Group Has Party

The Western Maryland-Memorial Hospital Alumnae held its annual Christmas party and decided to have election of officers at the January meetings. Miss Mae Matlick presided.

The party was held at the nurses home. The holiday motif was carried out in red candles and the table appointments. Jingle gifts were exchanged and carols sung.

Concluding the evening canasta was played. Thirty-five members attended.

The Nominating committee includes Miss Mary Wilson, Miss Dallas Nolan and Miss Lehanna Matthews.

Fisher-Vogtman

Mrs. Eleanor Vogtman, Ridgeley, was married to John C. Fisher, Follansbee, W. Va., November 27. Mrs. Raymond L. Beck, Sr., 103 Decatur Street, sister of the bride, has announced. The ceremony was performed in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. John U. Lyness. Mrs. Beck and William P. Brady, Sr., were the attendants.

The bride wore gray with pink rosebuds and her attendant, steel blue with red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are residing in Follansbee, where the former is a foreman of a Diesel plant.

Engagements

The engagement of Miss Mary Lee Rainalter to Charles Milton Sibley, son of Mrs. Wilkins Fontaine Sibley, Durham, N. C., and the late Mr. Sibley, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rainalter, 861 Gephart Drive, parents of the prospective bride.

Mrs. Harold M. Hersch, 102 Decatur Street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helene Greta Hersch, to Dr. Milton Samuel Granet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Granet, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Arvella May to Cpl. Charles W. Turbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Turbin, Star Route, Frostburg, has been made by Mrs. Morris R. Harper, 216 Decatur Street, sister of Mr. Turbin.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Croyle, 119 Elder Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rosetta Croyle, to Howard Dale Whittington, son of James W. Whittington, 205 Robert Street, and Mrs. Howard Bauserman, White Hall.

The engagement of Miss Patricia Ann Hartman to Cpl. Kermit B. VanPelt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit VanPelt, Valley Road, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hartman, Valley Road, parents of the bride-elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. MacMannis, Baltimore, former residents, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Engle MacMannis, to Wilbur Ewald Ruehl, Jr., son of W. Ewald Ruehl, Park Heights, and Mrs. Lee Green, LaVale.

First Baptist To Have Family Night

The Baptist Training Union Council of First Baptist Church will meet tonight at the church.

A Family Night with special Christmas program is to be held at 8 o'clock. A visit by Santa Claus will feature the evening.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

THE PASSING show:

The arrest of famed draft dodger Grover Cleveland Bergdoll's son as a draft dodger might seem to indicate that the family is making a career of this sort of thing.

If so, the failure of Bergdoll pere and fils proves that there's very little future in that profession. It proves, too, current dodgers who believe they can make themselves invisible or un-taggable, in the face of what often looks like blundering bureacracy and red tape, are living in a fool's paradise.

The man with the whiskers is not a man to evade, during those more or less rare occasions in his life that sees him pointing a finger—a la James Montgomery Flagg's immortal enlistment poster—at the able-bodied young men of the nation.

There's a good piece on draft-dodging in the current issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, written by Arthur D. Morse—who had access to the remarkable files of the government agencies concerned.

During World War II the F.B.I. actually uncovered in New York City a school for draft dodgers. Its students were "doctored" in various ways, to make them eligible for a 4-F rating. The "dean" charged fees up to $2,000 to make his students unacceptable to their draft boards. The fee for special instruction in how to convince a darft board that you were nuts was $1,000.

There were frustrations. A father who paid the "dean" $1,125 to keep his son out of service returned home to find that the boy had enlisted in the Coast Guard.

The F.B.I. tracked down 600,000 would-be draft dodgers between 1940 and 1948, and went deeply into 315,000 of their cases. A vast percentage of these came to the conclusion that they'd rather hear a bugle call than serve time in a federal pen. But 16,000 were convicted and sentenced to a total of more than 40,000 years.

• — • — •

Speaking of the F.B.I., if it is true that the President countenanced the recent vicious attack on one of the finest public servants in the history of the country, J. Edgar Hoover, somebody should bring him up to date on the world situation.

In the event of a war with Russia this country would be subjected to an unprecedented avalanche of sabotage, done by American Communists and their confederates. The work of German saboteurs here in World War II was trivial, and that of Japanese spies nothing, as compared to the blows which we are in danger of suffering from the Commies if the war breaks.

• — • — •

Only the very best efforts of the F.B.I. would be able to circumvent enormous damage to America's war potential in the event of war. And "only the very best efforts of the F.B.I." is simply a long way of saying that Hoover must be retained and given the aid with which to fight the spooky menace.

• — • — •

Alarming flash from something called the men's tie foundation:

"There'll be 60,000,000 new neckties finding their way into Christmas socks this year, and almost 100 per cent of them will be bought by women."

Boy, hand me my welder's glasses.

The most natural and exciting movie material I've read recently is "His Majesty O'Keefe," by Lawrence Klingman of International News Service and Gerald Green of the National Broadcasting Co. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

It has all the epic sweep of "Mutiny On The Bounty," this enchanting saga of David Dean O'Keefe, a Georgian who fled his native state in 1870 after killing a man in self-defense, was shipwrecked, became the only survivor to reach the island of Yap, and lived to become its white king and protect it from the attacks, commercial and otherwise, of Germany and Spain.

It's a tremendous adventure.

Killer Of Five Hangs Self In Prison Cell

RAIFORD, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—Victor Licata, who killed five members of his family with an ax as a drug-crazed youth in 1933, took his own life in a prison cell Monday.

Supt. L. F. Chapman of the state prison reported today that Licata hanged himself with a bedsheet.

Eritrea Fights Locusts

ASMARA, Eritrea (AP) — Locust control experts — including a score newly arrived from Britain — will open a full-scale campaign against a serious locust threat. The "Biblical plague" has already left its mark in widespread farming areas. The big threat is expected, however, from swarms due to breed before next April.

Side by side with the trained scientists, in this part of the world, are the witch doctors with their charms and muttered incantations. Their presence helps the morale of the excited natives.

150 Cattle Frozen

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP)—George Porter, living 20 miles west of here, reported today that 150 Brahman cattle froze to death in the blizzard which swept Texas. He estimated his loss as $20,000 to $30,000.

7,500 To Become DPs To Make Room For Atom Energy Plant

AIKEN, S. C.—(AP)—A coming atomic energy plant will sweep habitants from 390 square miles of South Carolina near here as effectively as the H-bomb for which it may make materials.

Most of the people whose lives are deep-rooted in this Savannah River valley country are taking their sudden government order to move with this resigned puzzlement: —"But where?"

It's apparently up to them to find the answer.

Certainly the government, which is to buy the land and is ordering them from 250,000 acres for a $260,000,000 atomic energy plant project, has yet offered them no ready-made solution.

A census would show about 1,500 families in this timber and agricultural area of Aiken and Barnwell counties.

But no census will ever count the heartbreak they'll take with them to new lands, new homes, new lives.

Suppose you were ordered to leave the lands of your birth. Where would you go, what would you do, how would it feel? It's an academic question to most.

Not to these 7,500 souls who face this question. For them, it's the end of the only world many have ever known.

These will be displaced persons—displaced just as surely as though a completed bomb, rather than the making of its ingredients had struck home.

Into the vacuum their departure will create will pour thousands of people lured by millions of dollars in wages from the atomic energy commission.

Highways and railroads must be relocated and new ones built. Nearby towns and cities will boom with demands for housing and goods. Prices will spiral.

Hospitals, schools, churches, civic and community facilities will be overtaxed. New businesses will spring up, old ones expand.

Hanging overhead will be a mushroom-shaped cloud of gloom and foreboding—the shadow of the H-bomb.

The area was chosen by the Atomic Energy Commission after a four-month study of more than 100 sites.

The E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company will design and build the plant over a two to three-year period, then operate it. A construction crew of approximately 8,000 will be needed for at least six months, tarting early next year.

Some families in the rolling sand hills will have to get out within the next six weeks. All residents must be gone within 18 months.

The villages of Ellenton, Dunbarton, Jackson and Snelling will disappear. Ellenton, the largest, has a population of about 700.

The prospect of becoming displaced persons almost overnight has posed scores of knotty problems for these predominantly rural folk. And nobody seems to have the answers just yet.

The first offer of assistance in relocating the people of Ellenton and Dunbarton came from the Batesburg - Leesville Chamber of Commerce, which invited them to move there en masse. Batesburg, Leesville are connecting towns about 50 miles north of the project area, in Lexington county.

The invitation was put to Dr. Fred C. Brinkley of Ellenton and H. J. Linder, Brinkley, a physician, former state senator and a community leader, and Linder agreed to "come up and look over the situation."

Linder is manager of the Leigh Banana Case Company, a fruit and vegetable crate firm employing about 500 people at Ellenton. It's worth about $1,500,000, and is the area's only sizeable industry.

No action has been taken on this and similar offers from other South Carolina communities in this section of the state, such as Allendale, Barnwell and Williston.

People in the path of the project generally are still in an atomic daze.

Elderly A. M. Blakely, who has lived at Ellenton all his life, said nobody knew what to do.

H. M. Cassels, banker, mortician, dairyman, merchant and farmer, said he knew something was coming. He thought it would be a big plant of some kind "to employ about 2,000 people" and make Ellenton "boom."

"We didn't know it would absorb us," he said. "It's like having a death in the family, going to the funeral, then returning home and realizing the emptiness of the house."

He and others think the whole thing has been handled "backwards"—that instead of meeting in such towns as here, Augusta and Barnwell to advise people there to prepare for mushrooming populations, there should have been a meeting to tell the people most affected what to do and prepare them emotionally.

There is a strong feeling of resentment over civic rejoicing in other nearby places that anticipate economic booms.

"They are thinking about profit while we are facing our downfall," Dr. Brinkley said sadly. But, he added, "we are willing to make our sacrifice x x x."

Ellenton, astride the Aiken-Barnwell county line, and Dunbarton, in Barnwell county, are 100 years or more old. Ellenton especially is a typically small and pretty, old-time southern community.

Most people at Ellenton and Dunbarton have been identified with them for generations.

A widow who is a seventh generation Ellentonian, with a small income and two teen-aged sons, has been able to make out on what little she has, but wonders now how she will continue.

She has a negro woman who comes weekly to do washing and clean the house for $1 a week. The widow's rent on a pleasant house: $20 a month.

She says the town is like one big family and feels as "if the H-bomb already had dropped on us."

"It's tragic for us, although it may be good for the rest of the world," she mused. She says she always thought she might move away sometime but doesn't like the government telling her "to get the hell out."

Street Car Chases Hit-Skip Motorist

JUMET, Belgium (AP) — Fast thinking and driving by a Belgian street car motorman led to the apprehension of a hit-and-run driver. The street car was loading passengers when a passing car ran down a passenger and fractured his pelvis.

The driver cut his headlights and hit the accelerator pedal. The motorman yelled a warning to his passengers and set off in pursuit, with their agreement. He was holding his own when the terminus was reached. Two passengers jumped out, commandeered a taxi and continued the pursuit which ended in capture.

A check on autos in an Illinois town showed that one in every seven was faulty. A check on drivers might be more interesting.

Russian Control Of Phones Keeps Austria Isolated

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA—(AP)—Austria is in the heart of Europe, but Russian controls on telephones and radio have made it almost as isolated as a mid-Pacific island.

Making a call between some towns in Austria is like phoning Washington to get a connection from Minneapolis to St. Paul. The call goes the longest way around.

When the operator of a dam at one end of a lake wants to phone the power station at the other he has to route his call through long distance lines halfway across the country.

It takes hours to make a call within the country and sometimes days to complete a call outside, particularly to Germany, just across the border.

Then there is censorship. If you call anyone in the American zone from four-power Vienna, there is always a Russian listening in.

The Russians hold on Austrian communications dates from several slips made by the Western Allies in making an agreement with the Soviet on communications control in 1945. That was in the days when the chief Allied interest was in keeping a firm hand on Austrian communications to prevent any rise of Nazism.

At that time, the Western Allies, now much to their regret, gave the Russians complete control over domestic and international telephone lines from Vienna, the capital. The four powers also decided that any changes in the war-damaged Austrian telephone system required their unanimous approval.

Ever since, the Russians have used their veto to hamstring development of the phone system and to stop:

(1) Construction of new lines between the four occupation zones.

(2) Development of sufficient international long distance lines for Austria's need. Communications to Germany, for instance, are only five per cent of those needed.

(3) Operation of any international radio or radio-telephone circuits by the Austrian government.

The reason for the strict Russian control follows the customary Communist pattern. Next to control of the police, Communist control of communications is a potential weapon against any established government.

Vienna's main long distance telephone exchange is completely in Russian hands. By throwing a few switches, the Soviet could cut off the capital—and also the western occupation forces—from the outside world.

Through their censorship the Russians know of any business the government conducts over the telephone.

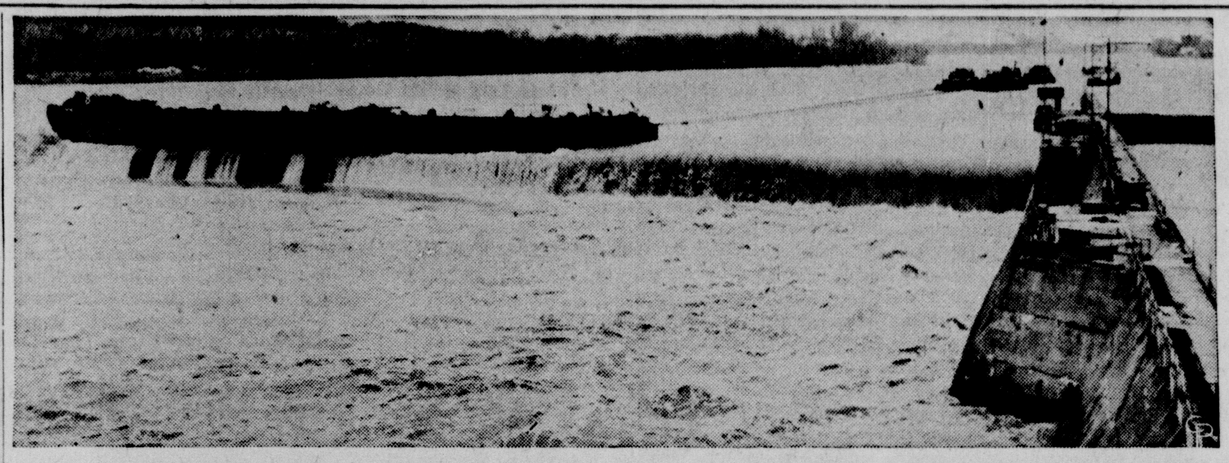
The Russians have cut all but two cables from the Soviet zone and Vienna, and the rest of the country.

The purpose is to make all calls go through the Soviet monitoring stations. That means a business man in the Russian zone near the American zone frontier has to route his call way back to Vienna to call a branch office that may be only a few miles across the border.

An Austrian in a village on the Swiss frontier may want to call his mother in a Swiss village two miles away. His call has to go 900 miles to Vienna and back. He could walk there—and probably spend most of the day—quicker than the call takes.

The Western Allies have tried through 24 meetings of the four-power Allied signal committee to restore normal internal and international communications, set up radio links with the rest of the world, repair old cables, extend police teleprinter networks—all with no avail.

Bandits got $3000 from an east coast doctor's safe. It might interest other doctors to know his collection methods.



CARRYING 650,000 GALLONS of gasoline, a barge clings stubbornly to the brink of the Federal dam in the Hudson river at Troy, N. Y., as tugs strain to pull it free. The barge stuck after breaking loose from a tug in the strong current of the rain-swollen river. (International)

Cubs, Brownies Attend Party

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—One hundred and ten persons attended the annual Christmas party held for the Cubs and the Brownies of the Tri-Towns District of Scouts in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church, recently.

The competitive contests were conducted by Alton R. Fortney. Harry J. Biggs and Ted Metcalfe were judges.

A program of carol singing was led by Dr. Donald P. Whitworth and the Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, district chairman of the Tri-Towns District Scouters.

Refreshments were served by the Brownie and Den Mothers.

A similar party will be held at the same place tonight at 7 o'clock for all scouts except Boy Explorer Scouts and Senior Girl Scouts.

The annual Christmas Scout party of the Senior Council will be held sometime during the Christmas holidays at a place and date to be announced later.

Broadway's "Guys And Dolls" Is Heavy Favorite For Distance Run

By AXEL STORM

NEW YORK—Hey pal! Wanta tip on how to parlay a coupla ideas into a million smackers? O. K.—Fasten on to a heavy chunk of cabbage and scram over to the 46th Street Theatre. If you don't get yourself knocked out in the crush, put your dough on the line and catch this hot favorite they call "Guys and Dolls." My friend Sky Masterson will lay you 7 to 3 that this thoroughbred can beat even "South Pacific" in the big distance race.

Everything about "Guys and Dolls" is right. As near as actors, writers, composers, dancers, directors, scene and costume designers, gag men and straight book gents can bring a musical show close to perfection, the men, women and dolls associated with this production have done it. But, by this time, every show-minded human in the U. S. must have heard that it's a terrific hit with scalpers asking century notes for Christmas or New Year's week seats. For it's a completely hilarious cartoon of the Broadway characters who learn to read from scratch sheets or follow the floating dice games, with a furtive eye out for cops when the heat is turned on by the D. A. It is a kaleidoscopic world, in which there are dolls from the lesser floor shows—some sentimental dolls and some tough; of sidewalk merchants who keep their "tropes and kysters" (tripod and case, to you) just a few feet ahead of the next cop; of chiselers and gents who use "markers" for money when the sawbucks run low; of tin horns and even a gun-totin' big shot from Chicago; of Save-A-Soul Mission lads and lassies who beat the drums and sing hymns on the street corners; of raffish, colorful—and always funny—fat guys, little guys and their fellow travelers.

The late Damon Runyon, whose stories inspired the musical, would have loved it. His characters, with such typical monikers as Harry the Horse; Benny Southstreet, Nathan Detroit, Joey Biltmore, Big Jule or Angie the Ox come fantastically to life, thanks to a job of perfect casting. So authentically are they portrayed that orchestra leader Spike Jones, upon seeing the show, pointed to one of them and said: "I'll swear that's the guy who stole my Buick." The stage manager, looking over the lot, gasped: "What these guys need is a warden—not a stage manager."

As I get the story, some five years ago—a year before death of Runyon, who was one of Broadway's better Boswells—he told a fellow newshound that the possibility of a musical based on his stories was "in the gab state." And there it remained until 1949 when Ernie (the Big Brain) Martin and Cy (Triple Beat) Feuer found themselves out in Hollywood choking to death with cash garnered in their "Where's Charley?" production. They wanted to do a new musical and did a bit of quick cramming on Runyon. They came up with the tale, "The Idyll of Miss Sarah Brown." That's where the doll from the mission came in and, by the way, a dish named Isabel Bigley, never before seen hereabouts, gets her big break here. Well Martin and Feuer got Jo Swerling to work on the book, but he needed a little first aid and dragged in Abe Burrows, a gent who has saved many a radio comedian from mayhem by feeding him gag material. Frank Loesser agreed to turn out the tunes, and after that, there were months of headaches as assorted changes of players, directors, tunes, stage business and the rest, were made.

That sharp director George S. Kaufman was vacationing in the south of France, but they bustled him back to Broadway, cast the show and went on an aspirin diet during try-out performances out of town.

Sam Levene, one of the "Guys" of the title, is Nathan Detroit—and expert, Robert Alda, late of the films is the Sky Masterson, gets religion and is trying to reform as the curtain drops, though he'd probably give you 3 to 1 that there'd be five curtain calls. Vivian Blaine is the perfect Miss Adelaide and the chorines of the honky-tonk are out of this world. This could go on and on, but with a nod to the lyric writer and the composer, "Fugue For Tinhorns" is the classic title of a quartet sung by two-buck Bennies as they study the racing form.

It'll be here a couple of years, so take your time.

LONG A RUSSIAN TOP-SECRET, details of the Soviet MIG-jet fighter recently used in North Korea are now known to Washington and London officialdom. Here, for the first time in the U. S., is revealed a cross-section of the pursuit craft which has a speed in excess of 600 miles per hour. Of all steel construction, its length is approximately 32 feet and the wing span 34 feet, 2 inches. Both its tail-planes and wings are back-swept. Mounting of elevators high on the rudder fin is a feature. The fuselage is almost cylindrical and open at both ends. Air is admitted at the front through divided intake pipes. The exhaust passes from a jet pipe in rear. The open nose is considered dated by experts. The armament reportedly consists of four 20mm ShVAK cannons of Russo-German design, but 30-mm. cannons similar to the German M.G.213C could be carried. In size, it is smaller than the U. S. Shooting Star. (London Illustrated News Exclusive from Central Press)

There's a two-hundred-foot tower on top of the Umpire State building they will use to send out information in the form of herring-boned waves.

That beats billboards. I was looking at a twenty-four sheet of Jimmy Roosevelt telling what he was going to do after he was governor. I decided the trouble with billboards is they only go into one edition.

That aerial on the old Umpire State is 1472 feet up. Indians sending out smoke signals could use it for a stack.

Death Rate High On Pilgrimage

SINGAPORE (AP) — The death list ran high among the 641 Moslems from Malaya who made the long holy pilgrimage to Jeddah. Nineteen of them died at sea aboard the steamer Tyndareus on the way back to Singapore and Penang, all of natural causes.

The ship's physician, D. W. B. Crawford Gibson, died of heart disease shortly before the vessel docked here. Three boys were born during the voyage. All were named after the ship.

Only One Question In Mind Of Man Today, Writer Says

NEW YORK—(AP)—"When will I be blown up?"

That is the only question in the mind of man today, says Novelist William Faulkner.

The questions of such things as honor, courage or virtue don't exist, he said.

Faulkner arrived from his home at Oxford, Miss., en route to Stockholm to receive the 1950 Nobel prize for literature. He was accompanied by his daughter, Jill, 17.

A reporter asked what he considered the most decadent aspect of American life today, and Faulkner replied:

"I'm going to step on your toes now—but it's this running people down and getting interviews and pictures of them, just because something happened to them."

He added, however, it was not the fault of the reporters, saying: "You find people like this sort of thing. There's a sale for it, a market." Asked if he meant people's "morbid curiosity" about the private lives of others, Faulkner said:

"Yes—and that there is a market for it is what I consider decadent.

"It is a symptom of something more evil. Our moral values have about vanished. Man has only one question in mind: 'When will I be blown up?' The questions of honor or no honor, courage or no courage, virtue or no virtue, don't exist."

WITH ALL THE RECENT TALK of possible atom bomb use in the Korean war, these pictures are startingly reminiscent of the Bikini tests. But it's just a slick camera trick, and all that was required to get the effect of an atomic mushroom was an orange. At top, the "big explosion" is merely the core of the fruit and the skin. Below, it is shown on a smaller scale, with the rind resembling a scarred section of the earth. (International)

Here's Advice to Romeos: Sip Lemonade Ere You Kiss Irene (Or Judy?) Goodnight

By JERRY KLEIN
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—If you want to get a new thrill next time you kiss your favorite girl, sip some lemonade first. Have her do the same after removing her lipstick.

That's the advice of Eugene J. Bogucki, a senior medical student at New York Medical college, who has just finished a special study of the fine and applied art of kissing.

He's found that lemonade "lowers lip resistance" and insures the greatest "emotional response" while lipstick "has the opposite effect." The college says Bogucki's work is a serious contribution to science.

Matter of fact, even more learned men than young Bogucki have taken osculation into their laboratories for examination. For instance, Dr. L. Earle Arnow, a biochemist, found that a lot of things happen when a man and a woman kiss—especially if they're in love.

He found that bells ring somewhere in our bodies, setting off the pituitary glands to making a chemical which in turn wakes up our adrenal glands.

These release other chemicals which: Increase our blood pressure, quicken our pulse, speed our circulation, hasten our heart action, open our pores and produce perspiration.

Dr. Clifford R. Adams of Pennsylvania State college found that all this happens regularly to most men, but usually only to those women who are above the teenages. His research showed that younger women don't get as much pleasure out of a sound smack as older one but often indulge the men anyway because "they seem to expect it."

INCIDENTALLY, there is a connection, science says, between the amount of pleasure a kiss gives and the complexion of those whose lips are meeting.

The kisses of brunet women are said to be most stimulating to dark-haired men while blondes disturb light-complexioned men more than brunets do. Similar pairings are believed most satisfying from the women's standpoint, too. so that problem works itself out pretty well for both ladies and gentlemen.

Modern science has even gone into the old eyes-open-or-closed question, although there is still some difference of opinion on the answer.

Emil Malespine, a French psychologist, says the eyes should be kept open because "the visual, as well as the tactual, sense is involved in a good kiss."

Says Malespine: "The sight of beautiful eyes can make a kiss supremely voluptuous." He also recommends that soft music be played in the background to enhance the ecstacy of the kiss.

But Dr. David H. Fink, a psychiatrist who has looked into such things, disagrees with the Frenchman on both the eyes and the music. He says we should close our eyes when embracing because "shutting out distractions increases our concentration on the business at hand."

Dr. Fink also warns a kiss can easily repel instead of attract if the partners are not careful of their breaths. Even a little tobacco taste on the lips can ruin things, he says, especially if one partner smokes but the other doesn't.

No one has yet decided for certain on the comparative potency of the kisses of blondes, brunets, and redheads. Prolonged investigation in that field is one of science's most pleasant jobs to look forward to. It may very well take years. Scientists want to be absolutely sure, you see, before they commit themselves, thereby ending the investigation. They're no fools.

Fort Hill Dinner Date Is Tentatively Set

The dinner to honor Fort Hill High School's undefeated football team has been tentatively set as January 18.

Wednesday night, trophy and ticket committees were set up at a meeting of the Fort Hill Boosters Club which is sponsoring the affair. Lynn Beightol, Sr., R. K. Lathrum and William Orndorff were appointed on the trophy committee. H. Clifford Spiker, president of the Boosters, said about 30 persons are represented on the ticket committee.

Spiker added that another meeting of the Boosters is scheduled for next Wednesday night at 7:30 in Room 115 of Fort Hill High. Movies of the 1949 Fort Hill-Allegany game will be shown.

At the dinner, color movies of the past Thanksgiving contest between the city's two public school rivals will be shown.

The odds against any single number winning any time the ball is whirled on a Monte Carlo roulette wheel are 37-1.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Draftee News To Be Released

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7 (AP) — It's all straightened out — newspapers can publish the number and names of Marylanders drafted for military service.

For the last couple of days national and state selective officials couldn't agree on whether such information should be given newspapers. It all was caused by a directive from national headquarters.

The directive told state offices to have any "statistical" data which might endanger national security cleared by Washington.

Maryland Draft Director Henry C. Stanwood interpreted this to mean a ban on release of information on the number to be drafted or their names. Washington said it didn't.

Stanwood finally called Washington today and things were cleared up. He promptly announced that Maryland will have to supply 704 draftees in February and he is instructing local boards to give newspapers the names of men inducted or summoned for induction.

Special Services

Mrs. Rudolph Mendelsohn, Mrs. Mary Lazarus, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin and Mrs. Maurice Milberg.

Service Planned

At Beth Jacob Congregation, the Chanuko service will be conducted by the children of the Religious School beginning at 8 p. m. Rabbi Jossef Kratzenstein will be in charge of the service which marks the Sixth Light of Dedication.

Sunday at Beth Jacob, a celebration will be held in the Religious School at 10:30 a. m. at which time a new Palestinian movie, "The House In The Desert," will be shown.

The Sunday afternoon portion of the Beth Jacob program includes a "Parents Entertain Children," festival. A supper will follow this program ending the Eighth Light of Dedication.

The Chanuko is a Hebrew word meaning "dedication," and observance of the feast began when the Jews, under the leadership of Mattathias, defeated the armies of Antiochus, the Syrian conqueror who in 165 B. C. had outlawed the Jewish religion. The Judeans recaptured Jerusalem and rededicated the temple. The feast was established in observance of the rededication.

Union Will Stage Christmas Dance

Berg reminded Judge Henderson that the Internal Security Act of 1950, passed last summer by Congress, contains certain amendments to naturalization laws. It is now necessary for applicants for naturalization to be able to read, write and speak the English language unless they were 50 years old on September 23, 1950, and legally had been in this country at least 20 years on that date.

All applicants now also must now demonstrate a firm knowledge of the fundamentals of history, the principles and form of government of the United States. Applicants also must swear to bear arms in behalf of the United States when required by law or to perform noncombatant service in the armed forces. The exception to this last provision is "clear and convincing evidence" that the applicant has religious scruples for refusing.

While here yesterday Berg and Lowell R. Palmes, naturalization officer, gave preliminary hearings to other residents of this area who seek American citizenship.

SMALL CHURCHES, TINY LAMPS THAT DOT U. S. LANDSCAPE

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

This little church has hundreds of counterparts in east, midwest. A tiny mission blooms amidst the sagebrush of the western plains.

ROMANTIC HISTORY, untold hardships, and undying devotion are all interwoven in the thousands of "little churches" that are scattered, like tiny lamps, over the broad expanse of our own United States, Canada and Mexico.

In fact, more religious history is associated with the really small churches of this broad, fertile land of ours, than you'll find in the tall cathedrals and majestic structures lining the avenues of our big cities.

You find these tiny white frame churches in all sections of America. Or perhaps it's a little red brick church, or a small structure made of native stone, buried on some side street of a little western cow-town—in a bleak desert area even, where Indian trails cross. Or perhaps a small church and adjoining parsonage at a rural crossroads in the mighty corn belt of our Midwest.

Wherever it is, there you will also find a plat fenced off, where aged white headstones gleam in the morning sun, and where, if you investigate further, some of the famous names of America have found their last resting place.

TOURISTS might gape in wonder at the mighty citadels of the city, but it is doubtful if any of these architectural wonders have a spot so dear in the hearts of Americans, young and old, as some of the tiny places of worship that dot our countryside.

One little rural church in particular can be used to illustrate this theory. Who of us haven't heard of the famed Church in the Wildwood, in Iowa, or the song associated with it, that has been sung far and wide for the past 60 years?

This old song, variously known as The Church in the Wildwood, and The Little Brown Church in the Vale, was written by Dr. W. S. Pitts, and now is a classic in American hymns. It was first sung publicly in the now-famous little brown church in the vale, at Bradford, Iowa, although Dr. Pitts wrote the song before the actual church was built.

Off the coast of New Hampshire is a little church that is unique, for it stands as a lone citadel on Star island, 10 miles or more from the mainland. Star island, incidentally, is said to be the only island off America's coastlines that is dedicated entirely to religious services. Built in 1800, the little church there is used by the families of the east coast fishermen, who pray for their safe return from the sea.

Another small church which sprang into fame in recent years is a quaint old Quaker meeting house in Sandy Spring, Md., about 20 miles from Washington. Its popularity and prominence was national news coverage after President Herbert Hoover regularly attended services there.

SOME of the most unique small churches in America can be found in our west and southwest, where many a crude adobe structure is dedicated to religious service on Indian reservations and lonely little towns in mountainous areas and desert reaches. The Little Church of the West, in Nevada, is one of the most beautiful small churches in the entire nation, although it is so tiny that it holds only a handful of people.

In mentioning the tiny churches of our land, there is one which should not be passed by without mention. It stands on the top of Mount Cassino, some few miles south of Covington, Ky., on the Highland Pike, and is believed the smallest church in the world, since it accommodates a congregation of not 30, but three, people!

THIS TINY edifice of brick was built in 1890 by Brothers of the Benedictine Monks, who used it as a shrine during the years they were engaged there in making sacramental wines.

Whether you travel east, west, north or south, the small churches of our country stand out as living citadels of a gracious, God-fearing people.

The Ozark regions of Missouri and Arkansas have their share of picturesque little edifices; the Spanish missions of the southwest tell in simple art the tales of hard work and great hardships; while our eastern churches are synonymous of the early civilization and influence of our country.

Truly America can be proud of her little churches. They are dotted throughout the countryside in such number that their future is assured. They are an important part of the great religious freedom in America.

SCENTS-IBLE CHRISTMAS PROPOSED FOR TROUSER SET WHO CAN USE A TOUCH OF GLAMOUR IN GROOMING

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Why not a scents-ible Christmas for the trouser set this year? Have you ever found the brother, father, husband or boyfriend who couldn't use a bit of glamor from the good-grooming shelves?

If his trouble is keepnig his fingernails clean and his coat brushed, get him one of those little simulated leather cases that contains a 6-inch clothes brush with stiff bristles, a comb and nail file. It will slip easily into a man's inside coat pocket.

Perhaps he never can find his comb in the morning. But if he had an attractive military set consisting of two brushes and a comb, which was pretty enought to display on his dresser, he could speed up his dressing. These come in high polished blond satinwood and are budget-priced.

Lots of men like cologne and a lovely "Here's How" scent comes appropriately packaged in a miniature cocktail shaker. It is accompanied by a small metal bucket containing shaving cream. Later the little bucket would make a handsome cigarette container in that man's den.

If he doesn't go for the fancier colognes or solid cologne sticks but still likes a little scent in his toiletries, a smart fern fragrance in an after-shave lotion is another way to that man's heart.

Lots of masculine toiletries are handsomely packaged so they can be displayed on dresser or bathroom shelf. One line stresses colored flagons. Everything from gold de luxe sets to separate items in dubonnet, cedar green, alabaster and ebony offer possibilities of the Christmas gift shopper.

Whether for that little present for brother or her favorite escort, a young girl will find a travel set of shaving accessories offers sure-fire male appeal. One travel set contains a tube of brushless cream, after-shaving lotion and talcum in smart squat bottles. Its "old spice" scent is particularly masculine.

CHICAGO-AKRON-PITTSBURGH
WASHINGTON and the EAST

There is something gay and colorful about this Diesel-electric streamliner at any time. Add the fact that you pay only low coach fare, and you have the ideal train for that Christmas trip.

A ride in the Strata-Dome*, with only the stars above you, is a thrilling gift to yourself! Besides this, there are restful "Sleepy Hollow" reclining coach-seats (reserved in advance without charge), friendly lounges, a delightfully modern diner, radio and musical programs.

And with it all—the B&O "extras": unusually fine food, old-fashioned courtesy, and the assurance of arriving on time. Christmas is coming fast—make reservations now!

Not This... But THIS Will Save You More Money

A&P's PRICE POLICY

Storewide Low Prices on Hundreds of Items Every Day...

... instead of just a few one-day or week-end "specials."

Advertised prices are guaranteed for one week, even though market prices go up. We believe this policy helps our customers save more money.

With the correct price marked on every item, plus an itemized cash register slip... you know what you save at A&P.

The average family requires a wide variety of foods and household needs every week. It stands to reason, therefore, that it is more advantageous to shop where you can save money on many of the things you need rather than on just a few "specials." At A&P you can not only do that, but do it any day you choose, because in addition to A&P's storewide low prices on hundreds of items A&P's advertised prices are guaranteed for a full week, even though market prices go up.

Customers' Corner

In order to give you the utmost in quick, convenient and satisfying shopping, we have extended self-service to most of the departments in your A&P.

But that doesn't mean that when you come to A&P you're "on your own."

The large, well-trained staff in your super market are anxious to give you all the help, guidance and individual attention you need.

For instance, if you can't find a particular item or department don't hesitate to ask for it. And if you want a special cut of meat, ask for that, too.

We will welcome any suggestions you may have that will help us make self-service mean better service to you.

Country Fried Steak Not Really Fried

Ask a man to name his favorite foods. Chances are he'll remind you of country fried steak. But strictly speaking, he's not having fried steak. Country fried steak is really prepared by a combination braising and frying method, as explained by Reba Staggs, authority on meat cookery.

First of all, the homemaker may choose either chuck or round steak and have her dealer cut the meat into ½-inch thick individual servings. Before cooking, seasoned flour is pounded into the steaks for an attractive finished dish.

In cooking, the individual steak servings are placed in a frying-pan with lard or drippings. When the meat is thoroughly browned on both sides, the pan is covered and the meat allowed to cook slowly for about 45 minutes. At the end of this time the meat is removed and flour is browned in the meat drippings (same amount of flour as drippings—approximately 2 tablespoons each for 1 cup of milk). Milk is added and when the gravy is slightly thickened, the steaks are placed back in the pan, covered and cooked 20 minutes longer. The tender slices are then ready to serve with the hot gravy.

South-Of-The-Border Meal

MEXICAN TOUCH . . . Roll spicy meat in mush.

TAMALES . . . Southwestern treat . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If your family likes Mexican food you'll be interested in this streamlined version of tamales. Since the dry corn husks in which tamales are tarditionally cooked aren't always available, we've made use of aluminum foil. Serve a salad with the tamales and add a loaf of crunchy French bread. Slice the bread in thick slices, but not quite through the bottom, so that the loaf will still be intact. Then mix a little finely cut parsley with some softened butter; hold the slices apart with your fingers and butter them on each side. Toast the loaf in a hot oven just before serving. For dessert have pineapple or some other fruit and lots of coffee.

Mexican Tamales
Meat Filling

Ingredients: ½ cup finely chopped onion, 2 cloves garlic (crushed), 1 pound lean ground beef, 1 tablespoon fat, 3 tablespoons chili powder, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 six-ounce can tomato paste.

Method: Lightly brown onion, garlic, and ground beef in fat. Add chili powder, salt, pepper, and tomato paste, cover pan and simmer for 15 minutes. Now prepare the mush.

Mush

Mix 1½ cups enriched corn meal, 4 teaspoons flour, 1 teaspoon chili powder and 2 teaspoons salt. Mix with 1½ cups cold water. Stir mixture into 2 cups boiling water and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cover and continue cooking over low heat 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. While the corn meal is cooking, cut 18 six-inch squares of aluminum foil.

Note: Corn husks can be used in place of aluminum foil as a wrapper. Spread one husk with mush and filling. Roll and then wrap additional husks around the outside. Fold up one end and steam as below.

Tamales

Place a tablespoon of hot mush on each square of foil. With a knife dipped in cold water spread the mush to form 4-inch squares. Place a tablespoon of meat filling across the center of each square. Roll up; seal only one end of the roll. Store in refrigerator overnight. Stand tamales with the open end up in a pan containing a little water. Cover pan and steam for 2 hours, adding more water as needed. Makes 10 tamales.

Coconut Pumpkin Chiffon Tarts Are A New Treat

Pumpkin, that frosty weather favorite takes on a different and delicious taste in Coconut Pumpkin Chiffon Tarts. Thank, unflavored gelatine for its smooth melt-in-the-mouth texture.

Coconut Pumpkin Chiffon Tarts

1 envelop unflavored gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 2 eggs, separated, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1¼ cups mashed cooked pumpkin, ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ½ teaspoon each of salt, nutmeg and cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon ginger, 1 cup shredded coconut, toasted*, 8 baked tart shells, ⅓ cup cream, whipped and sweetened.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Put egg yolks in top of double boiler, add evaporated milk and beat until blended. Stir in pumpkin, ½ cup of the brown sugar, salt and spices. Cook over boiling water 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; add remaining sugar gradually and continue beating. Fold pumpkin mixture into egg whites with ¾ cup of the toasted coconut. Fill tart shells, chill until firm. To serve, top with whipped cream and remaining coconut. Yield: 8 servings. *To toast coconut, spread thinly in shallow pan. Place in moderate oven (350°F.) and toast about 10 minutes, or until delicately browned. Stir occasionally to toast evenly. Cool before adding to pumpkin mixture.

If you like a biscuit topping on a casserole, try this. Cut biscuit dough with your doughnt cutter and arrange the doughnuts over the top of the casserole. Just before serving, fill the doughnut holes with chopped parsley or pimiento.

Ruby Salad Dressing
(Makes 1 cup)

½ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ cup evaporated milk

Mix together chili sauce, lemon juice, salt and pepper; stir gradually into evaporated milk. Serve over tossed green or other vegetable salads.

...IN COOKING!

Your taste tells you a woman makes

MRS. FILBERT'S MARGARINE

"When you folks write me that my margarine 'tastes homemade' I'm proud as punch!" says Mrs. Filbert. "It's my own recipe, you know. I blend together the finest ingredients homestyle, in small batches. Personal care—that's my secret for a fresher, sweeter flavor that other companies can't match!"

Treat your family tonight to sunny-sweet Mrs. Filbert's. Spread it thick and golden on bread, melt it over hot vegetables—cook with it, too! If your family likes crispy pan fries—luscious cakes—don't wait. You want Mrs. Filbert's Margarine. Choose it two delicious ways: Handy Golden Quarters and the extra-thrifty Golden Pound. 15,000 units of Vitamin A fortify every pound. Try some soon.

Only a woman could make it—it tastes SO GOOD!

Asparagus ham cornucopias are as good tasting as they are good looking. Heated in the broiler and served on toast points, covered with rich flavorsome cheese sauce they make a hearty main course.

Asparagus And Ham Cornucopias

If it is a luncheon for your club, for the current bride, or a dinner party, Asparagus Ham Cornucopias, as the main dish, will fill the bill to a "T". It's good and it's pretty; women like it and men like it; and, best of all, it's easy.

The hostess will enjoy this party for it will be so little toil and trouble. Broiled and topped with creamy cheese sauce, canned spears of asparagus tucked in ham to form cornucopias will make light work of your party preparations.

For a "ladies luncheon" garnish the plate with tomato wedges and ripe olives and pass potato chips. Then for an easy but good, dessert, top a square of Devil's food cake with a canned peach half filled with butter pecan ice cream.

Asparagus Ham Cornucopias

1 1-lb. can asparagus spears
4 slices boiled ham
Toast
Cheese sauce

Drain liquid from asparagus. Place 5 or 6 asparagus spears on each ham slice diagonally. Fasten opposite corners with toothpicks to form cornucopias. Broil until ham is slightly brown and heated through. Serve on slices of toast and pour cheese sauce over each portion. Four servings.

Often there is more the matter with the mechanic than there is with the automobile he is trying to repair.

The average person is said to be sick only eight days each year. Yet the first of the month comes 12 times.

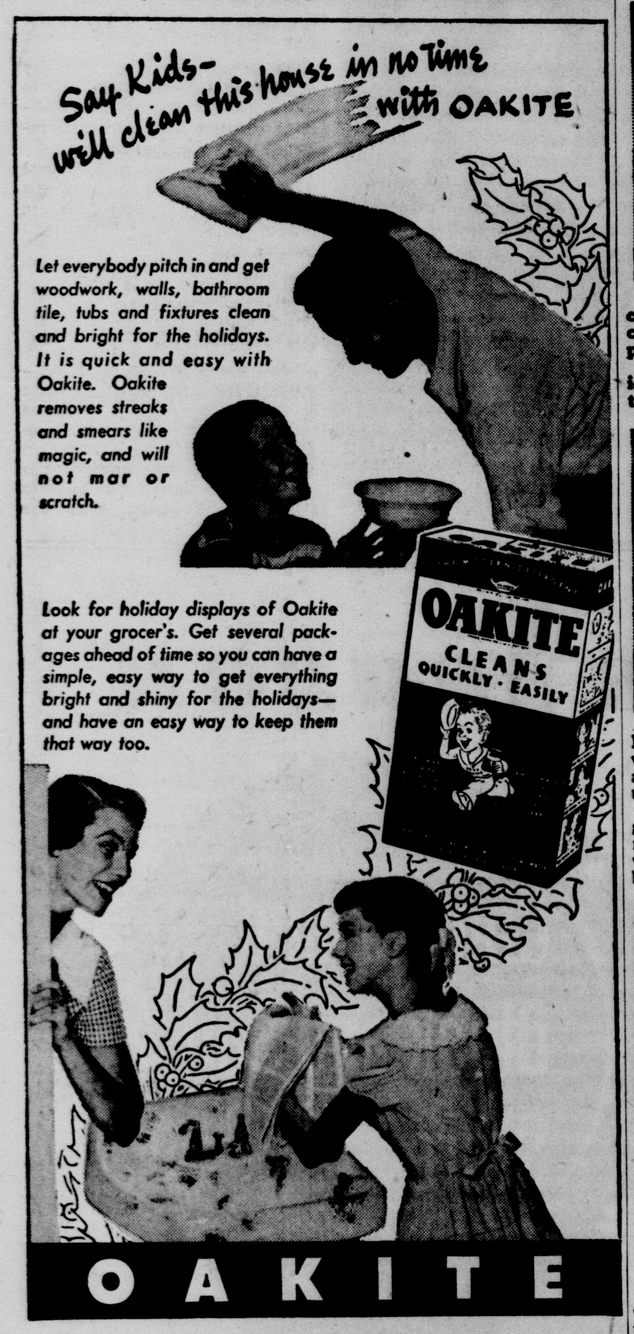
Pastry Pumpkin

Tender pastry pumpkins can add a seasonal touch to individual tarts or family size pies. Or cut strips of pastry and top with orange tinted sugar for your youngster's enjoyment.

Panfry or Panbroil

What is the difference between panbroiling and panfrying? In panbroiling the fat is poured off as it accumulates in the pan, whereas in panfrying the fat is allowed to accumulate in the frying pan.



FAMOUS COOKIE EASY TO MAKE

MOST famous of the treats that fill America's cookie jar are Chocolate Crunch Cookies.

Whole morsels of semi-sweet chocolate that characterize these cookies are added right from the package.

To make Chocolate Crunch Cookies, sift 1⅓ cups sifted flour with ½ teaspoon soda and ½ teaspoon salt.

Blend ½ cup butter or shortening with spoon until creamy; slowly add sugar and continue to work until light.

Add one egg, and stir well together. Add the flour mixture, and mix, then add a few drops hot water, and mix together until well blended.

Add ½ cup chopped nuts, 1 package semi-sweet chocolate and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet.

Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 10-12 minutes. YIELD: 50 cookies.

You'll have to get into the upper crust if you care about being the toast of society.

Individual Tray Course Starts Holiday Dinner

Christmas dinner is one of the most festive meals of the year. And the opening course sets the tone for the whole dinner. It should tempt the palate with sparkling flavors and attractive appearance.

Try serving the starter course in the living room, on individual trays. This handy method eliminates changing dishes on the table, lets you have it ready for the main course.

Finger food is in keeping with the informality of tray service. You need not have a great variety, but rather serve just one or two extra special tidbits.

First of all, have a Deviled Cheese 'N Egg Boat to add a gay flair to each tray. A stuffed egg makes the boat while a piece of mild-flavored Chateau acts as the sail.

For more easy-to-eat food, have a small mound of Creamy Marvel Dip for each guest. This appetizing mixture is a blend of sour cream, cream cheese and minced canned clams. Supply everyone with some potato chips or crackers to gather up the dip.

Something to drink rounds out a first course of savory appetizers. To go with the cheese boats and the clam dip, try Cranberry and Apple Nog. Just before serving, float a layer of sour cream spiced with nutmeg and cinnamon on the chilled apple and cranberry juice. It adds a novel zip to the drink.

Deviled Cheese 'n Egg Boats
(Makes 12 boats)

½ lb. Chateau Cheese
6 eggs, hard-cooked
1 tablespoon mayonnaise, about
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
dash of pepper

Cut Chateau Cheese in half crosswise. Allow half of the cheese to soften at room temperature for about 30 minutes; place second half in refrigerator. Beat cheese until smooth and creamy. Cut eggs in half lengthwise. Remove yolks and press through sieve. Blend with creamed Chateau Cheese. Combine mayonnaise, mustard, salt and pepper. Stir into cheese mixture, mixing well. Pile the mixture lightly into the egg white halves. Cover with waxed paper or aluminum foil and place in refrigerator until ready to serve.

To make sails: Cut remaining cheese, crosswise, into six equa slices. Cut each slice diagonally to form two triangles for sails. Wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator until ready to serve.

To make boats: Just before serving, sprinkle chopped parsley or paprika on stuffed egg, insert a toothpick half-way into each cheese sail. Holding the sail, press toothpick into each egg. Serve.

Creamy Marvel Dip
(Makes 1½ cups)

2 3-oz. pkgs. Cream Cheese
½ cup Light Sour Cream
⅛ teaspoon salt, about
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅔ cup (10½-oz. can) drained minced clams

Let cream cheese soften at room temperature. Cream until smooth. Gradually blend in sour cream. Stir in salt and Worcestershire sauce. Fold in clams. Serve with potato chips or crispy dip crackers.

Cranberry And Apple Nog
(Makes 6 servings)

1 quart apple juice, chilled
1 cup cranberry juice, chilled
½ cup Sour Cream
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg

Combine apple juice and cranberry juice. Mix together sour cream, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir in vigorously about 2 teaspoons of the juice to thin the cream mixture. Pour combined juices into serving cups or glasses. Carefully spoon fluffy sour cream topping on surface of each drink.

OUR POLICY all items remain at advertised prices until stock is depleted regardless of the day of the week. Never have we been guilty of raising prices when the market goes up on stock on hand. We always try to protect our customers.

Youth Awarded Scholarship

A physical therapy scholarship for training under nationwide program of National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis has been awarded to James J. Donahue, 102 Virginia Avenue, Miss Catherine C. Gaule, state representative, reports.

Donahue is one of 18 Maryland residents to receive a scholarship since the foundation expanded its physical therapy program in 1945 to help combat a critical shortage of qualified personnel in the physical therapy field.

Donahue is studying at Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, one of many schools and institutions throughout the country approved for this type of training by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education and Hospitals.

Forms Safety Club

A local chapter of the Safety Carefuliers has been organized in the city by a group of children who have been made safety minded by the recent wave of sledding accidents. The group formed recently at the home of Peter W. Smith, Jr., 913 Louisiana Avenue.

The Safety Carefuliers were organized in Washington, D. C., by Honorary Police Inspector Richard H. Mansfield this year.

Joseph Webb presided and read the Carefuliers Pledge which is a promise to cooperate in the highway safety program.

Webb also was named to thank Police Commissioner John J. Long for alleys roped off for safe sledding. The lanes are under the supervision of Mrs. Peter W. Smith, Sr.

Plans were made to have more children of the neighborhood attend the next meeting Saturday afternoon December 16 at the home of Mrs. Smith. "A Safe CHristmas Tree" will be the theme. Officers will also be elected.

Others attending the initial meeting were Fred Tewell, Michael Irvin, Linda Miglio, Deborah Smith and Celeste Smith.

Christmas Seal Drive At One Third Of Goal

The Allegany County Tuberculosis Association reported yesterday that returns from the Christmas Seal sale total one third of the $15,000 goal.

Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the association, said to date 33 per cent of the letters mailed to residents here have been returned with contributions.

At this point last year, the seal sale was $250 behind the total this year so far, but Miss Reinhard pointed out that more letters were sent out this fall.

Cub Scout Group To Hold Meeting

A meeting of Pack 8, Cub Scouts committee of St. Mary's Church, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Haven.

At a recent meeting of the Pack Thomas Deffinbaugh was sworn in as a cub and six prospective cubs were given applications for membership.

Den 3 presented a radio show, with Richard Coleman, Roger Saliga, Richard Shaffer, Joseph Hay and Edward Breighner participating. A radio skit was also presented by Donald Richards, John Hudson, James Andrews, Charles Andrews, Thomas Hudson, Leonard Hymes and David Fisher, all of Den 4.

Robert Brinker, chief of Den 3, entertained with an amateur magic show and a quiz program was held by Ernest Weisenmiller, cubmaster, and William Hay, assistant.

Radio equipment made by the dens was exhibited and refreshments were served by the mothers of Den 3.

Harris Reports Election Expenses

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris filed his election expense account yesterday at the Court House along with that of William A. Gunter who campaigned for attorney general.

The cost of Judge Harris' campaign during the general election was $3,652.37 and the report stated there were no outstanding obligations.

Gunter, local attorney, who lost out to Hall Hammond in the race for attorney general of Maryland, listed total expenses of $1,175 during the general election.

He listed $300 to Joseph R. Carter, manager of the campaign for Governor-elect Theodore R. McKeldin; $100 each to the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Gunter received a $1 contribution from a Chicago source which was signed "Charity To All." He believes an Associted Press story during the campaign, in which was recounted some of the misfortunes during his travels around the state, was printed in the Illinois metropolis and resulted in the anonymous donation.

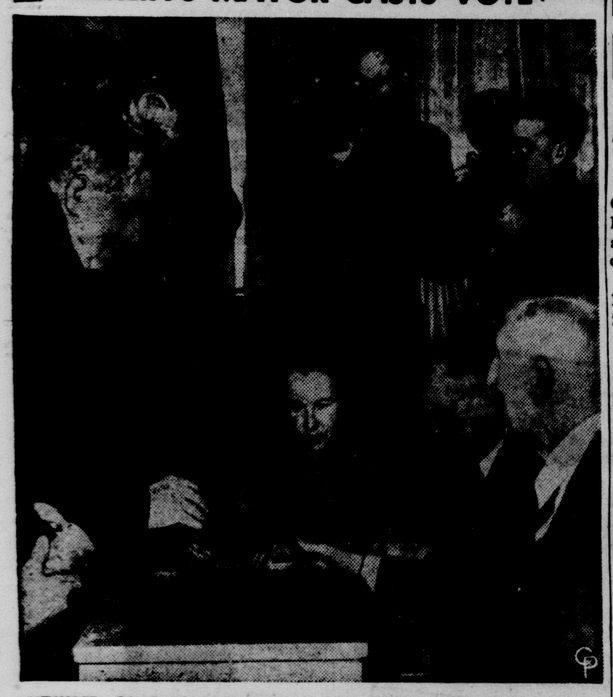
BERLIN'S MAYOR CASTS VOTE.



NEWSREEL CAMERAS are trained on West Berlin's Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter as he casts his ballot in the recent municipal election. Despite efforts of Communists to keep Berliners from the polls, a 90 per cent vote was registered. The Reds took a bad beating as members of Parliament were chosen by voters for a four-year term. (International)

Fire Department Issues Warnings About Yule Fires

In warning the public about Christmas tree fires, the Cumberland Fire Department said "care and caution" are the watchwords of this year's safety campaign.

Acting Fire Chief William L. Lindner warned that it is virtually impossible for a non-skilled person to flame-proof a Christmas tree successfully with chemicals or paints. He advised residents to heed the following suggestions:

Choose a small tree instead of a larger one because the former is just as attractive and less of a fire hazard; keep the tree outdoors until ready to install it; stand the tree in water, which retards the drying out process, and keep it away from radiators, heaters or fireplaces; do not use cotton or paper for decorating unless they are flame-proof.

Watch Wrappings

Do not place electric trains around the tree; use only electric lights approved by the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc.; discard sets with frayed wiring and inspect every socket and wire to make certain the set is in good condition; use flame-proof or fire-proof decorations of glass or metal to decorate tree.

Remove gift wrappings promptly after presents have been opened; provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning lights off and on; do not leave lights burning when no one is in the house; from time to time, inspect the tree to see whether any needles near the lights have started to turn brown—if so, change the position of the lights; when needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it outdoors.

Parties at home, school or church during the Christmas holidays invite danger, Chief Lindner said, offering more rules:

Do not locate the Christmas tree near any stairway or elevator shaft which would provide a draft; the tree should not block any door or any exit; be sure that plenty of ashtrays are provided for smokers; do not allow smoking near the tree; avoid using net or gauze-like fabrics for dresses, costumes or children's clothes, and flame-proof loosely worn garments if they have to be worn.

Flame-Proof Suggestion

To flame-proof clothing mix nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid in a gallon of water. Dip the fabric into the solution, wring by hand and then hang to dry. The flame-proofing method must be repeated after each laundering.

Chief Lindner said parents should insist that all toys are safe and incapable of causing fire, shock or explosion. Adults should take care also in purchasing chemical sets for children, he added.

Toys requiring alcohol, kerosene, gasoline or carbide lamps may be hazardous in juvenile hands, and parents should supervise any play with electrical toys or toys involving fuels and chemicals.

In case of fire at home get everybody out of the house and call the nearest fire company immediately. At public gatherings walk, do not run, to the nearest exit and keep calm.

Most girls would prefer not to get just candy as a Christmas present. It's rapped as a gift!

Embroidery Runs Riot On Paris' Spectacular Winter Party Dresses

By FLORENCE MILLS

PARIS — (AP) — Party dresses designed for the festive season by French couturiers vary a lot in style, but they all have one thing in common—plenty of embroidery in every shape and form.

In addition to the usual sequins, pearls, jet beads and mock diamonds, two extra novelties have been introduced this winter—embroidery with wool and tufts of fur.

Schiaparelli plasters tufts of grey squirrel fur all over a tight fitting little jacket made of champagne colored satin which has a fluted peplum extending into two ground-length tails at the back. She speckles the fur tufts with pearls and sparkling rhinestones and smothers the space between the autumn leaves embroidered in silk and gold thread.

Jacques Griffe goes in for wool flowers. He makes a strapless number in smoke grey tulle, which has about a dozen circular skirts piled on top of each other, and veils the whole affair with white shadow lace spattered liberally with flowers embroidered in shaded grey wool, centered with jet and mock diamonds.

Both long and short evening dresses are popular this winter but both are split into two distinct classes—those with crinoline or bouffant skirts that eat up yards of materials and those with poker straight skirts that impede movement and show up all figure faults except slimness.

Tulle, taffeta and satin are the three main materials used, except for occasional lame or broche. In the main the luxurious look is in the embroidery more than the material.

One of the most spectacular creations is shown by 25-year-old Alwynn, who embroiders black and white horse blanket check wool with glass bugle beads and jet stones. He uses it for a tight-waisted evening coat with a skirt big enough to fit over the white tulle crinoline set beneath it. The bold check wool is also used for the crinoline bodice.

Another fabulous creation by Alwynn is a white satin strapless sheath which has so much bead fringe and chunks of glass dangling from its bodice it looks like a walking chandelier.

Jacques Griffe uses shaded chiffon for a knife-pleated number which starts lime yellow at the waist and ranges through grey and peacock blue to petrol at the hemline. Another called "Noel" is in thin grey lace and has its bouffant skirt overlaid with shaded old gold and turquoise chiffon.

This designer also creates a snaky looking dress in rustling black taffeta and emphasises its leanness by balancing a gigantic, two-foot long bow on one shoulder and another on the opposite hipbone.

A remarkable evening "coat" by Schiaparelli had the right half of the front in golden yellow velvet and the opposite side of the back in black velvet. That's all there is. The coat has no other half.

Enormous cornet shaped pockets, stiffened to jut out from one side of pencil slim skirts so much that one can almost visualize a baby kangaroo sitting in them were introduced by Jacques Griffe.

One of his most striking numbers is a severe Chinese style coat in black wool lined with peacock blue jersey. It has gold steering-wheel buttons on the pockets and right down the front.

Jacques Heim introduces very bulky teddybear coats with tremendous collars and lapels that spread themselves right over the wide shoulder span and huge foot-deep patch pockets. Heim goes in for simple shirtwaist styles with slender wraparound skirts and gently bloused bodices.

Aprons also are invading the drawing room and ballroom.

Marcel Rochas has put them to work on cocktail and evening dresses.

On his short dresses the aprons are tiny affairs which tie around the waist and finish in two long ends that act as loose flying panels down the back.

For evening he covers a black taffeta strapless sheath with a long-sleeved, high-necked black lace over-dress. Over all this he loops an enormous black velvet apron which dwindles to nothing at each side of the waist.

Rochas sometimes builds the apron into the dress. One treated like this was of black velvet and perfectly straight-cut. It was attached to black taffeta which fell in a torrent of fullness down the back.

THE INVASION OF TIBET by Chinese Communists appears to be a well-equipped military move as is indicated by the orderly truck convoy (top) parked near a hillside village. In contrast is the crude ferrying of a car across a river (bottom), and the construction of a bamboo bridge. Great distances and desolate mountain country, rather than organized Tibetan resistance, have impeded the Chinese invaders. (International)

U. N. Unable To Assure Peace, O'Conor Declares

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) declared last night that the United Nations "is incapable of assuring world peace at this time.

Therefore, we must arm to the teeth and convert our economy to a wartime basis "so that international pirates cannot overthrow our way of life," he added.

"Historically, we dislike having to use our substance for destructive purposes," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Baltimore Drug Exchange.

"But our nation has learned at last that we have no alternative and that military might is the only insurance against lawlessness and aggression," he declared.

Look Way Ahead

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP) — People here believe in getting ready early.

Representatives of 15 borough organizations met last night to plan the community's Fourth of July celebration next summer.

It is not possible for an object to be wider than it is long.

Sale Of Toll Bridges Illegal, Court Rules

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—State Superior Court ruled that the sale of two Delaware river toll bridges to Burlington county for $12,000,000 was illegal.

The state had brought suit contending that Burlington county's 1948 purchase of the Tacony-Palmyra and Burlington-Bristol bridges was engineered through "fraud, misrepresentation and undue influence."

The state said it could have bought the bridges for $4,900,000.

Judge Walter J. Freund ordered the bridges restored to their private owners and ruled that the State of New Jersey has the right to purchase them.

Bowling was outlawed in England under the reign of Henry VII.

Progress Made In Producing Cold Rubber And Getting Oil From Coal

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Americans are getting better at producing cold rubber and in getting oil from coal.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers got a report on progress in those fields at their 43rd annual meeting here.

Marvin W. Larson, of the B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co., Cleveland, told about development of a way to make cold rubber continuously, instead of in batches.

Most motorists now know that cold rubber for tires is superior to the synthetic kind turned out during the World War II.

It used to take 16 hours to mix batches of cold rubber. But the Goodrich-operated RFC plant in Port Neches, Tex., now uses a continuous cold rubber process that has increased capacity about 20 per cent. It also cut production costs and improved quality.

E. L. Clark, Pittsburgh, Pa., reported improvements in a process for getting oil from coal.

Clark said it now takes only 1,500 pounds pressure to get usable fuel oil from coal. That is a three to six-fold reduction from the previously developed high-pressure method, he explained.

The high-pressure method required heavy forgings and special piping and valves on machinery getting oil from the coal. The lower pressure permits use of welded equipment and more available piping material, Clark said.

To youngsters, food for deep thought is served on the multiplication table.

Two U. S. Films Banned In Punjab

SIMLA, India — (AP) —Two motion pictures, "The Conspirators" and "The Red Danube," have been banned in Punjab state. They were banned in Delhi earlier, but have been shown in other parts of India.

Officials refused to give reasons for this action, but reliable sources said the Russian embassy in Delhi intervened on the plea they were anti-Soviet propaganda films.

Bags Mighty Elk

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP) — A big elk killed near here by Maj. J. E. Hahn of Toronto is believed to be one of three mighty bulls which battled for kingship of an elk herd. The animal weighed more than 1,000 pounds, with a 43-inch stretch between the tips of its 12-point antlers.

A plant boss blamed absenteeism on workers feeling too tough at the end of the week. Or, in some cases, is it too tough a week-end?

Malaya Watches Border

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The government of the Federation of Malaya is tightening up its security measures along the Thailand-Malaya border. The entire stretch of the frontier now is closed from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m.

During daylight hours, immigration officers have the power to ban the entry into Malaya of anyone suspected of being likely to promote sedition or "to cause a disturbance of public tranquillity." Arrests can be made without a warrant.

The federal government's move is aimed at halting increased Communist terrorist activity in the areas near the Thailand border.

McKeldin Will Break Ground At St. John's

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 7 — The hopes and efforts of a generation of St. Johnnies will be realized here Saturday at noon when Governor-elect Theodore R. McKeldin breaks earth for the first major building on the St. John's College campus in 40 years.

Erection of the Georgian-type building on the southwestern boundary of the college's back campus was made possible by a gift earlier in the year from Paul Mellon's Old Dominion Foundation.

The $173,413 brick structure will have a two-story central unit for the college's heating equipment and two wings to house student shops and boat building activities.

In addition to jubilant college officials, students and alumni, Governor-elect McKeldin will be assisted by State Senators William Stromeyer and Louis Phipps, Annapolis Mayor Roscoe Rowe and other Anne Arundel County officials. Out-of-state business kept Gov. Lane from the ceremony, the college said.

The new heating plant will replace the present antiquated plant nicknamed "Puffing Billy" by several generations of students who have wagered coin as to the month and day the old boiler would blow up.

Scheduled for completion in July, 1951, the heating plant was designed by the Baltimore architectural firm of James R. Edmunds, Jr., and will be erected by William T. Lyons Co., Inc., also of Baltimore.

Members of the college's building committee which awarded the contract are: Richard F. Cleveland, chairman of the board; William Lentz, board secretary; Stewart C. Stackhouse, building committee chairman; and President Richard D. Weigle.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A bearded mountaineer gave two hunters from the city explicit directions for reaching the area they had circled on their map, and as an afterthought, said, "There's a still up thar, and long as you're passing by it, you might as well bring back a coupla jugs of moonshine with you."

They found the still on their way home, picked up two jugs apiece, and started ambling down the hill. When a bullet whizzed by their ears, however, they accelerated their pace to a wild gallop. The mountaineer saw them dash madly into his yard and said, "What ails ye, boys?"

"Federal agents must be raiding your still. They shot at us," gasped one of the hunters.

"Shucks," said the mountaineer, unperturbed. "I jist forgot to tell you one thing. That ain't my still."

Matter Of Fact

icans and British; above all, both parties were alike in not really knowing which way to turn or what to do.

The main decision, to make an all-out joint effort to rebuild the military power of the West in the shortest possible time, no doubt looks impressive. It may even seem revolutionary to many people when the Congress is confronted with the staggering bill, which will make all the previous, often fluctuating estimates of defense costs look pretty trifling. But the real position was summed up by a member of Prime Minister Attlee's party, who sadly remarked, "We now realize that we must sacrifice everything else to national security; but even so, it is plain we may still be too late."

This man referred to the obvious fact, implied by the preparations for an Indo-Chinese onslaught, that the Kremlin has speeded up its time-table in a way that the worst pessimists never anticipated. As has been noted, the loss of Indo-China alone will be enough to start an irrepressible political chain reaction. What is more, if Indo-China is to be attacked this winter, the Red Army itself is very likely to move somewhere in the spring. In short, this nation and the free world now live in the dark, immediate shadow of war, which the President and Prime Minister have found no real means to lighten.

alerted to seize any opportunity to establish conversations with the Chinese delegation headed by General Wu when the Chinese Communists arrived in New York.

Jebb was introduced to Wu at Lake Success and said to the Chinese delegate: "Let's have lunch together sometime soon." Jebb reported sadly to London that this had been dismissed by General Wu with a seemingly casual, "Oh, all right."

Attlee then reported that several days later Sir Benegal N. Rau, the Indian UN delegate, who has been holding conversations with the Chinese Communists, casually asked General Wu if he was planning to meet with any other delegations while he was in New York.

General Wu said that he had been invited to lunch by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, and that Jebb had not set any date for it although Wu was eagerly looking forward to the meeting. Attlee said that Sir Benegal had promptly communicated this to Jebb who has now entertained the Chinese Communists—although only after one week's delay.

Attlee took the view that every effort should be made to find out from the Chinese Communists what terms were agreeable to them. Truman and Acheson did not warm to this proposal, but agreed to let the British take the lead in this direction.

NOTE 1—In the words of one British delegate, Attlee "who plans to play it by ear," hopes to get agreement from Truman to a five-power, top-level meeting to be held somewhere in Europe—perhaps in Germany—fairly soon. At such a meeting, Stalin and Mao Tse-Tung would be invited to sit down with the United States, Great Britain and France to see if some formula could not be worked out for saving the peace of the world.

NOTE 2—Truman-Attlee talks are unlike any of the wartime meetings between Roosevelt and Churchill. No agenda was prepared in advance. No plans of any importance were made for presentation by either side.

Scheidt Installed As Insurance Manager Here

The new district manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company office here is Robert A. Scheidt, 42, a native of Baltimore, who was installed Wednesday.

In Cumberland for the ceremony and dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club were G. Hoyle Wright, superintendent of agencies of the Atlantic Coast territories, and two supervisors, Forrest Holmes and John J. Johnson, all of the New York home office.

Scheidt assumed his new duties December 4, succeeding the late George Remer. In 1937 he was appointed agent of the Mount Royal district, Baltimore, under the guidance of William H. Kramer, manager.

At the outbreak of World War II, Scheidt volunteered for duty with the United States Seabees and served as first class petty officer in the 61st Battalion.

After returning from military service, he was appointed agent of the Chesapeake-Maryland district, Baltimore. On October 1, 1944, he became manager of the Calvert district.

Scheidt is a member of the Baltimore Life Underwriters Association, Palestine Lodge No. 189, A.F. and A.M., and the Lutheran Church. He is a past vice commodore of the Baltimore Yacht Club.

His wife, Mrs. Dorothy L. Scheidt, is residing at Catonsville but they will make their home in Cumberland. A son, Robert W. Scheidt, 20, attends a midwestern college.

The new district manager is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Scheidt, Baltimore.

Business Women Hold Christmas Party

KEYSER, W. Va.—The annual party of the Keyser Business and Professional Women's Club was held following the regular business session on a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Wells, East Street. An interesting yule program was presented with Miss Josephine Bolyard in charge. The home was tastefully decorated for the occasion with Christmas greenery and a Christmas tree, under which gifts for the members were placed.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Bessie Whiteman, Alta McDonald, June Wilson, June VanScoy, Kathlee Pennington, Erma Wright and Miss Bolyard, and two guests of the club, Mrs. Ethel Wells and Miss Betty Brown.

County Health Report Says Sanitary Conditions Better

The inauguration of a system under which all new buildings must obtain approval of the Health Department for sewage disposal has resulted in great strides towards improvements in county sanitary conditions, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, health officer, revealed in his November report.

The Allegany County Health Department reported that over 150 septic tanks have been installed.

During November the Health Department made 143 inspections of sewage installations, 14 of water supplies, 110 of nuisances such as garbage being thrown on vacant lots, 143 food and drink establishments were inspected, five nursing homes were checked, three hospitals visited, 14 milk plants inspected and four bakeries checked.

There were 16 septic tank installations approved during November and 26 milk licenses issued. Conferences were held on 33 occasions and two public lectures on sanitation were held.

Samples were taken by the Health Department of 94 different water sources, 66 food samples were taken, and 310 milk samples analyzed by the laboratory.

Court Upholds Railroad In Accident Case

A decision of the Circuit Court of Washington County handed down by Chief Judge Joseph D Mish in favor of the B and O Railroad in an accident case involving the death of a local man was upheld in the Court of Appeals at Annapolis.

Mrs. Katherine Moore Landis had sued the B and O. Railroad Company for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, Wilbur Selden Landis, on the Harrison Street crossing here on November 23, 1945.

Attorneys for the railroad company contended during the hearing in Hagerstown, where it was removed from this county, that Landis was killed when he disregarded the red lantern signals of the watchman and attempted to cross the tracks ahead of a slowly moving freight train which was backing with no member of the crew on the caboose.

The railroad company charged that Landis was negligent in attempting to beat the train over the crossing, and the lower court so held. Its decision was upheld by the higher court yesterday.

Attorneys for the railroad company were William A. Gunter and D. Lindley Sloan, while James Alfed Avirett represented Mrs. Landis.

Air Raid Signals Adopted By State

Air raid signals have been adopted by the State as follows:

Alert — A three-minute warbling blast from air-raid sirens, rising and falling on a 15-second cycle. The sound will be easily distinguishable from other emergency alarms, such as fire and ambulance sirens.

All clear—Three one minute blasts at two-minute intervals.

Col. David G. McIntosh, 3d, of Baltimore, director of the Maryland Civil Defense agency announced last night that those would be the official signals.

Those signals, he said, also have been adopted by New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

TROOPS JAM TANKS WITHDRAWING FROM PYONGYANG

AMERICAN EVACUATION OF PYONGYANG is completed as these heavily clothed GIs cling to tanks of the last unit to leave the burning, former Korean Red capital. Hordes of Red troops moved in behind withdrawing United Nations forces, who traveled southward in orderly fashion. Ahead of the GIs, infiltrated Communist guerrillas lashed at the routes over which the Allies are slowly moving. (International Radiophoto)

Badges Available For Pedestrians

Supplies of white paper badges for distribution to pedestrians in this area have been received by Maryland State Police at Barracks C, LaVale.

Printed on the badges are the following safety rules:

"Walk on left facing traffic, don't walk on the highway when under the influence of alcohol, don't walk from behind parked cars, be alert to protect yourself—don't depend upon luck or the operator of the car, and look both ways before you cross—make sure the way is clear."

At night, State Police advise, wear or carry something white so that drivers can see you before it is too late.

Romney Soldier Killed In Korea

A former Cumberlander whose family now resides in Romney, W. Va., has been killed in action in Korea the Department of Defense reports.

Mrs. Martha P. Whiteman, Romney, received word yesterday that her husband, 32-year-old Cpl. Floyd R. Whiteman died September 16 while serving with a medical unit with the United Nations forces in Korea.

Cpl. Whiteman spent a furlough at home and visited his father, Ray M. Whiteman, RFD No. 6, city, before reporting to Camp Stoneman, Calif., for assignment overseas.

Cpl. Whiteman wrote his wife "September 17," he had arrived in Korea. Mrs. Whiteman said he apparently made a mistake in dating the letter.

A former student at Allegany High School, Cpl. Whiteman was employed by the B. and O. Railroad before entering the Army about six years ago. He served 24 months in Europe during World War II.

Cpl. Whiteman was born here but he resided in Romney with his wife and two stepchildren, Barbara Ilene and Dennis Eugene. Also surviving are his father, two sisters and four brothers.

You can't blame old-fashioned elderly women for being proud of their gray hair. It's perfectly natural.

Winner Of Hawks Award Calls For Strong Air Force

New York—(INS)—Amon Carter, publisher of the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, presented with the Frank M. Hawks Memorial Award for his contributions to U.S. aviation, called for the type of air force which the late great airman had urged.

"The most responsible leaders in aviation believe we need a 70-group Air Force as an absolute minimum," said Carter, eleventh well-known winner of the coveted award donated annually by the American Legion Air Service Post 501.

"We don't have 70 groups in these perilous times and I agree with those airmen who believe that we could very well use a 200-group force right now."

The Texas publisher, praised by the night's speakers as one of the true pioneers of American aviation, urged united support of the government, its armed forces, and their generals and admirals during the present crisis.

Carter suggested that the sacrifices which the civilian population might be called upon to suffer were but a small contribution as compared to the sacrifices being made by Americans in Korea today.

Carter, for whom many of the installations of Ft. Worth's inter-continental bomber base have been named, spoke of his many memories of such pioneers in aeronautics as Eddie Rickenbacker, C. R. Smith, Will Rogers, Benjamin Foulois, and the late Gen. H. H. Arnold.

He recalled that he had flown on many trail-blazing flights with Frank Hawks prior to the death of the latter in a crash in 1938. Carter said that the only real fright he had had in an airplane in more than a million miles of travel came in the 1920's when on a flight with Hawks from Fort Worth to New York, the plane was in danger of making a crash landing near Birmingham, Ala.

"My great fear sprang from the fact that I didn't know anybody in Birmingham," the publisher remarked.

He is one of several prominent U.S. newspaper figures who have received the award, among whom are William Randolph Hearst, Sr., John S. Knight, Arthur H. Sulzberger, and Roy W. Howard.

Carter's exceptional career in aviation extends from January, 1911, when he sponsored an exhibition of flying by four French aviators at Fort Worth, to the present time, which sees him about to officiate at the opening of mammoth New Fort Worth runways capable of launching and receiving the ten-engined B-36.

AN INVALID, Mrs. Evelyn Pirrie of Alondra Park, Cal., fetes Lucifer, 2-year-old plain dog, with bones after his frantic barks saved her, her daughter and son-in-law from a possible fiery death in their flaming home. Hearing the barks, Mrs. Pirrie hammered on the floor with her cane, awakening the daughter and son-in-law who summoned firemen. (International)

Boothill—Monument To Frontier Times

This is it—the last resting place of some of the Old West's bad men.

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Correspondent

TOMBSTONE, Ariz.—Towns are much like young people: some grow famous and others do not. Tombstone is one of the towns of America that grew famous for two distinct reasons. The first was its odd name. The second was its world-famous (or infamous) cemetery called Boothill.

Tourists, traveling through the southwest, never pass up this little town of Tombstone, or its equally notorious Boothill graveyard, about three miles from the town itself, for so much legend, fantasy and fact is associated with the town and the cemetery that the two names have grown familiar all over the world.

What was so dead about this one-time metropolis of the Copper State that it was given the mournful name of Tombstone? Perhaps you, like I, have wondered about this. Here is the way one native explained it:

While the murderous Indian chief, Geronimo, the Terrible Apache, was on the warpath, and the earlier settlers of the Arizona territory were concentrating around the few available forts for protection, an old prospector by the name of Ed Schiefflin came into an Army post one day with news about a fabulous gold strike back in the hills of the Indian country.

HE TOLD an Army officer that he intended going back to find a fortune. "You'll go back and find your tombstone," the officer replied. "Geronimo will get you."

Schiefflin, however, went back, and found his bonanza mine. A town sprang up near the sight, and he named it Tombstone. And so, the story goes, it has been called ever since.

During the days of our last frontier, Tombstone was classified as the town "too tough to die." Possibly that phrase was a bit overdrawn, for some of the most notorious characters of the Old West are buried in the famous Boothill cemetery.

Few, if any, of America's burial spots recall so well the violence and stark drama as does this rocky, cactus-infested hillside near the Mexican border.

On Boothill, you will see simple little markers indentifying the cactus-encrusted graves. One reads "Dutch Annie," and another "China Mary." Others, "Hop Lung," "Tong Lee" and "Foo Kee."

Incidentally, an old account says that "more than one thousand buggies" wended up the hill road to the cemetery when Dutch Annie was buried; for this infamous character, despite her notorious life, was also known as a camp angel, and is said to have staked many penniless prospectors to a much-needed grubstake.

You won't find any boots atop ground in Boothill cemetery, but many a pair were buried with the victim, for there were no ordinary graves in Boothill. The men and women who are buried here were almost without exception, "characters."

One marker reads: "Tom McLowery, Frank McLowery, Billy Clanton—murdered on the streets of Tombstone." The lettering is in quotations, for there seems to be two sides to the famous Clanton-Earp feud that is a part of the history and legend of the Old West.

The native red men figured in Boothill's population, also. One epitaph, serving two men, Al Bennett and Ben Scott, reads simply, "Ambushed by Apaches." Another marker serves for five men, "all legally hanged in 1884." There is a variety, of a sort, you see, on Boothill.

THE MOST VIVID story connected with Boothill concerns a cowboy named Johnny Blair, who died of smallpox out on a lonely mesa, where he crawled to the cabin of an old Mexican.

When it came time to take the cowboy to his last resting place, no one wanted to do the job, for fear of getting the dread disease So a cowboy pal supposedly roped Johnny's boots, through the cabin window, and took him to the cemetery at the end of a long rope.

No one wanted to be buried in Boothill except one man—and he was denied that privilege. He was Doc Holliday, one of the most publicized characters of the region, who often professed the desire that he might die with his boots on and be buried "on the hill." But Holliday took ill with tuberculosis while in Cottonwood Springs, Colo., and died there—without his boots on.

Many of the markers in this old cemetery spin a laconic yarn of poetic justice, as attested by these three: "Red River Tom—Shot by Ormsby." (Ormsby evidently was a marshal or sheriff.) "Bronco Charlie—Shot by Ormsby." And lastly: "Ormsby Shot."

Many of the occupants of Boothill found their last resting place there during the period when the old Bird Cage theater flourished in nearby Tombstone. Here, incidentally, Jenny Lind is said to have performed. The theater still stands, a mecca for tourist parties.

He Puts Hop In The Mal

SEOUL—(AP)—What is a Suk? A hop? A small mal? These units of measure are common in Korea. But they stump even Koreans when it becomes necessary to translate them into measures which Americans can understand. Their equivalent in the metric system also comes out in fractions.

Marcus Scherbacher, of Los Angeles, an officer of the civil assistance command in Seoul, says:

One hop is a third of a pound. Fifty hop equal one small mal. One hundred hop equal one large mal. Five large mal equal one Kamani (a Kamani is a straw sackful). Two Kamani equal one suk. Seven suk equal one ton.

At one time a Boston radio station broadcast the frying of an egg on a hot pavement.

U. S. Takes Title To Braun Films

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The U. S. government has taken formal title to the Eva Braun motion picture films dealing with her private life with Adolf Hitler.

The action was disclosed in a so-called "vesting order" published by the Office of Alien Property in the Federal Register, daily government bulletin.

The Justice Department, in which the alien property office functions, said in response to an inquiry that no relative of Fraulien Braun or other person had come foreward to claim ownership of the films. The order placing their title in the Attorney General means that if any commercial use is ever made of the material, the royalties will go to the U. S. Treasury.

The Justice Department said the Eva Braun collection was included in more than 5,000,000 feet of German motion film seized by the U. S. Army when it moved into Germany. The Army several years ago placed the film in the National Archives.

The order said the collection includes:

"The motion picture taken by or for Eva Braun covering scenes from her personal life and her life with Adolf Hitler."

Hitler and Fraulien Braun, his long-time companion, were married in 1945 shortly before they died together in the ruins of Berlin. Subsequent reports that they had a son in 1938 have never been confirmed.

With all the careless driving, maybe we need a new manners tip: A gentleman always precedes his lady friend through the windshield.

Ethiopian Executions

ADDIS Ababa (AP)—About 15 criminals were hanged publicly in Emperor Hiale Selassie's capital during a recent one-week period.

Gallows were erected in different parts of the city and the criminals—convicted of murder, armed robbery and other capital offenses—were left dangling for hours for public gaze.

It is reliably reported that several other criminals were electrocuted during the same period in two electric chairs at Akaki prison here. All death sentences must be approved by the emperor.

Customs officials always see their duty—and don't hesitate to take it!

Doctors Hundreds Of Miles Away View X-Ray Examination Via TV

BALTIMORE—(AP)—A patient was wheeled under an x-ray machine and the power was turned on.

The x-rays, instead of passing through the man's chest and onto a screen or photographic plate, was fed directly to a special type of television transmitting tube.

The image was flashed to New York, Chicago, Washington, Columbus, as well as to Baltimore via a regular television network.

Among those looking in were Dr. Paul C. Hodges, professor of radiology at the University of Chicago, and Dr. Walter Sennott, at the U. S. Marine hospital in New York.

The two physicians were tied in by telephone to Dr. David M. Gould, assistant professor of radiology at Johns Hopkins Medical School, who was standing over the patient in the studio.

They—with thousands of television lookers-on in the five cities—saw what looked like strips of black tape in the x-ray image.

They were pieces of iron which had penetrated the patient's back in an industrial accident a few weeks ago.

From New York, Dr. Sennott asked Dr. Gould to remove the flesh on the man's back to see what happened to the iron particles.

After a five minute, three-way conversation, the three radiologists decided the iron had not affected the patient's lungs, and that simple surgery was called for.

It was the first time in history that such a simultaneous x-ray examination by doctors separated by hundreds of miles had been held.

The unique program was made possible through the use of a revolutionary new x-ray machine, engineered along television patterns. Through the machine, x-ray images, generally of low brightness, are amplified from 300 to 3,000 times. They may then be viewed on conventional TV receiving tubes.

It was developed by Dr. Russell H. Morgan, chief of radiology for the Johns Hopkins Hospital, with the assistance of the U. S. Public Health Service and the Radio Corporation of America laboratories at Princeton, N. J., and Lancaster, Pa.

Baltimore Maintains Plane Test Field

BALTIMORE (AP)—The city of Baltimore has leased the hanger at old Harbor Field, formerly used by the British Overseas Airways, to the Bendix Radio Corp, for $25,000 a year. The lease extends from Nov. 1, 1950, to Dec. 31, 1952, with a renewal option after its expires.

The city agreed to maintain two runways for the use of aircraft operated by Bendix. The strips will be used by the company to flight-test radio and electronics equipment on planes weighing up to 30,000 pounds.

All commercial air facilities were transferred from Harbor Field to the new Friendship International airport when it was opened last summer.

Day Of White Collar Machine Is Near At Hand

NEWARK, Del.—(AP)—The day of the white collor machine is near at hand, a mathematics professor declares.

Dr. Robert F. Jackson, associate professor of mathematics at the University of Delaware, said that within a decade electronic calculators may take over the tasks now done by millions of white collar workers.

Dr. Jackson, a consultant to the ballistics research laboratory of the Army's Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Ground, made his statement in a graduate lecture. Much of the laboratory's work involves electronic computing machines.

The professor said that one of the major reasons why these electrical brains haven't been put to widespread use has been the cost. An electronic calculator, built by hand, now costs about $500,000. Dr. Jackson said that in mass production, they would cost from $10,000 to $20,000.

An electronic brain, he said, "can turn out as many and as good results as hundreds of payroll clerks, hand-computers, shipping clerks, job-routing clerks—almost any type of clerical help.

"They are not built for a single, narrow, specialized job. They are sufficiently varsatile to do almost any type of job, so long as no imagination or originality is required.

"The technologicial unemployment in the last 200 years with development of machines has come about slowly enough for people to be displaced from one job, absorbed in another, because at one point only one type of job is being displaced.

"But the electronic calculator is a machine of almost universal application. Therefore, it has a mass market."

Dr. Jackson said these giant coils of mercury, copper and steel with their banks of hundreds of electronic tubes, can "boil down any mathematical operation into a long train of simple operations. They can even be adapted to translate written matter from one language to another at an approximate rate of ten words a second."

But, he informed the fearful, do not think these electronic devices, are "thinking machines."

These machines, he said, "are restricted to a slavish following of instructions, and that is what is done by every machine that now exists. This is not thinking."

Said Dr. Jackson:

"The most complex calculating machine so far constructed is roughly a million times simpler than the human brain."

STUCK IN a coffee mug by some hard-hearted photographer, Joe, a Bosman's potto from the British Cameroons, looks pretty scared as he has his picture taken in London zoo. Or maybe it's natural for Joe's hair to stand on end and his eyes to almost pop out. (International)

Crash Is Fatal To Everett Man

Carl Harre, 55, of Everett, Pa., a Pennsylvania Turnpike workman hurt in a two-truck collision on the superhighway last Friday, died Wednesday at Everett Hospital.

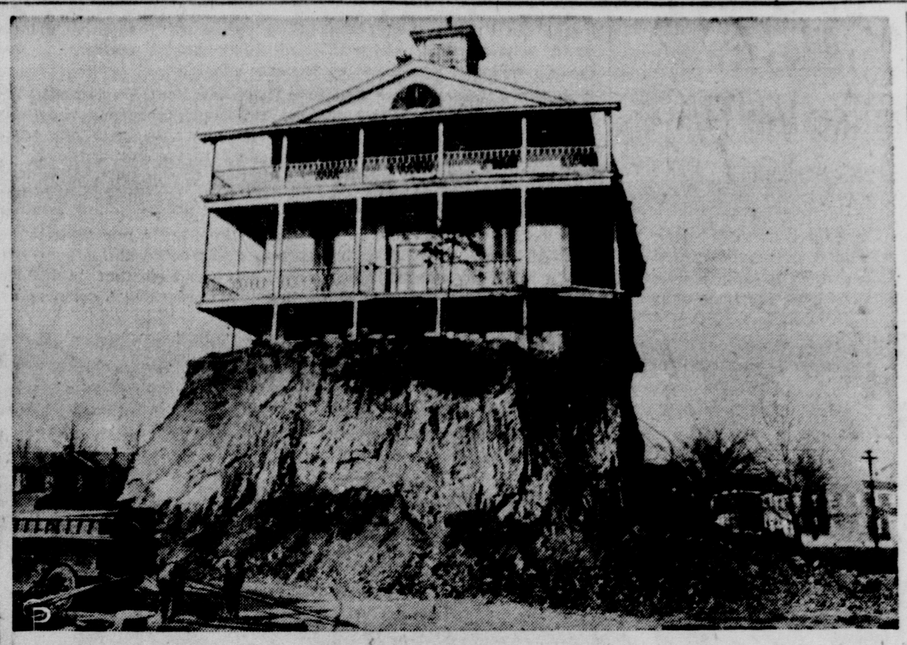
Harre and two other workmen were injured as they spread ashes from the back of a truck. A second truck, operated by Louis F. Blenard, Hagerstown, Md., crashed into the rear of the ashing truck.

The other two workmen, Donald Baker, 19, and Robert Hast, 44, both of Everett, also were taken to Everett Hospital. Baker was discharged Monday. Hast is in good condition.

165 Mineral Deer Killed This Week

KEYSER, W. Va.—A total of 165 deer were killed in Mineral county during the first three days of the season, Conservation Officer Claude Rice reported officially.

The official figures were Monday, 36; Tuesday, 67, and Wednesday, 62.



CAUGHT IN THE PATH of progress and doomed to demolition is the Allendale mansion atop a man-made hill in Baltimore, Md. Built 100 years ago, the mansion must give way to allow construction of a street named after it. The house formerly stood in the midst of 320 acres. (International)

Local Tax Collector Handled Huge Sum

W. A. Strother, who was county tax collector during the past four years, probably handled as much money during the period as anyone in this area.

When Ernest B. Treat succeeded Strother on Tuesday as tax collector for District No. 1 at the Court House, it was revealed that Strother had deposited in Cumberland banks the sum of $7,238,370.76 in county tax money during the period.

Bruce Cagers And Explorers To Meet Here

Game Set For 8 P. M., Five Other Schoolboy Contests Scheduled

LaSalle High School's Explorers will pry off the lid to the basketball season tonight, meeting Bruce High School of Westernport on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock.

Arthur Slocum of Keyser will be at the helm of the Explorers who bagged 9 and lost 15 games last season and have several seasoned veterans back for action, headed by Tommy Mullaney and Doug Connolly. Woody Woodson is coach of the Westernport quint which copped only 6 of 21 games last winter.

Probable Starters

LaSalle's probable starting lineup will find Don Farrell and Paul Ackerman at forwards, Marty Mullaney, center, and Jim Moran and Doug Connolly, guards. Reserves are Bobby Arnone, Ray Crowe, Charles Kienhofer and Charles Lindner.

Bruce High will be opening a 20-game schedule. Bill McKenzie and Erwin "Doc" Berry are the varsity players holding over from last season's team. Reserves from the 1949-50 team back in uniform are Bill Howe, Bill Smith, Louis Complesi and Bobby Shimer.

LaSalle is the first Cumberland school to launch its cage campaign. Allegany is host to Somerset (Pa.) and Davis meets Fort Hill in games here Tuesday, December 12.

Officials for tonight's game will be Clifton Van Roby and William "Bee" Orndorff. There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

Five other scholastic games are on tonight's slate.

Victorious over Accident High is the lid-lifter on Tuesday, Central High of Lonaconing will take on another Garrett County opponent when it plays at Oakland High School tonight. The Highlanders lost their first game of the season at Terra Alta.

Piedmont Meets Elks

Piedmont High School's Lions will invade Elk Garden to tackle Elk Garden High, Fort Ashby plays at Paw Paw, Hyndman visits Barton High School, Strasburg (Va.) is at Capon Bridge High and Franklin (W. Va.) High plays host to Monterey, Va.

Elks, Sport Shoppe, Independent Score

The B.P.O. Elks defeated the American Legion, 54-35, Mason's Independents topped the C. & P. Telephone Company, 28-24 and the Sport Shoppe downed Local No. 26, 34-22, last night in the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League.

High scorers for the evening were Day of the Elks with 20 points, Davis of the Elks with 19 and G. Twigg of the Legion with 18.

AAU Welcomes Japs, Germans Vie In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (INS)—The National Amateur Athletic Union today welcomed German and Japanese athletes to participate in certain meets in the United States.

AAU Secretary Dan Ferris said that competition will be limited to events approved by the International Amateur Athletic Federation last year.

Germany and Japan have been readmitted to the IAAF although a decision is still pending on German participation in the Olympic winter games in 1952 at Oslo, Norway.

Meanwhile, the AAU Foreign Relations Committee recommended that a record number of U. S. athletes be permitted to compete in foreign sports events in 1951.

The proposal will be submitted to the full convention on Saturday and approval is expected.

Snead, Ferrier Lose In Tourney

Furgols Top Favored Pair In 4-Ball Test

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP) — Ed Furgol's amazing putter and Marty Furgol's spectacular iron shots combined today to upset the highly favored team of Sammy Snead and Jim Ferrier 2 and 1, in the second round of the $10,000 Miami International Four-Ball Golf Tournament.

Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., professional who is not related to his partner, of North Hollywood, Calif., sank six birdie putts — two on the front side of the rain-sodden Miami Country Club course and four on the back nine. Marty won only one hole, the second hole with a birdie three. It wasn't that he wasn't hot, Ed was just hotter.

Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., and Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y., easily won 3 and 2 over Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., after carding the most remarkable golf of the tournament.

At the end of the 8th hole, they were seven under par and finished the front side of the 6,347-yard and layout in 29. Par is 36-36—72.

Toney Penna, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Bob Toski, Northampton, Miami, 7 and 5 in the most lopsided victory of the 16 competing teams.

Defending champion Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Ed (Porky) Oliver, Seattle, Wash., breezed to a 3 and 2 win over Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., and Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., and Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla., teamed to score a best ball of six under par 30 on the front side and went on to eliminate Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N. Y., 4 and 2.

Losing pros received $150.

The Dean's 25th Year Needs 15 To Hit 500

What Early Season Did Cats May Face Trouble

By C. V. BURNS

Walter L. Bowers will be starting his 25th season as basketball coach at Allegany High School when the Campers play Somerset High School's Golden Eagles here Tuesday night.

Walter L. Bowers

Mr. Bowers is the dean of athletic coaches in Western Maryland — maybe in the entire state for all we know — and came here from Hagerstown in 1927 to coach his first team at Campobello.

Dean Bowers' Blue and White quints have engaged in 618 games over 24 seasons, winning 485 and losing 133 for an average of 78.5 per cent.

If AHS can register 15 more victories this season it will put Bowers in the "500" class for wins during his career as cage mentor.

The 1949-50 season was one of Allegany's best—25 wins, 2 losses—and the team wound up the campaign with a 19-game victory streak. Bowers' 1933 team was tops with 27 wins and one defeat. His 1931 quint scored the greatest number of wins—28—against three setbacks. Ten of his teams scored 20 or more victories a season. Only twice in 24 years under Bowers has AHS fallen below the .500 mark in basketball—13-14 in 1929 and 11-12 in 1938.

Since Bowers has been at the helm, AHS quints have bagged 16 WMI League titles and 10 state tournaments in 24 years.

Ed Mathewson's brilliant performance for the Spas here last Sunday night reminded us of an Akron player who once beat the old Caseys with his sensational shooting. We couldn't remember the fellow's name but it wasn't long before we found out.

Joe Neubiser, one-time Caseys' guard, kept a scrap book on those old games, and he told us the fellow's name was "Whitey" Summerix, an 18-year-old blond who dumped in six fielders to sink the Caseys, 48-27, on February 24, 1930, at the State Armory.

Joe said he didn't need to refer to the scrap book to remember that guy.

Summerix played with the Akron Big Five which Francis "Irish" Clark, formerly of Meyersdale, brought here.

Harry J. Barton, Allegany county member of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, must know the score when he says he is definitely opposed to the early squirrel season because other game is taken in violation of the law at that time.

A few columns ago Mr. Barton stated that he is in favor of just one open season on all species of game.

Before the buck deer season opened in Pennsylvania recently two days were set aside for the hunters to kill antlerless deer. The poachers got in on the act, as is the custom during an early season, and we'll let Johnny Mock, prominent Pittsburgh outdoors columnist, tell you what happened:

"Potter County woods are full of bucks, hanging in readiness to be picked up tomorrow morning.

"Such was the report received the day before the opening of the season on Pennsylvania's antlered deer.

"The one or two-day antlerless deer seasons—mass butcheries necessary periodically to reduce the surplus whitetails—seem to attract the undesirable element into the big game country for the killing.

"This year was no different than similar seasons of the past. In fact, some believe it was the worst ever!

"Invited into the woods previous to the regular buck season, much of this element simply shot what they saw. If it was an antlerless deer, it was picked up.

"If an antlered deer, it was dressed out on many occasions. In some instances it was carefully hidden. In others it was hung up where it could be conveniently picked up the next day when that particular sex was legal quarry.

"Such action is regrettable. It proves disrespect for the law. On the other hand it is the farce of the law itself which is largely responsible for the situation."

"While discussing his apprehension last week, a violator made this remark:

'One day it's illegal, the next day it's legal. The passage of 24 hours is the difference between me being a good hunter or a game law violator. Why don't you guys wake up and quit being so bossy with the sportsmen?'

"There was no doubt a lot of truth in the chap's words."

Potomac State's cagers averaged 93 points a game in their victories over Altoona Branch and Frostburg Teachers but they might run into an opponent that packs just as much scoring punch when they tackle West Virginia Tech tomorrow night in Keyser.

Tech knocked off Glenville the other night by the score of 71-59.

Harry Ritter, sophomore hook shot artist of the Montgomery school, racked up 32 points, and his teammate, Eddie Solomon, formerly of Morgantown, collected 20 markers.

We like the one that Fresco Thompson, one-time major league infielder and now vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, tells about the late Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, paying a visit to the Phillies' spring training camp.

The Judge ankled up to big George Susce, Philly catcher, and asked:

"Have you any casualties in camp?"

"No," said George brightly, "We ain't got none of them but we got a lot of Poles and Eyetalians."

Papit Will Forfeit Place On East Squad If He Plays Sunday

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — John Papit, University of Virginia fullback, was notified today he cannot compete in Sunday's all-star game with the Richmond Rebels without forfeiting his place on the East's squad for the New Year's Day game in San Francisco.

Papit was told by Andy Kerr, coach of the Eastern All-Star squad, that his appearance with the Southern Conference area all-stars would make him ineligible for the East-West game. Kerr said the objection was based on the fact that Papit would be playing against a professional team here.

Philly Football Fans Will Honor Steve Van Buren

Eagles' Star Will Be Showered With Gifts

BY RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7—(AP)—Home town fans are giving Steve Van Buren a "day" on Sunday which undoubtedly will be a joy for professional football's greatest runner but may be very sad for the title hungry New York Giants.

Fans from all walks of life have chipped in with gifts for the barefoot Steve who came out of British Honduras and settled in the great Bayou State of Louisiana. The event couldn't have been timed better since this has been a disappointing year for the former Louisiana State ace.

The Giants—currently tied for first place in the National Football League's American division—appear to be invading a hornet's nest here Sunday. Coach Steve Owen's New Yorkers can win the division crown by beating the Philadelphia Eagles while the Cleveland Browns lose to Washington. A loss to the Eagles would eliminate the Giants, if Cleveland wins.

Van Buren has played in 72 of 78 Eagles games and advanced the ball 5,492 yards on 1,188 attempts, more yardage and more carries than any other player in the history of the NFL. One of the most modest sports citizens, Van Buren never talks about his accomplishments, but he's the first to deride himself on a bad day.

Hyndman Opens Season Tonight

Will Play At Barton, Jack Jones Is Coach

HYNDMAN, Pa., Dec. 7—Hyndman High School will open its basketball season on Friday night (Dec. 8) by playing Barton High School at Barton, Md.

Lloyd Keller, supervising principal, today announced that Jack R. Jones, graduate of Connellsville High School and California State Teachers' College, is coach of the Hyndman team.

This is the first team in the history of Hyndman High School. Home games will be played in the new Hyndman Community Center.

Thirty candidates reported when the first call was issued. The squad now includes:

Donald Kuhn and J. C. Shaffer, seniors; Bob Kreigline, Charles Sneathen and Carl May, juniors; Ken Kuhn, B. Jamison, L. Hite, S. Shaffer, J. Thomas, S. Kendall, C. Stair, sophomores; J. Keller, B. May and Roger Bowers, freshmen.

John Wood is student manager and C. F. Smith, faculty manager. Orange and black uniforms were ordered for the squad.

Howard Junior High Edges Keyser, 28-26

KEYSER, W. Va., Dec. 7—Howard Junior High School of Piedmont nosed out Keyser Junior High's basketball team here tonight in an overtime period, 28-26.

Five points by Dick Washington—a fielder and three foul goals—settled the issue after the teams had tied at 23-23 at the close of the regulation game.

Washington scored 18 points on seven field goals and 4-8 fouls to pace the winners in scoring. Eddie Smith with four goals and 3-3 fouls led Keyser with 11 points and Richard Morris tallied ten on two fielders and 6-9 fouls.

Millies To Pilot Roanoke Tossers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—Walt Millies today was signed as manager of the Roanoke Club in the Class B Piedmont League.

Clark Wray, president of the club, also announced the conditional purchase of Harry Buskar, freshman football coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, as a shortstop.

Millies, a catcher, has played with Brooklyn, Philadelphia Phillies and Washington in the majors. He has managed several minor teams, including Chattanooga, Tenn., of the Class AA Southern Association.

Last year he piloted Kinston, N. C., of the Coastal Plain League.

High School Agreement, Bonus Rule Scuttled By Minor Baseball Leagues

Trautman Gets 5-Year Contract; Majors Asked To Curtail Broadcasts

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP) — The bonus rule and high school agreement were scuttled by baseball's minor leagues today in sweeping unanimous votes.

George Trautman

At the end of a lengthy closed session it was announced that George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, had been voted a new five - year contract.

Salary remained at $35,000 yearly. Trautman's old contract still had a year to go, but the minors scrapped it.

43 Players Affected

Some 43 big leaguers, 25 in the National and 18 in the American, will be vitally affected if the majors do the expected and also toss out the bonus next week.

Players like Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus baby, then could be sent out for further experience. Under the old rule, Pettit and all other bonus players (paid from $6,000 to $3,000 for signing) had to stay with the parent club once their contracts were moved up to the majors.

Most clubs signed bonus players to minor league contracts originally. Then they played one season before the majors pulled them up. Once up they couldn't go down, except by passing through the waiver grab bag.

While virtually all clubs were eager to get rid of the cumbersome bonus rule, the high school agreement was a different matter.

Jackie To Get Award

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP) — Jackie Robinson, second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Saturday will receive the New York State Hi-Y Award for 1950 for "outstanding contribution to the youth of the state and the nation."

Robinson was selected because of his exemplification of clean sportsmanship, one of the four planks of the Hi-Y program, and for "his actions which opened the way for other negro youths to enter the baseball profession."

Terps Name Captains

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Dec. 7 (AP) —All-America Bob Ward and Dave Cianelli will be co-captains of the University of Maryland's 1951 football team.

10 Bucks Slain On Fourth Day, Total Now 126

Bad Weather Keeping Nimrods Out Of Woods

Only ten bucks were reported slain yesterday on the fourth day of Maryland's six-day open season on deer.

Weather conditions were the worst since the season opened on Monday and the turnout of hunters was small. Rain and cold winds kept the nimrods out of the woods.

A total of 126 bucks have been killed during the first four days of the season. Last year the kill was 177 for six days. A record 201 was established in 1948.

Kills reported at three county checking stations yesterday by Graydon Dunlap (Shipway's Inn), M. R. Lewis, Oldtown, and the Maryland State Police at LaVale are as follows:

SHIPWAY'S INN (4)

Ralph Yonker, Little Orleans, 12-123, Sideling Hill.
R. D. Yingling, Baltimore, 10-116, Polish Mountain.
Ellery Smith, Flintstone, 8-135, Dick's Ridge.
Howard L. Roberts, Flintstone, 6-112, Sideling Hill.

LEWIS' STORE, OLDTOWN (5)

J. W. O'Neal, 924 Gay Street, Cumberland, 4-128, Green Ridge.
Albert G. Slider, Oldtown, Md., 8-143, Bear Hill, Oldtown.
James R. Twigg, Oldtown, 4-115, Warrior Mountain.
Jack Wilson, Route 3, Cumberland, 5-124, Town Creek.
G. S. Boggs, Route 2, Cumberland, 8-136, Pine Hill.

STATE POLICE, LAVALE (1)

H. R. Shank, LaVale, 6-90, Town Hill.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (INS) — The other night in that so dear Paris Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight champion of the world, flattened a stumblebum in two rounds.

And thereby inaugurated a new system for himself.

We suppose it is universally agreed by this time that Robinson is the greatest fighter in the world. It is further believed by many that the only reason he is not the middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight champion is because he never has had a chance to meet the holders thereof for their respective titles.

In a word, he so far outclasses all other pugs there is no comparison.

For years Robinson refused all offers to go abroad. Then Lew Burston, importer of foreign pugs for the International Boxing Club, induced him to go over and pick up some loose change.

But Burston gave him a word of caution. "If," said Burston, "you want to make plenty of moolah and make a hit over there, knock over all the bums they jig up for you in a hurry."

Businessman that he is, Robinson took that to heart and in his first start flattened one Stock for the edification of the Frenchmen and the enrichment of his own purse.

Now we understand from sources close to Robinson, he intends to waste no time on any of his victims.

Heretofore, when in a talkative mood, he has been willing to admit that he has carried even such able mitt slingers as Kid Gavilan. He carried many of these stumblebums of the prize ring so as to build up another gate for himself.

Strangely enough, Robinson is not a good actor and so his "carrying" jobs never have been works of art, so to speak.

For instance, he could never hope to hold a candle to the late Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, who never made any bones about the fact that he carried scores of fighters.

Benny was such an artist that he would take a few light grazing punches and even have a questionable decision in a non-title fight just to make the home-town boy look good and build up a return match.

Packy McFarland—in our book the cleverest fighter who ever drew on a glove—was another master at "carrying" a weak opponent. Packy used to reason that a local product wanted to make good. He also wanted to look good before the home-town folks.

So Packy would oblige by going easy on the local bum and carry him along for another fight.

Pete Herman, the world's bantam king, also carried a few. Pete even went a little further. In the days of no-decision fights it never bothered Pete a bit whether the local sports writers gave the non-official decision to his opponent.

In fact, if they did, so much the better. Pete might meet the sucker in a return bout with a big gate and knock his brains out.

Freddie Welsh, the former lightweight king, also operated on the same basis. So, too, did Johnny Kilbane, the world's featherweight champion. Johnny, like Freddie and Pete, never worried about unofficial decisions, just so they didn't touch his title. He was willing to let the local boy get a rep, spurious as it may have been.

Of course, to carry anybody, the carrier had to be a great fighter, sure of his ability. These lads had it. So does Robinson.

Vanderbilt To Head Racing Association

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Thoroughbred Racing Association wound up their two-day meeting tonight by electing Alfred G. Vanderbilt as president and awarding trophies to winners of their new awards.

Young Vanderbilt, a director of the Belmont and Pimlico tracks as well as a noted horse owner and breeder, succeeded Donald P. Ross who held the chief office for the past two years.

The other main officers were re-elected for another two years. They are Carleton F. Burke, of Santa Anita, vice-president; James Butler, Empire City, secretary, and Eugene Mori, Garden State, treasurer.

St. John's Beats SMU

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Big Zeke Zawoluk poured 28 points through the hoop tonight to lead St. John's to a close 76-72 victory over Southern Methodist in Madison Square Garden. The triumph was the Redman's fourth in a row without a loss. For SMU, it was the second straight defeat. The Mustangs have won one.

Charles Town Power Cut Off When Auto Hits Utility Pole

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — They almost had to go back to handbooks and blackboard slates to bet at the Charles Town race track today.

Power lines to the track were knocked out when an auto hit a utility pole outside the plant. Electricity to operate the betting machines went dead and the third race was delayed until they were restored.

2,249 Deer Killed In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) —The conservation commission said West Virginia hunters bagged 706 deer yesterday, third day of the 12-day deer season, to bring the three-day total to 2,249.

The total at the end of three days of the 1949 season was 4,132, including 722 killed on the third day.

Yesterday's legal kill by counties included:

Berkeley 3, Grant 86, Hampshire 67, Hardy 61, Mineral 62.

school rule," said President George Trautman of the National Association of Minor Leagues, "but not the present one."

Plan New Agreement

An eight-man committee is to be named to draw up a new agreement permitting baseball to discuss terms with schoolboys particularly during their senior year.

The old agreement will still be in effect until it expires Dec. 31, 1951. Baseball felt its men were at a disadvantage in competing with football contact men. Scouts have been afraid to approach a boy for fear he might be declared a free agent and their club punished.

Commissioner A. B. Chandler has been a strong supporter of the high school rule at all times, but it is understood he will not object strenuously to a revision.

Trautman told the delegates from 57 leagues he had received evidence of a "sympathetic attitude" on the part of the majors to their radio-television problem.

He will appear at the majors' meetings next week with requests for the big leaguers to curtail their own networks, better supervise the conduct of its broadcast outlets and limit television outlets to their home territory.

Want Radio Curtailed

It appeared that the so-called "game-of-the-day" broadcasts would be permitted but the majors' own chains would be asked to cut down. Trautman said he was assured of help in "some quarters."

Frank Lawrence, president of the Portsmouth Club, withdrew an amendment asking for a ban on all radio and television of baseball except world series and all-star games.

A move to double the draft prices in the minors was voted down. This was proposed by Indianapolis of the American Association.

The International League withdrew an amendment by which any Class AAA player could remove himself from the draft by so stipulating in his contract. This was the Pacific Coast League's idea for protection against "draft raids," but was introduced by the International.

Ford And General Motors Announce Car Price Hikes

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company tonight announced an increase in car prices, the second major auto manufacturer to announce such a hike today.

Earlier, General Motors said its 1951 models would cost more than current models.

As with GM, Ford blamed the increase on increased cost of materials.

In a statement, Ford said:

"What we have to pay for the supplies, materials, labor and other costs that go into our passenger cars has increased since June of 1950 at the rate of 103 million dollars a year. Such increases have thus far been absorbed by the company. There has been no general increase in the prices of our passenger cars since August, 1948.

"The cost rise has been rapid during the past 60 days. Furthermore, shortages of materials have forced us substantially to reduce production schedules. Part of our increase in costs must now, therefore, be reflected in our prices."

The price increase applies to Ford, Mercury and Lincoln cars.

The boost ranges from $87.50 on its lowest priced Ford to $165 on its highest priced Lincoln.

Persons Planning Car Purchase Should Act Fast; Shortage Seen

DETROIT—(AP)—If you need or want a new automobile this still is a very good time to get it.

You may want to wait for the remainder of the new models—the entire General Motors and Chrysler lines—but you will be wise to at least get your order on file. Nobody knows at present how many new model cars will be made.

Some won't be in much more than token production before the turn of the year. The surest thing the auto builders know right now is that output is going to be curtailed by the diversion of essential materials to government stockpiles for defense needs.

Sales have fallen off for many makes of cars in recent weeks. They usually do at this season of the year. Besides the seasonal factors credit restrictions have affected sales volume.

This means there will be a substantial number of unsold new cars on hand at the year's end. This, too, is not unusual in anything like normal times. But even the most optimistic of industry analysts don't expect the stock of unsold new cars to last long when production slows down.

Many industry authorities now are predicting a shortage of new cars before the end of next March. The manufacturers say they don't know what to expect in production volume after January.

The cry of materials shortages has been heard throughout the car industry ever since the end of World War II. Most motorists can recall how, in the early postwar days many cars were delivered without rear seat cushions and with temporary wooden bumpers.

But now another type of headache harasses the auto manufacturers. It results from an assured scarcity of copper. This, industry spokesmen say, presents a problem even greater at the moment than planned cutbacks in steel and aluminum supplies.

The average car requires about 28 pounds of copper for its radiator and its ignition system. Excepting for much more costly silver no satisfactory substitute yet has been brought forth by the auto industry's engineers.

It is no exaggeration to say that more uncertainty lies ahead of the car makers at present than at any time in the industry's peacetime history. Insofar as they can do so the car makers are stockpiling some materials themselves for new model production. However, they already have used up large quantities of steel and other metals they did not originally expect to put through their body and foundry plants until next January and February.

To some extent this explains why they do not know now what volume of output can be expected in February and March of next year. In the first three months of 1950 the factories built 1,637,491 cars and trucks.

They will not equal that figure in the first quarter of next year.

Smallest Crowd Sees Races At Tropical

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—Mighty Guest, extremely partial to sloppy underfooting, drove to victory in the sixth event, called The Harinero, at Tropical Park today before 5,270, smallest crowd of the young season.

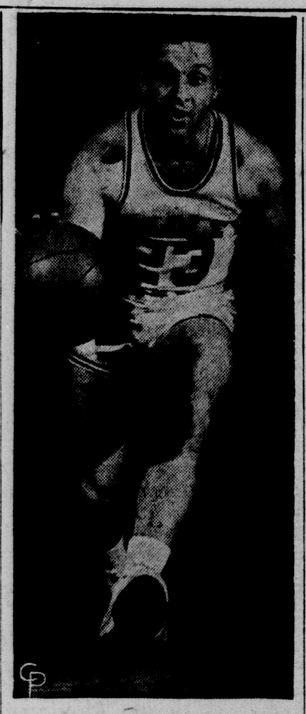
The gelded son of Alquest-Orissa, owned by Hudson Valley Stables, sloshed over the line 3½ lengths before W. H. Wickham's Whirl By, while J. K. Dickensen's Sun Crown beat two other 3-year-olds for the consolation share of the purse.

Cherry Oca Stable's Tio Ciro, the favorite wound up a badly beaten fourth. He was the sixth straight losing choice of the afternoon. Four late scratches dwindled the field down to only five starters. The track was gummy and sticky with goo, as attested by the buggy-horse time of 1.15 4-5 caught for the feature over six furlongs. Heavy rains of this morning made conditions the most disagreeable of the meeting. There were a few light showers during the afternoon.

Joe Culmone, the nation's leading rider, chalked up his 363rd winner of the year by cleverly guiding Good Story, $7.00, to head score over Loot in the opener. Aralak was third.

Culmone, however, was unplaced on Deerslayer in the second and Ricky M. B. in the fourth.

The second was taken by Pauline Gross, $10.30, which completed a daily double worth $46.60. There were 353 tickets sold on it.



ONLY 5-foot 8-inches tall, Gene Melchiorre, Bradley university's cage star, has been named to virtually every pre-season All-American team. Melchiorre's work around pivot for Braves has caused sports writers to call him the "midget Mikan." (International)

Educators Hold Round Table At Frostburg

Dr. Devilbiss Chief Speaker At Affair

FROSTBURG — Dr. Wilbur Devilbliss, supervisor of teachers and higher education in Maryland, was the principal speaker at a professional conference held Tuesday evening at Frostburg State Teachers College. His subject was "The Relation of the College to the Public School System."

There was a round table discussion led by Lewyn Davis, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County, with Ivan C. Diehl, Dr. Frederick Pistor and Miss Arlene G. Petry on the panel.

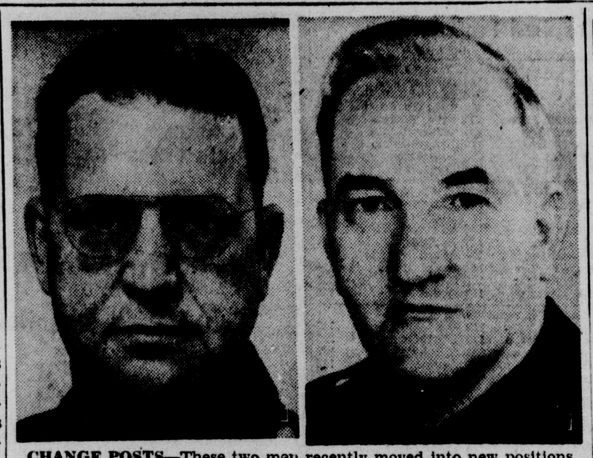
The affair consisted also of a dinner in the residence dining hall and the showing of a motion picture, "Astride the Tropics," in the college auditorium.

Other guests attended included members of the college faculty, Dr. Charles L. Kopp and Richard T. Rizer, superintendent and assistant, respectively of Allegany County schools; Principals Earl Brain, Beall Elementary; Alfred Benna, Barton; Ralph R. Webster, Allegany High; Vincent Halbert, Beall High; Victor D. Heisey, Fort Hill, and John W. Fisher, Bruce High, Westernport.

Critic teachers attending were Miss Irene McGuire, Beall Elementary; Mrs. Mary Dilfer and Joseph Hoopengardner, Beall High; Mrs. Nellie Hilton and Robert Young, Fort Hill, and Mrs. Ellen McKenzie and James Hosack, Allegany High, Cumberland.

Give Christmas Skit

LONACONING—A skit, "Mimi Lights the Candle," was presented by students of Section 11-A at Central High School recently. Those participating were Leah Jean Cook, Phyllis Alexander, Elizabeth Atkinson, Bertha Meese, Tommy Schlereth, Louise Carden, Katherine Dye and Jack Dickinson. Bob Weber was announcer and David Dunn and Bob Dawson sound effects men.



CHANGE POSTS—These two men recently moved into new positions in West Virginia. Major Raymond W. Boyles, left, was promoted from captain and named inspector of West Virginia State Police upon retirement of Major Fife C. Crawford, right. Major Boyles, 44, is a native of Clarksburg and joined the department May 1, 1934. Major Crawford, immediately after his retirement as State Police inspector, accepted a new position as an inspector for the West Virginia Motor Vehicles Department.

Frostburg Native Receives Call To Major Pastorate

FROSTBURG—Rev. S. Franklin Logsdon, Frostburg native and pastor of Central Baptist Church, London, Ontario, has accepted a call to the Moody Memorial Church Chicago.

The largest independent Evangelical church in the United States, the Moody Memorial Church delivers three Sunday broadcasts over Chicago radio stations.

Rev. Logsdon is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Logsdon, 26 Depot Road, this city. He attended Beall High School, Catherman's Business College, Cumberland, Potomac State College, Keyser, W. Va., and Lycoming College, Lycoming, N. Y.

Prior to studying for the ministry, Rev. Logsdon was employed by the Savage Mountain Fire Brick Company and the Prichard Corporation, Frostburg.

His first pastorate was at the Cresaptown Methodist Church, where he served from 1929 to 1931. He was then appointed pastor of Grace Baptist Church, Buffalo, N. Y., for four years when he assumed the pastorate of Bethel Baptist Temple, Erie, Pa. After serving seven years at the Erie church, he was called to the Central Baptist Church, London, Ontario, a position he has held for nine years.

Mrs. Logsdon is the former Miss Anne Lauder, Lonaconing, a former member of the Central High School faculty. Her sister, Miss Agnes Lauder, is principal of Centre Street School, Cumberland.

Rev. and Mrs. Logsdon will go to Chicago, following a vacation in Florida. He expects to assume his new duties February 1, succeeding Rev. Harry A. Ironside, who has been pastor of the Moody Church for 18 years.

Rev. Lodgsdon will be assisted by an associate pastor, assistant pastor, a pastor's assistant, youth pastor and a minister of music. The office staff consists of eight secretaries and the maintenance department requires seven caretakers.

Grantsville Homemakers Hold Christmas Party

The Homemakers Club held their annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Wilson Bills Wednesday night with 29 members and one guest present. Mesdames Harold Miller, Carrie Beachy, Bernard Dean and Harper Kelley had charge of the Christmas program which included Christmas carols, poems and a play. They held a memorial service in honor of the late members, Mrs. J. A. Beachy of Grantsville, and Mrs. Eugene James, Nanaco, Pa. Refreshments were served.

UN Undergoing Its Test Now, Teacher Says

Keyser Kiwanians Hear David Nuzum

KEYSER, W. Va.—"The United Nations is passing through a test of fire, its most important stage in its life to this time," David G. Nuzum, member of the faculty of Potomac State School, said in speaking before the Keyser Kiwanis Club at its weekly dinner meeting Wednesday evening.

In opening his talk Nuzum displayed the United Nations flag in the First Methodist Church dining hall, and said: "The flag represents much to the freedom loving people of the world, as the emblem of the UN which is a mirror of mankind's conscience."

"The peoples of the world want peace," he continued, "but there are some leaders in certain countries who do not want it—not for their people. There are others, who are enjoying freedom who are pessimistic because of the present outlook, but hopeful that the UN will eventually win.

"The UN is a moderator and aims always for ultimate peaceful settlements of conflict through its good agencies and is working for the betterment of the people everywhere. There is still hope," he said, as long as Russia remains a member of the organization" and he reviewed the highlights of the past seven months. Seven months ago Russia was on vacation from the UN after its representatives had walked out and trouble began in Korea.

"Russia's representatives rushed back to the UN and became active again when the UN took action in the Korean situation. And the Russians are still active in the present conflict that has its threatening moments. They have not left a second time, and as long as they remain active, I think there is still a chance for world peace."

Service clubs have been designated, the speaker said, as conservative clubs and have a place in the future of the UN. Even in local communities, service clubs, such as Kiwanis, can do much to aid public thinking along lines the United Nations have set up.

The club had one visitor, Coyd Yost, local photographer.

Anniversary Is Observed

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Phillips observed their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, November 25, at their home, 19 Bowery Street. They were married November 28, 1900 at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William D. Morgan by the late Rev. Henry Thomas, then pastor of the Welsh Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are members of First English Baptist Church, East Main Street. Mrs. Phillips, a deaconess, teaches the Women's Bible Class. She is also an active member and treasurer of the Missionary Society of the church.

Mr. Phillips, a member of the Board of Deacons, has also served on the board of trustees. He is employed as a meter reader for the water department of the city.

Guests who attended their observance were Mrs. Dolores M. Allen, a foster daughter, and her two sons, Ronald and Ethan, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Bousan Davison, Washington; Mrs. James Gibson and son; Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Phillips and daughter, all of Cumberland; Mrs. Joseph Gardner, Lonaconing; Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, Cleveland and Miss Leona Phillips, Eckhart.

George Walters Heads Firemen

FROSTBURG — George Walters, Eckhart, was elected president of the Clarysville Fire Department at the annual meeting held Monday evening at the fire hall.

Other officers are Delvin Ryan, vice-president; Russell Burkett, secretary; Bernard Knepp, treasurer; Joseph Storey, trustee for three years; Jennings Brode, two years and Francis Fatkin, one year; Aaron Snyder, fire chief; Jack Martin, assistant chief and Raymond Kallmyer, sergeant-at-arms.

Following the meeting the department responded to a call from the home of Walter Winters of Montel, where a flue fire was extinguished.

The fire siren of the department, effective at once, will be sounded daily at 6 p. m., to prevent the mechanism from freezing.

Grantsville Ladies Aid Holds Yule Party

The Ladies Aid Society of the Maple Grove Church of the Brethren was entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Richard Grumbling. The Christmas Story was read by Mrs. Grumbling. Christmas carols were sung by the group, two special numbers were given by Mrs. Arthur Resh and daughter, Mrs. Alvin Bowser, and was followed by a very impressive candle light service.

A poem "All Mothers Know" was given by Mrs. Perry Wilburn. Rev. Grumbling offered prayer. Roll call was answered by 18 members. Thirty-one sick calls were reported. The group decided to sponsor the bimonthly church bulletin. Mrs. Arthur Resh will entertain the next meeting. Refreshments were served and the meeting closed by all joining in the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Kight To Head Tri-Town Republican Club

Committee Chairmen Are Appointed

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. George P. Kight, Spruce Street, was elected president of the Westernport and Luke Womans Republican Club which was organized in the club room of the Potomac Club here Wednesday evening.

Other officers selected included Mrs. Alvin Pence, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Michael, treasurer and Mrs. Margaret Kelley Daniels, secretary.

Mrs. Kight appointed the following chairman of committees:

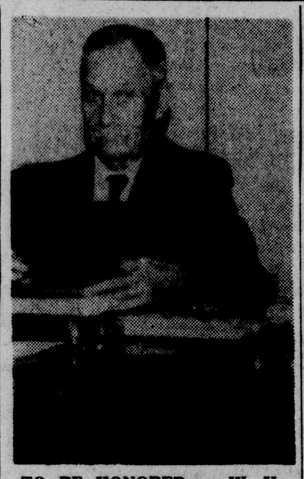
Mrs. Ray L. Wilt, membership; Mrs. Robert Stultz, refreshments; Mrs. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., constitution and by-laws; Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, program committee and Mrs. L. E. Harris, chairman nominating committee.

The club will meet the third Wednesday of each month beginning January 17.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Daniels, who presented Mrs. Vada Barncord, Cumberland, vice president of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women Clubs and president of the Cumberland Club. She said she thought this was a good time for the club to organize as victory is still in the air.

Mrs. Violette Lofstrand, Rockville, district vice president, explained the club should get the voters to register and vote also inform their represetatives of the bills in which they are interested.

Other speakers were Mrs. Bernice Arnold, Chevy Chase, Md., an active party worker, and Mrs. Nell Nichols, a past president of the Cumberland Club.



TO BE HONORED — W. H. Miller, Sr., Paw Paw, W. Va., will be honored at the World Wide Bible Sunday service at Woodrow Union Church Sunday. Rev. O. M. Raines, pastor of Paw Paw Methodist circuit, said the Paw Paw orchardist presented Bibles to some 100 young people of that area who participated in the Paw Paw Vacation Bible School.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7 (INS)—handsome, talented pair of singers, Vic Damone and Monica Lewis, recruited right out of the night club world, are being built into stars at MGM.

Vic Damone

Joe Pasternak will team them in "Manhattan Melody," a musical he is readying for late spring or early summer. Vic is working in "Rich, Young and Pretty," and Monica has been in "Excuse My Dust," with Red Skelton, proving they can act as well as warble.

She'll do "The Strip" with Mickey Rooney before she reports to Monsieur Pasternak. Joe has had ample time to see for himself just what this pair can do in the way of acting.

Hedy Lamarr returns from her whirl in Manhattan next week to spend Christmas with the children and to check in at Paramount for Bob Hope's picture "My Favorite Spy."

Lately Hedy has preferred New York to Hollywood and in the past year has spent much more time there than at home here.

I had heard that she had a rich backer and would probably make some pictures on her own, but this has been denied.

For a gal who can get a job and not worry about expenses and picture making, I think Hedy will be silly to try to pick her own stories.

Met Barbara Stanwyck buying herself a sable coat—and a beautiful one—at Teitlebaum's. She told me that Bob Taylor had never drawn a bigger audience in his life (for the space involved) than he did to the auditorium at Stanford Lane hospital while he was undergoing a three-hour abdominal operation.

"The place," said Barbara, "was sold out—standing room only." Of course, only doctors, interns and nurses were permitted to watch what she calls "Taylor's only unconscious performance!"

Both the Taylors are back in Hollywood and head soon for Palm Springs, where Bob will recuperate for the next few weeks.

Chit-chat: I don't wonder Ginger Rogers is flattered and pleased. Tennis Champ Nancy Chaffee has asked our movie girl to be her partner in the national women's indoor doubles championship to be held in New York in February.

If Ginger is free at that time to accept she will do it, and if she does there will be a short feature made about the two glamour girls, who are so pretty as well as top tennis players.

Two charming British visitors, Michael and Lady Pamela Berry, are being much entertained in our town.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Dan O'Herlihy, wife of the one-time Abby player in Dublin, is expecting a baby in late summer.

Carol Thurston (Three Martini), C. B. De Mille discovery, and Ross Elliott have called off their marriage plans. He was in "Woman On the Run" with Ann Sheridan.

Martin Mooney, newspaper man and movie producer, is marrying Elsa Jensen, CBS secretary—and very soon.

Ruth Chatterton and her husband, Barry Thompson, stopped in for a chat. Ruth is having daily sessions about her book, "Homeward Borne," which is yet to be cast.

Mrs. Dan Dailey has enrolled at UCLA. She has heard from Dan, who will be home in a few weeks and is feeling much better.

Patricia Medina had a long distance call from Richard Greene, who is in Mexico, saying he will be with her Christmas. When are these two going to kiss and make up?

You'll hear Bob Walker warble "Strawberry Blonde" in "Strangers On A Train"—the first time he has given with a song on the screen. Bob gets his two boys for Christmas Day and is making big plans.

Lynn Bari is looking for a Broadway show to do.

Mack Sennett, Santa Claus to many when he was making the "Keystone Comedies," will play old Kris Kringle at the Roosevelt Hotel, December 18, to the Little Flower Orphanage.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Marshall Brown, principal of Grantsville High School, spoke on "Suffrage" at a recent meeting of the Grantsville Rotary Club. Stewart Stahl was in charge of the program. John Coburn, of Grantsville High School, W. R. Snyder, Meyersdale Pa. Club, and Rev. A. J. Replogle, of Salisbury, Pa. were guests.

James C. Beachy returned to his home in Washington, D. C., after spending Sunday with his mother Mrs. Eva B. Beachy. Other guests were: Earl Don, of Boston, Mass, and John Gibson of Stubensville, Ohio.

Legion Post, 214 American Legion Auxiliary Unit will sponsor a community Christmas party at the Legion Home December 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Auxiliary Elects

Mrs. Lewis Millholland was elected president of the Bowling Green Firemen's Auxiliary at a meeting Tuesday at the fire hall.

Others serving with her are Mrs. H. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Nelson Warren, vice presidents; Mrs. Arthur Page, secretary; Miss Louise Jones, financial secretary; Mrs. William Frazier, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Umberger, publicity chairman; Mrs. Helen Assif, historian; Mrs. Georgie Dick, chaplain; Mrs. Calvin Ayers, vice chaplain and Mrs. May Abbott, color bearer. Mrs. Walter Watson was named to the Auditing committee.

Plans were formulated for a Christmas jingle party in the form of a covered dish supper; to have a public card party in January; and continue serving meals during the racing season.

Uncle Sam wastes a lot of money trying to find out what the cost of living has done. And how easily we could tell him.

FLEE RED MENACE—Carrying what meager belongings they could salvage before fleeing from the threatened capital of Pyongyang, thousands of panic-stricken Korean civilians wade across the icy waters of the Taedong River as they seek safety behind UN lines. Chinese Communist troops entering the city found all important installations and buildings destroyed by Allied troops before they evacuated the area.

Three Generations Play Carols

The "FGBDF" Junior Music Club had installation of officers and named Miss Jean Dixon councilor at the meeting Friday at the home of Nancy Close, Gephart Drive. Mrs. H. C. Swearingen was installing officer.

Inducted were Sharon Growden, president; Nancy Close, vice president; Eleanor Murphy, Barbara Stearn, recording and corresponding secretary; and Marianne Hoelzer, treasurer.

Christmas carols were played by three generations of the Close family with George Close, Houtzdale, Pa., violinist; Wallace Close, cornet and Nancy at the piano. Other selections were played by JoAnna McFarland, Carol Lannon, Barbara Ossip, Eleanor Murphy, Judith Krapf, Marianne Hoelzer, Judith Kompanek, Barbara Stearn and Sharon Growden.

Yule Theme

and Mrs. Howard Taylor, is laid with an antique English lace cloth and centered with an English fruit cake. Other traditional holiday sweets include tea scones, sliced peaches, miniature mince pies and lemon scones. An English tea service completes the setting.

A buffet supper table in gold and green is exhibited by Mrs. James M. Pitkethly and Mrs. Carl Young. It is centered with a tiered arrangement of philodendron and chartreuse Christmas balls and spirals of gold. Carrying out the same theme the candles are wrapped in gold glitter paper. An ivory and green tapestry forms the backdrop for Chinese figurines and an emerald glass punch bowl set with dirlight flatware and gold band plates completes the setting.

Concluding the display, Miss McIntyre has arranged a Hospitality table with red cloth monogramed in white and containing the names of the company employes. The decorations include a popcorn tree, sugar plum tree, cookie house and Jack-in-the-Box. On another table is a greeting "Merry Christmas," in cookie icing around a punch bowl.

Hostesses today will be Mrs. Charles Helmrich, Mrs. Walter Pierce and Mrs. Wallace Close. Those who have served during the week are Mrs. James W. Bishop, Mrs. John W. Deetz, Mrs. H. T. Robinson, Mrs. Ralph R. Webster, Mrs. W. P. Wendt, Mrs. Fred Griffith, Mrs. Earl F. Gower, Jr., Mrs. William Torkington, Mrs. S. Hodge Smith and Mrs. Perry Nicklin.

Everything But Sex

IF THE isolationists want something new to worry about, they ought to look into the current status of the private eye drama. America isn't good enough for those bums any more. They're skulking around Vienna, Rome, Naples, Paris, chiefly chasing Russians. The film "The Third Man" opened up Europe as Admiral Perry opened Japan. All the private detectives want to go to Vienna now.

John Crosby

Vienna or Rome or the rest of them are rich fields. The blondes are more tempting than those in Madison, Wis., (Ah there, Senator McCarthy!) and the plots are more devious. The most popular whodunit on the television air these days is "Man Against Crime," which leads by a large margin all other TV shows of that ilk. (Now, of course, you know what an ilk is junior. a) A large horned animal. b) white wet stuff drunk by children. c) a lady whose last name is Chase. Leave me alone.)

• — • — •

"Man Against Crime," which is staffed almost exclusively by Ralph Bellamy, has been dashing around the European glamor spots since it went back on the air this fall. The author of "Man Against Etc.", Lawrence Klee, took a trip to Europe last summer, got impregnated with the Continent and, the minute he got back, thrust his hero, Mr. Bellamy (alias Mike Barnett) on the S. S. Jeanne d'Arc, a ship that has so far eluded foreign or demostic registry.

Mr. Bellamy boarded the S. S. Jeanne d'Arc (Alias the S. S. Ingrid Bergman) in quest of $500,000 worth of stolen jewels. Passengers kept getting murdered aboard the S. S. St. J. and by the time Mr. Bellamy had put his arm on the murderer and the jewels he was in Cherbourg. Been in Europe ever since. In Paris, he outwitted some of those Iron Curtain agents who are so conveniently outwitted on television shows. In Scotland (where the word "ilk" came from junior), he slugged it out with a blackmailer and murderer with an ancient Scottish broadsword in an ancient Scottish castle hard by Loch Lomond.

Next thing I knew he was in Sweden where he bumped into an international opium ring and three murders. Then he got his right arm broken, subduing some villains in Holland. (That's a particularly devilish bit of misfortune for Bellamy because, in this series, he doesn't even carry a gun, just his fists. A bad wing reduces his firepower by one half).

• — • — •

Last I saw of Bellamy he was on one of those Alfred Hitchcock international trains, teeming with skullduggery. This one had everything—a slinky blonde, a Soviet agent, a British agent, and a couple of free-wheeling spies who sold to the highest bidder. It had secret papers written in disappearing ink, uranium (Everyone is going uranium crazy in whodunits these days) gunplay, murder, and all those international borders which the train crossed regularly at five minute intervals.

Well, no, it didn't quite have everything. It didn't, for instance, have sex. "Man Against Crime" is remarkably free of sex. Mr. Bellamy is not above doing a little necking now and then while he filches the gun from the girl's purse. But sex, as it is generally practiced on whodunits, is strenuously avoided as too voluminous and complicated, or conceivably just too tiresome, for a program devoted to more serious things. The blondes in "Man Against Crime" are appetizing enough but they are high-minded girls, dedicated to loftier pursuits—murder, arson, espionage, treason, or—when things get dull—simple theft. For all I know, sex may be on the way out in fiction; it's been covered fairly extensively in the last two thousand years and it's high time the writers passed on to other matters.

At any rate, you can readily see how the United States can hardly compete in fascination with Europe where the blondes are slinkier and infinitely more corrupt, the Soviet agents more abundant and the borders closer together. Tonight (Friday CBS-TV 8:30 p. m. EST) Mr. Bellamy, in case you're interested, will be clambering around the Matterhorn in the middle of a raging snowstorm.

The private eye racket, incidentally, represents quite a personality change in Mr. Bellamy. My earliest recollections of him were in the movies where he played a succession of bumbling dolts who invariably lost the girl to Humphrey Bogart. Since then he has developed a style as inscrutable and immobile as Boagie himself. The girls now find him enormously attractive. But, as I remarked earlier, he wont' look at 'em. Revenge, I guess, for all those early snubs.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ADD, THEN SUBTRACT

ADDING THE suit lengths shown by one opponent and subtracting the total from the magic number of 13 tells you exactly the number of other cards in his hand. That is so obvious and simple that it sounds childish. Yet there are many pretty good bridge players who every once in a while show themselves too lazy to do that easy mental work. If they would goad themselves to performing that elementary process, it would save them from many a pure guess, especially on the questions of whether or how to finesse.

	♠ A K 9 8 ♥ 10 2 ♦ K J 7 4 ♣ J 8 3
♠ 10 3 ♥ A K Q J 7 5 ♦ 5 ♣ A 10 9 2	N W E S	♠ Q 7 4 ♥ 9 8 6 4 ♦ Q 8 3 ♣ 7 6
	♠ J 6 5 2 ♥ 3 ♦ A 10 9 6 ♣ K Q 5 4

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	Dbl
4 ♥	4 ♠

East and West were smart enough to refrain from bidding 5-Hearts over that. First, they doubted ability to make such a contract, their fears being justified. Second, they thought there was a chance to beat the 4-Spades, but lacked sufficient assurance to double. Again they proved sound.

North could have made that contract, and should have, but failed. Why? Because he was too lazy.

East led the 4 of his partner's hearts to the J and West, to avoid helping North in the play of some other suit, returned the Q, which the dummy ruffed. The spade A and K left the Q still out and North then led the club 3 to the K and A. West, again to avoid helping by opening another suit, returned the club 2. The 8 won that cheaply and North was now in position to get a diamond discard on clubs. But that would have been of no earthly value to him. He used the club J, however, to make East ruff with the spade Q. The latter, still unwilling to help North with the diamond play, returned the heart 9, which was ruffed with dummy's last trump, the J. Now North guessed the diamonds, laying down the A and intending next to finesse against West. But when West put a heart on the second diamond, South knew East had the Q and was sure to beat him.

North should have reckoned thus: West showed six hearts, based on East's fourth-best lead; he had shown four clubs since East failed to follow on the third; he followed to two spades. That made a dozen cards, so West had only one diamond. The K therefore should have been used on the first diamond, followed by finesses against East.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A ♥ J 10 9 6 ♦ A 7 5 ♣ J 10 9 8 4
♠ Q 10 7 5 ♥ A Q 2 ♦ K Q J 9 ♣ 3 2	N W E S	♠ 9 8 6 4 ♥ 2 ♦ 8 5 4 3 ♣ 8 6 ♣ 7 6
	♠ K J 3 ♥ K 7 ♦ 10 4 ♣ A K Q 5 3 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South play for 5-Clubs after West leads the diamond K?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C E Y T I Y X Y M V A Y C E J C Q P G Y R J T
I Q Y M M Y G Y ' T K T C E K M R A P S U Y U
Q P T Y Q K T Y M M — N Y I Q Y.

ZONOLITE PLASTER
Has These Advantages:

FIREPROOF
Tests prove Zonolite Plaster Fireproof! Eliminates fire hazards — Increases safety in homes, commercial and public buildings — Zonolite Plaster walls and ceilings resist passage of fire and heat far more than ordinary plaster.

INSULATING
Now a Plaster with Built-In Insulation! Has four times the insulating value of ordinary plaster. Zonolite Plaster not only resists heat but minimizes danger of condensation — In winter rooms warm up quicker when plastered with Zonolite.

CRACK RESISTANT
Think of it, a plaster that resists cracking because it absorbs shock and impact. Not brittle but resiliant — Nails can be driven into Zonolite Plaster walls without cracking.

LIGHT WEIGHT
Modern building trend is to reduce dead load, thereby reducing cost, weight problems and settling hazards — Light weight Zonolite Plaster enables builders to eliminate tons of unnecessary weight in buildings.

ABSORBS SOUND
As compared to ordinary plaster, Zonolite Plaster has improved sound absorbtion promoting the acoustics that deaden harsh noise and make rooms quieter.

Tests, Charts Lose Favor As Means Of Picking Right Man for Right Job

By Central Press

CHICAGO—Industry is always concerned about saving time and money by getting the right man for the right job but today it is more cautious about spending time and money on tests and charts in accomplishing this.

Personnel directors are becoming increasingly inclined to rely upon the judgment of experienced interviewers rather than on the interpretation of aptitude tests.

Sampling of industry in Chicago, the center of the nation's labor market, shows only a few companies employing written and visual examinations to screen job candidates.

Among reasons given for preferring the "counsellor method," in addition to greater confidence in its reliability, is the time-consuming and comparatively expensive aspects of the test procedure, and the objection of many individuals to being "classified" in such manner.

As a corollary of this trend in personnel methods, the modern employment agency is being enlisted to a greater extent than ever by companies of all sizes and even those having extensive personnel departments of their own.

THIS is explained in part by the real merchandising job the progressive employment agency is doing with applicants, according to Lon D. Barton, president of a Chicago employment agency, which with its affiliates is the largest in the country.

"Our operation is completely departmentalized," Barton points out in contrast to the old "hiring hall" which was little more than a processing unit.

"Each department, whether it handles salesmen, technicians, engineers, accountants or some other vocational group, is staffed by men who have had experience in that field and are also trained in personnel.

"Naturally they are in a position to analyze and evaluate an applicant and determine more accurately his worth and proper niche than any combination of tests and charts which are at best inflexible and subject to the error of arbitrary conclusions."

AS A CASE in point, he cites the experience of a nationally known manufacturer which had its own personnel department but which sought aid of the agency after its ads and inquiries had failed. This company was in the market for a district sales manager.

After an extensive screening process and intensive interviewing of potential nominees, 11 candidates were referred to the company. Company procedure called for testing these men as to vocabulary range, recognition, dexterity and similar aptitudes.

"Jigsaw" tests losing out.

Only one passed and shortly afterward it was discovered that he was a neurotic case and was let go.

"Not only are such methods seldom helpful," says Barton, "they are often harmful because such a 'patent medicine approach' may create uncertainty and dissatisfaction in the individual and result in a loss of confidence and morale."

This growing recognition by industry of the employment agency as a service organization has come about because of several factors.

In the first place, agencies have upgraded the quality of their jobs and today concentrate on personnel of executive calibre with salaries ranging from $2,500 to $50,000.

Secondly, the agency can fill a company's "prescription" more quickly, efficiently and cheaply because of the resources of its files and contacts with industry.

However, possibly most important is the protection afforded to both the applicant and the company. The company is spared the expense and confusion of screening a flood of replies to an advertisement and, in the case of smaller companies, the president or another executive can avail himself of expert personnel advice rather than deciding in the dark.

AS FOR the job seeker, the protection of an agency is possibly even more important, especially if he is in the higher brackets. He is not in a position to go around ringing doorbells and must rely on the confidential efforts of the agency and thus avoid broadcasting the fact that he is either unemployed or seeking to make a change.

In order to maintain this position of trust and still serve as an effective middleman between industry and the individual, the employment agency has adopted new techniques as a supplement to advertising in the classified columns of newspapers.

By brochure and bulletin, Barton's firm, for example, keeps a list of approximately 25,000 executives alerted to the available candidates in the higher brackets of various job fields.

The effectiveness of this direct mail approach is indicated by the fact that on occasion a single bulletin will draw as many as 150 requests from prospective employers for further information about the applicants.

The agency today is "buying" expertly for the employer as well as "selling" effectively for the individual.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Bernice D. Little, A VINCULO MATRIMONII from Charles S. Little, the Defendant. The Defendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland.
The Bill of Complaint herein filed states that this couple were married January 29th, 1940, at Cumberland, Maryland, and lived in and around Cumberland, with Mrs. Little's folks, and with some of Mr. Little's relatives for a period of about a year. They had no children. Sometime in the early part of 1941, Mr. Little left Cumberland, to seek employment and in February 1943, he wrote a letter to the Plaintiff post marked Warren, Ohio, and the Plaintiff has not heard of or from the Defendant since that letter.
The Plaintiff never gave the Defendant any just cause or reason for the Defendant to abandon and desert her, and there is now no chance of a reconciliation.
The Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, but the Defendant is a non-resident of this state, and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Ohio.
It is thereupon ORDERED this 15th day of November, by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week for four successive weeks, before the 18th day of December, 1950, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, Charles S. Little, of the object and substance of this suit, and warning him to be in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of January, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Stock Traders Cautious; Market Declines Slightly

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Stock traders operated cautiously today. The final result was a small overall decline.

Business slowed to the smallest total in some ten days. The day's turnover of 1,810,000—a respectable figure—compared with 2,010,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 10 cents to $83.40 a share, the smallest change in nearly two weeks. The rail and utility groups were unchanged but industrials showed a modest decline.

The market was the narrowest in more than a month with trading confined to 1,126 individual issues. Of these 536 were marked down and 336 advanced.

New highs and lows for 1950 or longer were in close balance—highs for 15 issues and lows for 13.

Baldwin-Lima, the most active stock, added $1.12 at $12.50 and American Locomotive, third most active stock, gained $1.25 at $20.25.

Chicago & Northwestern, egged along by a dividend of $1.50 a share, the first since December 1948, gained 50 cents at $18.75.

Other rails up as much as $1 a share included Western Maryland at $18.50, Pennsylvania $19.62, Baltimore & Ohio $16.12, Southern Pacific $59.87, Nickel Plate $170, and Atlantic Coast Line $61.50.

Willys-Overland spurted $1.12 to $8.75. Other motor stocks backed down, including General Motors at $45.87, Chrysler $65.75, and Studebaker $26.75.

Closing lower were U. S. Steel Republic Steel, Armour, Radio Corp., J. I. Case, Lockheed, Schenley, Emerson Radio, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, Texas Co., Lowe's, and U S. Gypsum.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Will understanding people make you like them?

Answer: Not invariably. But it will tend to remove one basis of most of your dislikes—the idea that the person who does things you disapprove of is to blame for them, or "ought to have known better." Knowing that an alcoholic is a sick man will not make you like him when he is intoxicated, but it should help you to realize the sort of person that he might have been but for his illness and feel basically friendly toward him. Dislikes that are based on "moral disapproval" mainly express fear of yourself.

Will a "weak ego" make you anti-social?

Answer: Not necessarily—it may make you obsequiously law-abiding. The task of your ego is to mediate between your natural instincts and your "Super-Ego" or unconscious conscience so that you can learn to gratify one without outraging the other. But if your ego is "weak," either instinct or the Super-Ego may gain control of it to the point where you cannot act realistically. If instinct wins, you are likely to become a criminal, but if the Super-Ego takes over, you'll become one of the larger group of spineless conformists.

Are unhappy children doomed to failure?

Answer: No, indeed. Mr. Winston Churchill once said all the famous men he knew—including himself—were "products of an unhappy childhood." And while this may be a slight exaggeration, there is much truth in it. The important point is whether a child has the courage to "fight back" against the things—or people—that make him unhappy. And while this may be partly hereditary, I believe it also depends largely on how he was treated as a little baby. If he was loved and "made welcome," then nothing else can wreck his life completely.

Tests, Charts Lose Favor As Means Of Picking Right Man for Right Job

By Central Press

CHICAGO—Industry is always concerned about saving time and money by getting the right man for the right job but today it is more cautious about spending time and money on tests and charts in accomplishing this.

Personnel directors are becoming increasingly inclined to rely upon the judgment of experienced interviewers rather than on the interpretation of aptitude tests.

Sampling of industry in Chicago, the center of the nation's labor market, shows only a few companies employing written and visual examinations to screen job candidates.

Among reasons given for preferring the "counsellor method," in addition to greater confidence in its reliability, is the time-consuming and comparatively expensive aspects of the test procedure, and the objection of many individuals to being "classified" in such manner.

As a corollary of this trend in personnel methods, the modern employment agency is being enlisted to a greater extent than ever by companies of all sizes and even those having extensive personnel departments of their own.

THIS is explained in part by the real merchandising job the progressive employment agency is doing with applicants, according to Lon D. Barton, president of a Chicago employment agency, which with its affiliates is the largest in the country.

"Our operation is completely departmentalized," Barton points out in contrast to the old "hiring hall" which was little more than a processing unit.

"Each department, whether it handles salesmen, technicians, engineers, accountants or some other vocational group, is staffed by men who have had experience in that field and are also trained in personnel.

"Naturally they are in a position to analyze and evaluate an applicant and determine more accurately his worth and proper niche than any combination of tests and charts which are at best inflexible and subject to the error of arbitrary conclusions."

AS A CASE in point, he cites the experience of a nationally known manufacturer which had its own personnel department but which sought aid of the agency after its ads and inquiries had failed. This company was in the market for a district sales manager.

After an extensive screening process and intensive interviewing of potential nominees, 11 candidates were referred to the company. Company procedure called for testing these men as to vocabulary range, recognition, dexterity and similar aptitudes.

Just a few of many thousands in war-time rush for factory jobs.

"Jigsaw" tests losing out.

Only one passed and shortly afterward it was discovered that he was a neurotic case and was let go.

"Not only are such methods seldom helpful," says Barton, "they are often harmful because such a 'patent medicine approach' may create uncertainty and dissatisfaction in the individual and result in a loss of confidence and morale."

This growing recognition by industry of the employment agency as a service organization has come about because of several factors.

In the first place, agencies have upgraded the quality of their jobs and today concentrate on personnel of executive calibre with salaries ranging from $2,500 to $50,000.

Secondly, the agency can fill a company's "prescription" more quickly, efficiently and cheaply because of the resources of its files and contacts with industry.

However, possibly most important is the protection afforded to both the applicant and the company. The company is spared the expense and confusion of screening a flood of replies to an advertisement and, in the case of smaller companies, the president or another executive can avail himself of expert personnel advice rather than deciding in the dark.

AS FOR the job seeker, the protection of an agency is possibly even more important, especially if he is in the higher brackets. He is not in a position to go around ringing doorbells and must rely on the confidential efforts of the agency and thus avoid broadcasting the fact that he is either unemployed or seeking to make a change.

In order to maintain this position of trust and still serve as an effective middleman between industry and the individual, the employment agency has adopted new techniques as a supplement to advertising in the classified columns of newspapers.

By brochure and bulletin, Barton's firm, for example, keeps a list of approximately 25,000 executives alerted to the available candidates in the higher brackets of various job fields.

The effectiveness of this direct mail approach is indicated by the fact that on occasion a single bulletin will draw as many as 150 requests from prospective employers for further information about the applicants.

The agency today is "buying" expertly for the employer as well as "selling" effectively for the individual.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Bernice D. Little, A VINCULO MATRIMONII from Charles S. Little, the Defendant. The Defendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland.

The Bill of Complaint herein filed states that this couple were married January 29th, 1940, at Cumberland, Maryland, and lived in and around Cumberland, with Mrs. Little's folks, and with some of Mr. Little's relatives for a period of about a year. They had no children. Sometime in the early part of 1941, Mr. Little left Cumberland, to seek employment and in February 1943, he wrote a letter to the Plaintiff post marked Warren, Ohio, and the Plaintiff has not heard of or from the Defendant since that letter.

The Plaintiff never gave the Defendant any just cause or reason for the Defendant to abandon and desert her, and there is now no chance of a reconciliation.

The Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, but the Defendant is a non-resident of this state, and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Ohio.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 15th day of November, by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week for four successive weeks, before the 18th day of December, 1950, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, Charles S. Little, of the object and substance of this suit, and warning him to be in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of January, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Stock Traders Cautious; Market Declines Slightly

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Stock traders operated cautiously today. The final result was a small overall decline.

Business slowed to the smallest total in some ten days. The day's turnover of 1,810,000—a respectable figure—compared with 2,010,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 10 cents to $83.40 a share, the smallest change in nearly two weeks. The rail and utility groups were unchanged but industrials showed a modest decline.

The market was the narrowest in more than a month with trading confined to 1,126 individual issues. Of these 536 were marked down and 336 advanced.

New highs and lows for 1950 or longer were in close balance—highs for 15 issues and lows for 13.

Baldwin-Lima, the most active stock, added $1.12 at $12.50 and American Locomotive, third most active stock, gained $1.25 at $20.25.

Chicago & Northwestern, egged along by a dividend of $1.50 a share, the first since December 1948, gained 50 cents at $18.75.

Other rails up as much as $1 a share included Western Maryland at $18.50, Pennsylvania $19.62, Baltimore & Ohio $16.12, Southern Pacific $59.87, Nickel Plate $170, and Atlantic Coast Line $61.50.

Willys-Overland spurted $1.12 to $8.75. Other motor stocks backed down, including General Motors at $45.87, Chrysler $65.75, and Studebaker $26.75.

Closing lower were U. S. Steel Republic Steel, Armour, Radio Corp., J. I. Case, Lockheed, Schenley, Emerson Radio, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, Texas Co., Lowe's, and U S. Gypsum.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE COULD
Consulting Psychologist

Will understanding people make you like them?

Answer: Not invariably. But it will tend to remove one basis of most of your dislikes—the idea that the person who does things you disapprove of is to blame for them, or "ought to have known better." Knowing that an alcoholic is a sick man will not make you like him when he is intoxicated, but it should help you to realize the sort of person that he might have been but for his illness and feel basically friendly toward him. Dislikes that are based on "moral disapproval" mainly express fear of yourself.

Will a "weak ego" make you anti-social?

Answer: Not necessarily—it may make you obsequiously law-abiding. The task of your ego is to mediate between your natural instincts and your "Super-Ego" or unconscious conscience so that you can learn to gratify one without outraging the other. But if your ego is "weak," either instinct or the Super-Ego may gain control of it to the point where you cannot act realistically. If instinct wins, you are likely to become a criminal, but if the Super-Ego takes over, you'll become one of the larger group of spineless conformists.

Are unhappy children doomed to failure?

Answer: No, indeed. Mr. Winston Churchill once said all the famous men he knew—including himself—were "products of an unhappy childhood." And while this may be a slight exaggeration, there is much truth in it. The important point is whether a child has the courage to "fight back" against the things—or people—that make him unhappy. And while this may be partly hereditary, I believe it also depends largely on how he was treated as a little baby. If he was loved and "made welcome," then nothing else can wreck his life completely.

Flood Threat Lessens As Mercury Drops

Sleet Is Reported In Surrounding Area

The threat of floodwaters from the Potomac River and Wills Creek abated last night as lowering temperatures took the sting out of the heavy rainfall of yesterday and last evening, and the weather forecast for today predicted snow flurries and bitter cold.

High winds and sleet accompanied the rain and the temperature took a sharp drop from the 50's to near freezing late last night.

At Hyndman, Pa., the river was reported overflowing its banks earlier yesterday evening, but at 10:30 p. m., after the rain stopped, it had dropped about six inches. At the same time, the sky had cleared and there was no fog reported.

Locally, the Potomac rose about one foot between 2 p. m. yesterday and 10 o'clock last night and it was reported to be continuing to rise then.

One foot of water was reported on the Mt. Savage Road near the stone quarry at 11 o'clock last night due to overflowing of Wills Creek.

Storm Hits Garrett

The storm was accompanied by high winds especially in the high mountain areas of Garrett County. Innumerable telephones were knocked out and trees were blown down.

The Weather Bureau said that the big winds should die down a bit today, but that Maryland would shiver under a biting cold front.

Maryland State Roads officials said that roads were not icy at 10 o'clock last night but they were expected to become so in view of the lowering temperatures.

At 10:30 p. m. yesterday, sleet was said to be forming on Route 40 west of Frostburg.

West Virginia State Police were advising motorists to use chains on Route 50, west of Keyser. Heavy fog on Allegany Front with rain freezing on the highway made driving very hazardous. High winds were reported in the higher areas.

Late last night cloudy skies continued to hover over most all sections of the Tri-State area, with strong winds blowing in most sections.

At Davis, W. Va., a temperature of 30 degrees was recorded at 9:30 p. m. yesterday and wind and fog was reported.

In Luke, the Potomac River was rising at the rate of six inches per hour last night, but the rains had ceased for a brief period around 10 o'clock. Nevertheless, the rising waters were said to be only two inches from the flood stage.

A temperature of 30 degrees was recorded at Deal, Pa., last night at 9:30 o'clock, but rain had let up by then. Fog was reported on the top of higher areas. The same conditions existed at Thomas, W. Va.

Navy Enlistment Rules Relaxed

The Navy's enlistment requirements have been relaxed in regard to dependency status and mental tests scores, it has been announced by the local Navy Recruiting Station.

Men having one dependent, married or one person dependent upon them for support, can now be enlisted in the ratings of Seaman Recruit and Seaman Apprentice, pay grades E-1 and E-2 respectively.

For all higher ratings, pay grades E-3 and above, there are no longer any restrictions as to number of dependents.

Mental requirements have been reduced with a lower minimum passing score now permitted on the Armed Forces Qualification Test.

At present, recruit quotas are unlimited and it is expected that this condition will continue as the Navy urgently seeks to obtain the maximum enlistments in the shortest possible time, the local office reported.

Judge Welcomes New American Citizen

Judge George Henderson is shown congratulating Mrs. Edith May Jones, Lonaconing, shortly after she renounced her British citizenship and became a citizen of the United States yesterday. In the group, left to right, are C. R. Berg, chief examiner, Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service, Baltimore; Mrs. Jones, Judge Henderson, who administered the oath, and Judge Morgan C. Harris, who also welcomed Mrs. Jones. The ceremony took place in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Special Services To Mark Jewish Festival Of Lights

Chanuko To Be Held In Religious Schools

Chanuko, the eight-day Festival of Lights, is being marked this week by members of the two local Jewish congregations and special services and programs are planned tonight and Sunday at B'er Chayim Temple and Beth Jacob Congregation.

A holiday service including a festival of music and the kindling of the Menorah will take place tonight at 7:30 p. m at B'er Chayim Temple with Rabbi Herbert J. Wilner officiating.

The musical portion of the program will be presented by John Gridley, organist, Mrs. Blanche Gunter, soprano, and Cletus Hartsock, baritone.

Following the service the upper classes of the Religious School will present a holiday program in the Vestry in place of the sermon.

The cast includes Carol Jean Hersch, Arthur Lazarus, George Eskin, Bernard Beerman, Edmund Goldman, Marla Pariser, Fern Kaplon, Bobby Millenson, Richard Schwalb, Louise Mirkin, Emerson Miller, Howard Feldstein and Howard Mendelsohn.

A social hour with refreshment will conclude the evening service at the Temple to which the public is invited, Rabbi Wilner said.

To Present Program

Sunday at 11 a. m. the entire Religious School will present a program at the congregation in which every child will perform. Entitled "A Chanuko Play Is Born At B'er Chayim," the project was conceived through the cooperation of Mrs. Faye Hersch, Rabbi Wilner and members of the upper classes. All parents and friends are invited to participate in the festival Sunday.

The sisterhood of B'er Chayim will mark the festival of Chanuko by holding its annual Donor dinner Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the Vestry. This is the evening of the eighth candle. Mrs. Harry Beneman is chairman and her committee

War Bride Naturalized In Significant Ceremony

Although only a handful of spectators saw the performance, a significant drama was unfolded yesterday afternoon in the Allegany County Circuit court room on the ninth anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day.

The occasion was the naturalization of a new American citizen. Few more significant names could have been selected for the new citizen. Her name is Mrs. Jones—Mrs. Edith May Jones, 13 Railroad Street, Lonaconing.

Actually, had there not been a Pearl Harbor Day nine years ago, Mrs. Jones might not have been standing in the court room yesterday to swear allegiance to the United States of America.

For just 19 days after Pearl Harbor Day, when the United States was thrust into World War II, Edwar Jones, who had lived in Lonaconing all his life, enlisted in the Army Air Force. In August, 1942, Jones found himself in Ireland, a year later he met the future Mrs. Jones and in 1944 they were married at Preston, in Lancashire County, England. She has resided in Lonaconing since April, 1946.

Becomes Citizen

After Mrs. Jones swore an oath of allegiance to the United States and thereby became an American citizen, the two judges present for the ceremony reminded Mrs. Jones of her rights and duties as an American citizen. Although the words were directed to Mrs. Jones they might have been addressed to all citizens of Allegany county.

First to speak was Associate Judge George Henderson, who gave Mrs. Jones the oath which made her an American citizen.

"All of the basic principles of American citizenship also are a part of the foundation of the government of Great Britain under which you formerly lived," Judge Henderson began. "The United States and Great Britain recognize the same basic rights of the individual and it is this recognition that makes our countries democracies," the judge continued.

"We see in the world at present two armed camps. On the one side are the nations that recognize the rights of the individuals. On the other side the people have no such rights. The State is supreme and it owes no duty to its citizens," Judge Henderson concluded.

He then called upon Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who attended the ceremony as an observer. In his brief remarks he referred to the history of democracies.

"You are now a citizen of a great democracy which is only 163 years old. Other democracies are older and some democracies of the past have disappeared. I refer to the republics of Venice, Athens, Genoa and Florence. All came to the same end because great powers were granted to selfish men.

"Today the United States is theratened with the possibility of a third World War. It may be necessary for many men in this country to fight to preserve the freedoms that we hold dear," Judge Harris concluded.

Cites Change In Law

Mrs. Jones was recommended for citizenship by C. R. Berg, chief examiner, Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service, Baltimore, who gave the Lonaconing woman a preliminary examination some months ago.

Weather

Heavy rains amounting to .49 inches caused some concern in regard to flood threats yesterday, but with temperatures dropping late last night, it seemed that these threats would cease. Temperatures in Constitution Park rose from a low of 36 degrees to a high of 53 degrees. The forecast for today calls for rain with strong winds with the rain changing to snow. Much lower temperatures are reported.

West Side Flood Work To Expand

Contractors of the local flood-control project hope to begin work in another West Side area by Wednesday of next week, Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer, reported yesterday.

Work has been coming along in fine shape in the West Side Park, although slowed up considerably lately by bad weather, Dickson said, and it is planned to begin the smaller pipe line behind the old West Side Garage and on Smallwood Street next week if possible.

The pipe to be laid in this area ranges from 24 to 40 inches and is much smaller than that being laid in the park. A new crew will work on this area of the project.

The heating plant which has been set up by George and Lynch, Inc., contractors, for mixing and laying cement during the cold weather, will enable work to progress on schedule in the West Side area and it is hoped the work will be finished by next spring, Dickson related.

Cleanup of this phase of the flood project on the West Side and in the Frederick Street area should be completed on time if very bad weather or a delay of shipment of materials because of the Korean conflict doesn't hold up the work, he said.

Gas Station Zoning Appeal Is Dismissed

Board Gives Ruling In Callis Case

Charles D. Callis, Route 2, Williams Road, appeared before the board last October 25 when a hearing was held on his appeal. Action was tabled at that time. The site comprises Lots 13 and 14, Block 17, Louisiana Avenue.

The two vacant lots are in a residential zoning district, but Callis urged granting of the permit under zoning ordinance regulations permitting special exceptions.

Callis cited the section on board procedure calling for "consideration of present physical conditions on the premises and in the vicinity."

At the October hearing, a number of neighborhood residents filed a petition opposing the proposed service station and testified against granting a permit for any business use in a residential district.

In its ruling, the board pointed out that "a careful persual of this section (on permissible exceptions) of the zoning ordinance does not disclose a single ground upon which to base an approval of the permit.

"While the Board is of the opinion that the premises would be proper for a gasoline service station and did recommend to the Mayor and Council that this area be made business; nevertheless the Mayor and Council saw fit to allow the ordinance to stand unchanged as to the area.

"The Board must be guided and is bound by the ordinance; hence, the appeal will be dismissed and the issuance of the permit disapproved."

Flames Destroy Caddy Shop At Country Club

Night Watchman Discovers Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the one-story frame caddy shop at the Cumberland Country Club on Christie Road late last night but did not spread to the new clubhouse.

The two-room building, approximately 24 by 28 feet in size, was burned to the ground. The blaze was discovered about 11 o'clock by Charles Callis, a night watchman.

Some six firemen from the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm. Unable to save the auxiliary building, the fire fighters endeavored to keep the flames away from the new clubhouse, located some 200 feet away.

Carroll Boggs, club pro, estimated that about $1,500 in golf equipment was destroyed in the flames.

The former club house was destroyed by fire April 5, 1949. In that blaze the caddy house was not touched. The new club house, costing well over $100,000, was opened in July.

The volunteer firemen last night were hampered in their efforts because they had to pump water from Evitts Creek, some 300 yards downhill from the building. There was a strong wind, but fortunately it carried sparks away from the clubhouse.

Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, and LaVale Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the call and arrived moments after Baltimore Pike.

Firemen had the blaze under control by 12:15 a.m.

Pair Charged With Larceny In Mine Theft

D'Agostino, Sugars Warrants Issued

Two area men picked up in connection with the theft of 2,000 feet of trolley wire from a Georges Creek mine have admitted the theft and are being charged with grand larceny.

This was reported last night by the State's Attorney office.

Authorities said warrants have been issued against Frank D'Agostino, Keyser, W. Va., and John Sugars, of McCoole.

The State's Attorney's office said the men admitted going to the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company near Barton about 9:30 p. m. on November 27 with a truck, tearing down the wire and taking it to Johnstown, Pa., where they sold it to a junk dealer the following morning.

A check for $76 was made out to D'Agostino, who cashed it in Windber, Pa., and the pair split the money, authorities said.

D'Agostino at first claimed he was at home Tuesday morning, when the alleged transaction took place, but in a statement signed late yesterday afternoon he admitted taking part in the theft, the State's Attorney's office reported.

Also questioned in the case was Harry Whetzel, of Great Cacapon, W. Va., owner of the truck used by the two men, whom he empolys in his junk business. However, Whetzel had no connection with the theft, authorities said.

In his first statement, D'Agostino admitted riding to Johnstown with Sugars but otherwise denied participation in the case.

Aviation Boost Among Business Men Is Urged

Airport Operator Offers Proposal

A plan to promote aviation interest among local businessmen was suggested last night by Warren Mullenax, operator of the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Mullenax made the suggestion at a meeting of the Airport Commission at City Hall.

He asked the group to co-operate in working out details.

Mullenax commented that he saw 12 to 15 business planes at a field in York, Pa.

Three large area industries use company planes but they are based in other cities and therefore there is no revenue here from gas and maintenance, Mullenax said.

G. Wyatt Brenaman suggested that Mullenax address local service clubs on the advantages to business men of flying.

Mullenax indicated he would be interested in continuing operation of the field for another year. His one-year contract with the city expires February 28.

He said all of the hangars are rented and that conditions are good except that the Korean war has cut down interest among young people in learning to fly.

Mayor Thomas S. Post told the group that All American Airways has requested painting of a white strip down the center of No. 1 runway to aid airliners in landing.

The mayor said the paint has been ordered. Charles F. Heller, maintenance foreman, said the strip would be painted when weather conditions improve.

Brenaman suggested checking Civil Aeronautics Administration regulations regarding width of the strip.

The commission renewed a previous recommendation to provide a fire hydrant midway of the long line of frame hangars. Heller said a concrete block structure could be built to house a connection to the water line, with a valve and threads for connecting hose. The structure would be built flush with the earth.

Added fire protection would reduce insurance costs, Heller said.

Local Postoffice To Hire 87 Employes

Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr., assistant postmaster, said yesterday that plans are underway to hire approximately 87 new employes for the Christmas rush. This will be the same amount as was hired last season, he said.

As soon as applications are made and bonds can be posted, the applicants will be called to work, Cumiskey said.

Blunk Elected Chairman Of Airport Group

Commission Defers Naming New Member

Adolf Blunk, a member of the Municipal Airport Commission for the past three years, was elected chairman last night at a meeting of the group in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Blunk succeeds Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who resigned from the commission several weeks ago after serving as chairman since the group was organized in 1946.

The new chairman is president of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, a post he has held for the past 15 years. He joined the company three years previously as vice-president.

Blunk is vice president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, a post president of Central YMCA and a member of the Rotary Club and the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

He was appointed to the airport group in 1947 when Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney, resigned to become a member of the State Aviation Commission.

Also elected last night were G. Wyatt Brenaman as recording secretary and Oscar Gurley as corresponding secretary.

T. Donald Shires resigned as secretary last night but retained his membership on the commission.

Members decided to defer selection of a new member to succeed Burke until a later meeting.

The group also includes Arthur J. Weber and Thomas Lohr Richards, with Mayor Post as an ex-officio member.

Jury Disagrees In $10,000 Case

The third hung jury in the current session of Allegany County Circuit Court occurred yesterday afternoon when the jurors hearing a case involving a contract to purchase oats became hopelessly deadlocked.

The jury was out for over two hours yesterday afternoon and subsequently reported to Judge George Henderson that it was impossible for the veniremen to agree.

This case originally was docketed in Washington County Circuit Court but was transferred here last spring.

Cargill, Inc., a Minneapolis, Minn., firm with an office in Baltimore, brought suit against the Eastern Grain Growers, a West Virginia corporation doing business in Hagerstown, for $10,000 allegedly due under a contract made between the two firms in April, 1948.

The plaintiff asserted the contract called for purchase by the defendant in 1948 of 37,500 bushels of oats which were to have been sold in Virginia cities. Cargill, Inc., said that only 11,000 bushels were purchased.

Cargill, Inc., asserted that in June, 1949, the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff $8,598.25. At the trial which began Wednesday and continued until noon yesterday, the defendant reportedly acknowledged indebtedness of only $1,025 to the plaintiff, according to W. Earle Cobey, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Dr. Gross Speaks To Secretary Group

Dr. Gertrude Gross, physchiatrist of Springfield State Hospital, spoke on the "Boss and the Secretary" at a meeting of Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, held this week at Central YMCA.

Following the dinner meeting a white elephant sale was held.

Plans were made for a Jingle Party and Birthday Party to be held Wednesday in the club room at the YMCA. Each member is asked to bring a jingle present and a gift for a child, all of which are to be given to Associated Charities.

Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell presided at the meeting. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Ella Darling, phychiatric consultant in Cumberland.

Meyers Attends House Hearing

George Meyers, former area resident, was among three ranking Communist leaders attending a public hearing in Washington Wednesday by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

This was reported in a story in yesterday's Washington Times-Herald.

Meyers is labor secretary for the Communist party in Washington and Maryland.

He and two other Communist officials were surrounded by detectives and other security agents in plain clothes during testimony by Henry Thomas, chief of an AFL Building Laborers local and former Communist member for 10 years.

Trooper Transferred

Maryland State Trooper Donald R. Wade, Frostburg, who has been stationed at Damascus under the Waterloo command, has been transferred to Barracks C, LaVale, State Police have announced. He will report for duty Saturday.

Seeks Beer License

Thornton R. Twigg yesterday filed an application with the Allegany County Liquor Control Board for a beer license at Fairgo Tavern on McMullen Highway.

C. And O. Canal Parkway Report Is Received Here

The construction of a parkway along the route of the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was termed "practical and advisable in addition to being economical to construct" in a report of a joint survey of the Bureau of Public Roads and the National Park Service.

Copies of the report released by Dale E. Doty, assistant secretary of the Interior, were received here yesterday.

The report consists of an 87 page booklet containing about 20 photographs of the area, as well as many sketches of proposed changes in the section. Six maps and graphs to show the exact location of the proposed parkway are included.

Estimated cost of construction for the 168 miles was listed as $17,107,000, which includes provision for 25 miles of four-lane roadway, the remainder being two-lane. The project includes restoration of water to 26 miles of the canal, the reconditioning of historic structures, and a modest number of new buildings for recreational needs.

Citing the necessity of acquiring more land for the project, the report proposes the construction of a parkway, "provided the State of Maryland will make provision for the acquisition without cost to the Federal Government of the additional lands needed for rights-of-way for the parkway."

Average daily traffic in the section adjacent to Great Falls was estimated at 2,510 vehicles per day with peak days running upward of 8,500 vehicles per day.

The wide variety of scenery along the route is desirable from the viewpoint of a parkway, the report asserts. From a historical approach, it states, "not only is the canal itself a historic landmark, but the country through which it passes is identified with the most important parts of our history as a nation.

"Such themes are presented as the Braddock expedition, Fort Frederick as a protector of our colonial frontier and, in more recent times Antietam, Harpers Ferry, and the several crossings of the Potomac in the invasion of the North during the Civil War."

Floods of the Potomac River do not make the construction of a parkway inadvisable, the booklet continues, because such occurances will interrupt traffic for only a day or so every five or six years.

The flat country of the area is looked upon as desirable from the viewpoint of making construction of roadways easier and because there would be an absence of sharp curves and steep grades in the highways.

Births Announced

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt T. Keefer, 315 Pennsylvania Avenue, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Hoey, 14 N. Chase Street, a daughter yesterday. Hoey is city recreation director.

Allegany Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Briner, 521 Baltimore Avenue, a daughter last night.

Volunteer Firemen Fight Blaze

Area volunteer firemen are seen fighting a blaze of undetermined origin which destroyed the caddy shop at the Cumberland Country Club late last night. Firemen had the blaze, which destroyed the one story building and equipment valued at about $1,500, under control about 12:15 a. m. The new club, some 200 feet away, was not damaged.

Actually, had there not been a Pearl Harbor Day nine years ago, Mrs. Jones might not have been standing in the court room yesterday to swear allegiance to the United States of America.

For just 19 days after Pearl Harbor Day, when the United States was thrust into World War II, Edwar Jones, who had lived in Lonaconing all his life, enlisted in the Army Air Force. In August, 1942, Jones found himself in Ireland, a year later he met the future Mrs. Jones and in 1944 they were married at Preston, in Lancashire County, England. She has resided in Lonaconing since April, 1946.

Becomes Citizen

After Mrs. Jones swore an oath of allegiance to the United States and thereby became an American citizen, the two judges present for the ceremony reminded Mrs. Jones of her rights and duties as an American citizen. Although the words were directed to Mrs. Jones they might have been addressed to all citizens of Allegany county.

First to speak was Associate Judge George Henderson, who gave Mrs. Jones the oath which made her an American citizen.

"All of the basic principles of American citizenship also are a part of the foundation of the government of Great Britain under which you formerly lived," Judge Henderson began. "The United States and Great Britain recognize the same basic rights of the individual and it is this recognition that makes our countries democracies," the judge continued.

"We see in the world at present two armed camps. On the one side are the nations that recognize the rights of the individuals. On the other side the people have no such rights. The State is supreme and it owes no duty to its citizens," Judge Henderson concluded.

He then called upon Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who attended the ceremony as an observer. In his brief remarks he referred to the history of democracies.

"You are now a citizen of a great democracy which is only 163 years old. Other democracies are older and some democracies of the past have disappeared. I refer to the republics of Venice, Athens, Genoa and Florence. All came to the same end because great powers were granted to selfish men.

"Today the United States is theratened with the possibility of a third World War. It may be necessary for many men in this country to fight to preserve the freedoms that we hold dear," Judge Harris concluded.

Cites Change In Law

Mrs. Jones was recommended for citizenship by C. R. Berg, chief examiner, Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service, Baltimore, who gave the Lonaconing woman a preliminary examination some months ago.

Weather

Heavy rains amounting to .49 inches caused some concern in regard to flood threats yesterday, but with temperatures dropping late last night, it seemed that these threats would cease. Temperatures in Constitution Park rose from a low of 36 degrees to a high of 53 degrees. The forecast for today calls for rain with strong winds with the rain changing to snow. Much lower temperatures are reported.

West Side Flood Work To Expand

Contractors of the local flood-control project hope to begin work in another West Side area by Wednesday of next week, Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer, reported yesterday.

Work has been coming along in fine shape in the West Side Park, although slowed up considerably lately by bad weather, Dickson said, and it is planned to begin the smaller pipe line behind the old West Side Garage and on Smallwood Street next week if possible.

The pipe to be laid in this area ranges from 24 to 40 inches and is much smaller than that being laid in the park. A new crew will work on this area of the project.

The heating plant which has been set up by George and Lynch, Inc., contractors, for mixing and laying cement during the cold weather, will enable work to progress on schedule in the West Side area and it is hoped the work will be finished by next spring, Dickson related.

Cleanup of this phase of the flood project on the West Side and in the Frederick Street area should be completed on time if very bad weather or a delay of shipment of materials because of the Korean conflict doesn't hold up the work, he said.

Gas Station Zoning Appeal Is Dismissed

Board Gives Ruling In Callis Case

A zoning appeal for the location of a service station on Louisiana Avenue at the corner of Hill Top Drive was rejected yesterday in a ruling by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Charles D. Callis, Route 2, Williams Road, appeared before the board last October 25 when a hearing was held on his appeal. Action was tabled at that time. The site comprises Lots 13 and 14, Block 17, Louisiana Avenue.

The two vacant lots are in a residential zoning district, but Callis urged granting of the permit under zoning ordinance regulations permitting special exceptions.

Callis cited the section on board procedure calling for "consideration of present physical conditions on the premises and in the vicinity."

At the October hearing, a number of neighborhood residents filed a petition opposing the proposed service station and testified against granting a permit for any business use in a residential district.

In its ruling, the board pointed out that "a careful persual of this section (on permissible exceptions) of the zoning ordinance does not disclose a single ground upon which to base an approval of the permit.

"While the Board is of the opinion that the premises would be proper for a gasoline service station and did recommend to the Mayor and Council that this area be made business; nevertheless the Mayor and Council saw fit to allow the ordinance to stand unchanged as to the area.

"The Board must be guided and is bound by the ordinance; hence, the appeal will be dismissed and the issuance of the permit disapproved."

Flames Destroy Caddy Shop At Country Club

Night Watchman Discovers Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the one-story frame caddy shop at the Cumberland Country Club on Christie Road late last night but did not spread to the new clubhouse.

The two-room building, approximately 24 by 28 feet in size, was burned to the ground. The blaze was discovered about 11 o'clock by Charles Callis, a night watchman.

Some six firemen from the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm. Unable to save the auxiliary building, the fire fighters endeavored to keep the flames away from the new clubhouse, located some 200 feet away.

Carroll Boggs, club pro, estimated that about $1,500 in golf equipment was destroyed in the flames.

The former club house was destroyed by fire April 5, 1949. In that blaze the caddy house was not touched. The new club house, costing well over $100,000, was opened in July.

The volunteer firemen last night were hampered in their efforts because they had to pump water from Evitts Creek, some 300 yards downhill from the building. There was a strong wind, but fortunately it carried sparks away from the clubhouse.

Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, and LaVale Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the call and arrived moments after Baltimore Pike.

Firemen had the blaze under control by 12:15 a.m.

Pair Charged With Larceny In Mine Theft

D'Agostino, Sugars Warrants Issued

Two area men picked up in connection with the theft of 2,000 feet of trolley wire from a Georges Creek mine have admitted the theft and are being charged with grand larceny.

This was reported last night by the State's Attorney office.

Authorities said warrants have been issued against Frank D'Agostino, Keyser, W. Va., and John Sugars, of McCoole.

The State's Attorney's office said the men admitted going to the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company near Barton about 9:30 p. m. on November 27 with a truck, tearing down the wire and taking it to Johnstown, Pa., where they sold it to a junk dealer the following morning.

A check for $76 was made out to D'Agostino, who cashed it in Windber, Pa., and the pair split the money, authorities said.

D'Agostino at first claimed he was at home Tuesday morning, when the alleged transaction took place, but in a statement signed late yesterday afternoon he admitted taking part in the theft, the State's Attorney's office reported.

Also questioned in the case was Harry Whetzel, of Great Cacapon, W. Va., owner of the truck used by the two men, whom he empolys in his junk business. However, Whetzel had no connection with the theft, authorities said.

In his first statement, D'Agostino admitted riding to Johnstown with Sugars but otherwise denied participation in the case.

Aviation Boost Among Business Men Is Urged

Airport Operator Offers Proposal

A plan to promote aviation interest among local businessmen was suggested last night by Warren Mullenax, operator of the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Mullenax made the suggestion at a meeting of the Airport Commission at City Hall.

He asked the group to co-operate in working out details.

Mullenax commented that he saw 12 to 15 business planes at a field in York, Pa.

Three large area industries use company planes but they are based in other cities and therefore there is no revenue here from gas and maintenance, Mullenax said.

G. Wyatt Brenaman suggested that Mullenax address local service clubs on the advantages to business men of flying.

Mullenax indicated he would be interested in continuing operation of the field for another year. His one-year contract with the city expires February 28.

He said all of the hangars are rented and that conditions are good except that the Korean war has cut down interest among young people in learning to fly.

Mayor Thomas S. Post told the group that All American Airways has requested painting of a white strip down the center of No. 1 runway to aid airliners in landing.

The mayor said the paint has been ordered. Charles F. Heller, maintenance foreman, said the strip would be painted when weather conditions improve.

Brenaman suggested checking Civil Aeronautics Administration regulations regarding width of the strip.

The commission renewed a previous recommendation to provide a fire hydrant midway of the long line of frame hangars. Heller said a concrete block structure could be built to house a connection to the water line, with a valve and threads for connecting hose. The structure would be built flush with the earth.

Added fire protection would reduce insurance costs, Heller said.

Local Postoffice To Hire 87 Employes

Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr., assistant postmaster, said yesterday that plans are underway to hire approximately 87 new employes for the Christmas rush. This will be the same amount as was hired last season, he said.

As soon as applications are made and bonds can be posted, the applicants will be called to work, Cumiskey said.

Blunk Elected Chairman Of Airport Group

Commission Defers Naming New Member

Adolf Blunk, a member of the Municipal Airport Commission for the past three years, was elected chairman last night at a meeting of the group in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Blunk succeeds Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who resigned from the commission several weeks ago after serving as chairman since the group was organized in 1946.

The new chairman is president of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, a post he has held for the past 15 years. He joined the company three years previously as vice-president.

Blunk is vice president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, a post president of Central YMCA and a member of the Rotary Club and the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

He was appointed to the airport group in 1947 when Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney, resigned to become a member of the State Aviation Commission.

Also elected last night were G. Wyatt Brenaman as recording secretary and Oscar Gurley as corresponding secretary.

T. Donald Shires resigned as secretary last night but retained his membership on the commission.

Members decided to defer selection of a new member to succeed Burke until a later meeting.

Jury Disagrees In $10,000 Case

The third hung jury in the current session of Allegany County Circuit Court occurred yesterday afternoon when the jurors hearing a case involving a contract to purchase oats became hopelessly deadlocked.

The jury was out for over two hours yesterday afternoon and subsequently reported to Judge George Henderson that it was impossible for the veniremen to agree.

This case originally was docketed in Washington County Circuit Court but was transferred here last spring.

Cargill, Inc., a Minneapolis, Minn., firm with an office in Baltimore, brought suit against the Eastern Grain Growers, a West Virginia corporation doing business in Hagerstown, for $10,000 allegedly due under a contract made between the two firms in April, 1948.

The plaintiff asserted the contract called for purchase by the defendant in 1948 of 37,500 bushels of oats which were to have been sold in Virginia cities. Cargill, Inc., said that only 11,000 bushels were purchased.

Cargill, Inc., asserted that in June, 1949, the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff $8,598.25. At the trial which began Wednesday and continued until noon yesterday, the defendant reportedly acknowledged indebtedness of only $1,025 to the plaintiff, according to W. Earle Cobey, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Dr. Gross Speaks To Secretary Group

Dr. Gertrude Gross, physchiatrist of Springfield State Hospital, spoke on the "Boss and the Secretary" at a meeting of Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, held this week at Central YMCA.

Following the dinner meeting a white elephant sale was held.

Plans were made for a Jingle Party and Birthday Party to be held Wednesday in the club room at the YMCA. Each member is asked to bring a jingle present and a gift for a child, all of which are to be given to Associated Charities.

Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell presided at the meeting. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Ella Darling, phychiatric consultant in Cumberland.

Meyers Attends House Hearing

George Meyers, former area resident, was among three ranking Communist leaders attending a public hearing in Washington Wednesday by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

This was reported in a story in yesterday's Washington Times-Herald.

Meyers is labor secretary for the Communist party in Washington and Maryland.

He and two other Communist officials were surrounded by detectives and other security agents in plain clothes during testimony by Henry Thomas, chief of an AFL Building Laborers local and former Communist member for 10 years.

Trooper Transferred

Maryland State Trooper Donald R. Wade, Frostburg, who has been stationed at Damascus under the Waterloo command, has been transferred to Barracks C. LaVale, State Police have announced. He will report for duty Saturday.

Seeks Beer License

C. And O. Canal Parkway Report Is Received Here

The construction of a parkway along the route of the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was termed "practical and advisable in addition to being economical to construct" in a report of a joint survey of the Bureau of Public Roads and the National Park Service.

Copies of the report released by Dale E. Doty, assistant secretary of the Interior, were received here yesterday.

The report consists of an 87 page booklet containing about 20 photographs of the area, as well as many sketches of proposed changes in the section. Six maps and graphs to show the exact location of the proposed parkway are included.

Estimated cost of construction for the 168 miles was listed as $17,107,000, which includes provision for 25 miles of four-lane roadway, the remainder being two-lane. The project includes restoration of water to 26 miles of the canal, the reconditioning of historic structures, and a modest number of new buildings for recreational needs.

Citing the necessity of acquiring more land for the project, the report proposes the construction of a parkway, "provided the State of Maryland will make provision for the acquisition without cost to the Federal Government of the additional lands needed for rights-of-way for the parkway."

Average daily traffic in the section adjacent to Great Falls was estimated at 2,510 vehicles per day with peak days running upward of 3,500 vehicles per day.

The wide variety of scenery along the route is desirable from the viewpoint of a parkway, the report asserts. From a historical approach, it states, "not only is the canal itself a historic landmark, but the country through which it passes is identified with the most important parts of our history as a nation.

"Such themes are presented as the Braddock expedition, Fort Frederick as a protector of our colonial frontier and, in more recent times Antietam, Harpers Ferry, and the several crossings of the Potomac in the invasion of the North during the Civil War."

Floods of the Potomac River do not make the construction of a parkway inadvisable, the booklet continues, because such occurances will interrupt traffic for only a day or so every five or six years.

The flat country of the area is looked upon as desirable from the viewpoint of making construction of roadways easier and because there would be an absence of sharp curves and steep grades in the highways.

Births Announced

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt T. Keefer, 315 Pennsylvania Avenue, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Hoey, 14 N. Chase Street, a daughter yesterday. Hoey is city recreation director.

Allegany Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Briner, 521 Baltimore Avenue, a daughter last night.

Volunteer Firemen Fight Blaze

Area volunteer firemen are seen fighting a blaze of undetermined origin which destroyed the caddy shop at the Cumberland Country Club late last night. Firemen had the blaze, which destroyed the one story building and equipment valued at about $1,500, under control about 12:15 a. m. The new club, some 200 feet away, was not damaged.
